Attlee Decrees Moderation In H-Bomb Debate

Will Not Seek Vote Of Censure In Parliament

LONDON, April 3 (AP)—Clement Attlee held a tight rein on the Labor party today in what political informants said was an effort to prevent hydrogen bomb fears from being exploited to harm British-American relations.

Former Prime Minister Attlee has also talked his fellow Laborites out of launching a full scale assault on the prestige of his aging political rival — Prime Minister Churchill.

This unusual political situation has developed out of the U. S. H-bomb tests in the Pacific which have caused concern to all sections of the British public.

In the House of Commons debate on the H-bomb Monday the Laborites will not seek to censure Churchill's government. Instead they will ask the Prime Minister to try to arrange a Churchill-Eisenhower-Malenkov meeting on the subject.

Attlee will open Monday's debate. Churchill will follow him. Political writers believe Churchill well may agree—when the time is ripe—for Britain to take the initiative in suggesting a Big Three meeting on thermonuclear problems.

The 71-year-old opposition leader won the Laborites over to a moderate approach at a party caucus Thursday night. Persons present said Attlee delivered the speech of his life.

The meeting was closed, but newspapers carried reports Attlee had said "we are not going to make party capital out of this issue." He said the party must avoid the temptation to embarrass the government.

The censure motion originally sought by left wing Laborites would have called for the halting of further American hydrogen bomb tests. It would have forced a debate in which British-American relations would be an issue.

Attlee's call for restraint appeared to strike a responsive cord even among Aneurin Bevan's left wing Laborites and the party's pacifist bloc.

As newspapers and pictures told of the awesome force of American H-bombs, these undertones devel-

Family Of Five Killed As Truck And Car Collide

HOUSTON, April 3—UP—An automobile that was trying to pass two other cars and a bus smashed into an oncoming cattle truck near Houston Saturday and a family of five persons was wiped out.

The automobile — all of the victims were in it — was hurled 45 feet. The center of the automobile was squeezed to a total width of two feet. It took more than an hour to get the last two bodies out of the wreckage.

The victims were Harvey Lee Blum, 29; his wife, Mabel, 29; their children, Linda Gale, three, and Judy Dianne, three months, and Blum's mother, Mrs. Ed Blum.

All except Mrs. Ed Blum were from Houston. She had been helping out her daughter-in-law because Linda Gale's collar bone was broken recently and her son was taking her back home to Brenham, Tex.

The wreck happened in a heavy fog. Ed Patton, a Negro, said Blum tried to pass his (Patton's) automobile, another automobile and a bus.

Patton said Blum was only part of the way around when the bus roared up out of the fog in the left lane. The driver, Frank Moore Jr., and Blum swerved at the last moment and truck and automobile met on the shoulder of the highway. The truck hit the right side of the car.

Moore of Sonora, Tex., was only momentarily dazed.

Senate Probers To Re-Question Counsel Sears

WASHINGTON, April 3 (AP)—Sen. Mundt (R-SD) agreed today, in response to Democratic demands, to call the Senate Investigations subcommittee together Monday to seek "reassurance" from Samuel P. Sears that he will be objective in proving the McCarthy-Army row.

COUNSEL IN ARMY VS. M'CARTHY ROW—Samuel P. Sears of Boston, newly appointed counsel for the Senate subcommittee investigating the controversy between Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy and the Army, now is the center of a controversy between Republicans and Democrats on the subcommittee. He will appear before the group tomorrow for re-questioning as to whether he can serve impartially. Demos charge that in the past he has publicly supported Sen. McCarthy.

Earlier Mundt had told newsmen that he did not intend to have a meeting of the subcommittee Monday to question Sears, a Boston lawyer named as special counsel for the investigation, about statements quoting him as praising Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis).

Democratic members of the subcommittee insisted, however, that they want to ask Sears about these statements before he gets to work preparing for public hearings on the charges exchanged by McCarthy and high Army officials.

"This has to be the first order of business," Sen. Jackson (D-Wash) told newsmen shortly before Mundt disclosed that, on Sears' return here Monday, he will call the subcommittee members to meet with him.

Mundt temporarily has replaced McCarthy as the subcommittee chairman while the investigation is made.

Sears said at a news conference here Thursday, when his appointment as special counsel was announced, that he had never publicly or privately taken a stand on McCarthy or "McCarthyism."

Later in the day Boston newspaper files showed that he had hailed McCarthy's re-election in 1952 and had predicted the senator would continue to drive "pinks and commies out of government."

He also was quoted by the Harvard Crimson, student newspaper at the university, as saying he had tried to raise money for McCarthy's reelection campaign.

Mundt said that Sears' statement here, in answer to a reporter's question, that he had never publicly or privately taken a stand on McCarthy or "McCarthyism" was an answer "which could or could not indicate lack of candor."

The senator said it was a sort of "double edged" question in that "it linked two different factors to-

Commissr. Andrews A Tax Delinquent

RICHMOND, Va., April 3 (AP)—The nation's internal revenue commissioner has been fined $25 for failing to file his Viriginia income tax by the Jan. 15 deadline.

Big-3 Move To Renew UN Efforts On Disarmament

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., April 3 (AP)—The Western Big Three powers urged today an early meeting of the U.N. Disarmament Commission as debate raged around the world over the force of American hydrogen bomb tests.

The ultimate goal is to spare the world from the threat of mass destruction blasts.

The United States, Britain and France proposed the meeting to determine whether secret talks on disarmament, aimed toward agreement on control of atomic energy, can be launched. This course was recommended by the U.N. General Assembly last November.

Russia appeared to welcome the idea of the meeting, it was indicated after Britain's Sir Pierson Dixon called on Russia's Andrei Vishinsky this morning to advise him of the step the Western Allies were taking.

T. F. Tsiang, Nationalist Chinese delegate and chairman of the Disarmament Commission for April, said he planned to call the meeting during the coming week.

British and American sources here said that recent bomb tests in the Pacific, demands for a U.S.-Russian atomic "standstill" by India's Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru, and British Labor party protests about atomic policy did not figure immediately in the request for a commission meeting.

The Western Allies have been discussing their next step on disarmament since the Big Four meeting at Berlin decided that the four powers should continue work on a disarmament program.

The U.N. Disarmament Commission consists of 11 members of the U.N. Security Council plus Canada. These include the council's five veto-powered permanent members—the United States, Britain,

Sondheimer Boy Dies At Tallulah Of Heart Attack

SONDHEIMER, April 3 (Special)—The second northeast Louisiana boy to drop dead from a heart attack in the past week was reported from Sondheimer as 18-year-old E. M. "Sonny" Warbington, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tup Wise, Sondheimer, who died in the offices of a Tallulah doctor Saturday.

Earlier in the week Chester Norris, Jr. an eleven-year-old fifth grader of Dubach died at his school of a heart attack.

The Warbington boy had gone to the doctor's office for treatment of an injured leg. He was described as weighing about 270 pounds, but had no previous record of heart trouble. He was a junior at Lake Providence High School and had resided in Sondheimer all his life.

Funeral arrangements were incomplete, but services will be held tomorrow at 2:00 p.m. under the direction of Catron-Gay of Lake Providence.

Two High Officials Narrowly Escape

Noted French Pilot Dies In Crash Of Jet Fighter

PARIS, April 3 (AP)—A French jet fighter plane crashed during a demonstration today and parts of the exploding craft landed within 55 yards of Defense Minister Rene Pleven and his guest, Duncan Sandys, British minister of supply. Sandys is a son-in-law of Prime Minister Churchill.

Col. Constantin Rozanoff, 49, at the controls of the Mystere IV, France's latest model jet fighter, met instant death. A native of Poland, he was one of France's most famous pilots. Last October he pushed a Mystere IV to a speed of 837 miles an hour.

The group with Pleven and Sandys included French Air Minister Louis Christiaens and British Air Marshal G. B. A. Baker. They had come to Melun-Villaroche airport, about 35 miles southeast of Paris, to see performances of late model French planes.

Witnesses gave this account:

Rozanoff took off while the small group of officials were watching several other types of planes perform. He climbed at a high speed, then put his plane into a dive that swept close to the ground over the heads of the group.

On a second sweep he pulled up a little in what appeared to be an attempt to avoid passing over the spectators. But the low flying plane encountered a strong gust of wind. One wing touched the ground. The plane crashed, exploded and burst into flames. Parts were hurled in all directions.

Rozanoff in World War II commanded the famed Lafayette fighting group in North Africa. He left the armed forces in 1946, became a civilian test pilot and was the first French pilot to break through the sound barrier in a French-manufactured jet.

New Constitution Sought For State

Proposal Given Full Backing Of Bar Association

Bill Prepared For Submission To Legislature

NEW ORLEANS, April 3 (AP)—The Louisiana State Bar Association today recommended that a convention be called with power to "frame and adopt" a new constitution for Louisiana.

The bar association released the text of a proposed bill calling for the convention and urged its adoption by the Legislature in May.

The bill read:

"The convention shall have the power to frame and adopt a new constitution for the state of Louisiana which will establish a framework of government, but may submit all or any part of such constitution to a vote of the qualified electors of the state at an election which the convention shall call for such time and under such conditions as it may provide."

The report said the Louisiana constitution is the longest and most detailed of any of the 48 states and termed it "too long, too detailed, too cumbersome and too involved."

The Louisiana constitution has been amended 302 times in 33 years. The Constitution of the United States has been amended only 22 times since its adoption.

At present a constitutional amendment must be adopted by a two-thirds vote of the Legislature and then be submitted to the voters at a general election.

The bar association claims many of the subjects covered in amendments deal "with subjects and details which should not be incorporated in the constitution."

It claims that in approving many amendments "people of the entire state are called upon to vote upon provisions that only affect certain localities." Also, the report said, often "amendments to the constitution have been adopted by a vote

Sen. McCarthy Films Reply To Murrow Attack

BOSTON, April 3 (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) said today he has completed a filmed reply to television commentator Edward R. Murrow for showing on Murrow's CBS-TV show next Tuesday night.

McCarthy said the film would show "that Murrow is (1) a liar, and (2) has been of great assistance to the Communist cause." He added he would make the film available to any television station that wants to show it.

The senator's comment was made in the course of a brief news conference at Logan Airport as he arrived to speak tonight at a closed meeting of the Beacon Society, composed of Boston business and professional men.

The film the senator referred to is his reply to a telecast a few weeks ago in which Murrow was critical of McCarthy and his methods of investigating alleged Communist infiltration.

"It was not possible to give the complete picture of Murrow in 25 minutes," McCarthy said. "The time is too short to give all the documentation necessary." He added, however, that he would follow it up and make available to those who want it the full documentation.

The Wisconsin senator, asked for comment on Adlai Stevenson's Friday night speech at Charlotte, N. C., said he had not heard or read the speech.

McCarthy was greeted by cheers, hisses—the cheers predominating—when he entered the airport lobby after his flight from New York. Several persons reached out and shook his hands.

As he left his plane he was heard to say that he "had to see John Fox of the Post first." Fox is the Post publisher. He bought the paper with the avowed purpose of fighting communism.

Rep. Brooks Might Seek Senate Post

Louisiana, Mississippi Delegations To Run For Reelection To Congress

WASHINGTON, April 3 (AP) —They haven't yet reached the formal announcement stage, but most of the Louisiana and Mississippi members of Congress whose terms expire this year have indicated they will be candidates for re-election.

Sen. Allen Ellender (D-La.) and Sen. James Eastland (D.-Miss.) are definitely in the running for another term.

Ellender, whose length of service in the Senate is exceeded only by eight senators, will be seeking his fourth term. Ellender entered the Senate Jan. 3, 1937.

Eastland, 20th in senatorial seniority, is after his third term. He began his service Jan. 3, 1943.

All House members from the two states, with one exception, have definitely told friends they are in the race again this year.

The one exception is Rep. Overton Brooks (D.-La.) who hasn't definitely committed himself as between a race for re-election and a try at the Senate. Brooks is a nephew of former Sen. John Overton (D-La.) and once before, after Overton's death, toyed with the idea of making a senatorial race but ultimately decided against it. Brooks apparently still is canvassing the field but most of his colleagues expect him eventually to seek return to the House.

Brooks is the dean of the Louisiana delegation, having come to the House in 1937. He now is completing his ninth term, and is second ranking Democrat on the House Armed Services Committee.

The record for service among the two state delegations belongs to Rep. William Colmer (D.-Miss.), who entered the House in 1933. He is completing his 11th term. Colmer is seond ranking Democrat on the powerful House Rules Com-

Dr. Clair E. Turner, assistant to the president of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, will be one of the principal speakers on the program at the fifth annual assembly of the Louisiana Association of Public Health Workers, which is scheduled to be held here Thursday and Friday at the Virginia Hotel.

Some 500 delegates representing the state health department, parish health units and voluntary health agencies will convene from all parts of Louisiana to hear such speakers as Dr. Turner, Dr. S. J. Dr. Turner, long outstanding in health work and the author of several books on the subject, is scheduled to speak Friday on "World Health and the Polio Problem" and may give his opinion on the new polio vaccine developed recently.

Turner, in addition to his work on the infantile paralysis foundation, is also at present first president of the International Union for the Health Education of the Public and a consultant in health education to the World Health Organization.

During World War II he acted as chief health education officer for the Institute of Inter-American Affairs. In 1953, Dr. Turner was awarded the Medal of Honor of the city of Paris, France for distinguished service in Public Health Education.

French Plan To Move Wounded By Plane Monday

HANOI, Indochina, April 3 (AP)—The French clung grimly, without further retreat, to their battered Dien Bien Phu fortress tonight and announced a spectacular attempt would be made to evacuate their wounded by plane Monday.

Gen. Henri Navarre, commander of French Union forces in Indochina, said he planned to land mercy planes, marked with the Red Cross, on Dien Bien Phu's shell pocked airfield about noon Monday while a planeload of neutral observers and newsmen of the international press corps watched the operation from the air.

The landing will be made, he said, after the Communist-led Vietminh forces have been advised by Col. Christian de Castries, the Dien Bien Phu commander of the exact time of the operation.

French guns at the fortress 175 miles west of Hanoi will fall silent at the time, except at points where attacks are in active progress and the sky will be swept clear of all other planes, Gen. Navarre said. He recalled that the Vietminh had failed to reply to his March 27 appeal for a cease-fire on mercy planes.

The neutral observers, he added, will assure that the Red Cross-marked planes carry no supplies into Dien Bien Phu—only medical corpsmen and crews.

The Red-led Vietminh battered the fortress from three directions today but the French command said the outnumbered defenders held fast. At no point could the rebels get within less than a mile of their target.

Two High Officials Narrowly Escape

Noted French Pilot Dies In Crash Of Jet Fighter

PARIS, April 3 (AP)—A French jet fighter plane crashed during a demonstration today and parts of the exploding craft landed within 55 yards of Defense Minister Rene Pleven and his guest, Duncan Sandys, British minister of supply. Sandys is a son-in-law of Prime Minister Churchill.

Col. Constantin Rozanoff, 49, at the controls of the Mystere IV, France's latest model jet fighter, met instant death. A native of Poland, he was one of France's most famous pilots. Last October he pushed a Mystere IV to a speed of 837 miles an hour.

The group with Pleven and Sandys included French Air Minister Louis Christiaens and British Air Marshal G. B. A. Baker. They had come to Melun-Villaroche airport, about 35 miles southeast of Paris, to see performances of late model French planes.

Witnesses gave this account:

Rozanoff took off while the small group of officials were watching several other types of planes perform. He climbed at a high speed, then put his plane into a dive that swept close to the ground over the heads of the group.

On a second sweep he pulled up a little in what appeared to be an attempt to avoid passing over the spectators. But the low flying plane encountered a strong gust of wind. One wing touched the ground. The plane crashed, exploded and burst into flames. Parts were hurled in all directions.

Rozanoff in World War II commanded the famed Lafayette fighting group in North Africa. He left the armed forces in 1946, became a civilian test pilot and was the first French pilot to break through the sound barrier in a French-manufactured jet.

New Constitution Sought For State

Bill Prepared For Submission To Legislature

NEW ORLEANS, April 3 (AP)—The Louisiana State Bar Association today recommended that a convention be called with power to "frame and adopt" a new constitution for Louisiana.

The bar association released the text of a proposed bill calling for the convention and urged its adoption by the Legislature in May.

The bill read:

"The convention shall have the power to frame and adopt a new constitution for the state of Louisiana which will establish a framework of government, but may submit all or any part of such constitution to a vote of the qualified electors of the state at an election which the convention shall call for such time and under such conditions as it may provide."

The report said the Louisiana constitution is the longest and most detailed of any of the 48 states and termed it "too long, too detailed, too cumbersome and too involved."

The Louisiana constitution has been amended 302 times in 33 years. The Constitution of the United States has been amended only 22 times since its adoption.

At present a constitutional amendment must be adopted by a two-thirds vote of the Legislature and then be submitted to the voters at a general election.

The bar association claims many of the subjects covered in amendments deal "with subjects and details which should not be incorporated in the constitution."

It claims that in approving many amendments "people of the entire state are called upon to vote upon provisions that only affect certain localities." Also, the report said, often "amendments to the constitution have been adopted by a vote

Sen. McCarthy Films Reply To Murrow Attack

BOSTON, April 3 (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) said today he has completed a filmed reply to television commentator Edward R. Murrow for showing on Murrow's CBS-TV show next Tuesday night.

McCarthy said the film would show "that Murrow is (1) a liar, and (2) has been of great assistance to the Communist cause." He added he would make the film available to any television station that wants to show it.

The senator's comment was made in the course of a brief news conference at Logan Airport as he arrived to speak tonight at a closed meeting of the Beacon Society, composed of Boston business and professional men.

The film the senator referred to is his reply to a telecast a few weeks ago in which Murrow was critical of McCarthy and his methods of investigating alleged Communist infiltration.

"It was not possible to give the complete picture of Murrow in 25 minutes," McCarthy said. "The time is too short to give all the documentation necessary." He added, however, that he would follow it up and make available to those who want it the full documentation.

The Wisconsin senator, asked for comment on Adlai Stevenson's Friday night speech at Charlotte, N. C., said he had not heard or read the speech.

McCarthy was greeted by cheers, hisses—the cheers predominating—when he entered the airport lobby after his flight from New York. Several persons reached out and shook his hands.

As he left his plane he was heard to say that he "had to see John Fox of the Post first." Fox is the Post publisher. He bought the paper with the avowed purpose of fighting communism.

Rep. Brooks Might Seek Senate Post

Louisiana, Mississippi Delegations To Run For Reelection To Congress

WASHINGTON, April 3 (AP) —They haven't yet reached the formal announcement stage, but most of the Louisiana and Mississippi members of Congress whose terms expire this year have indicated they will be candidates for re-election.

Sen. Allen Ellender (D-La.) and Sen. James Eastland (D.-Miss.) are definitely in the running for another term.

Ellender, whose length of service in the Senate is exceeded only by eight senators, will be seeking his fourth term. Ellender entered the Senate Jan. 3, 1937.

Eastland, 20th in senatorial seniority, is after his third term. He began his service Jan. 3, 1943.

All House members from the two states, with one exception, have definitely told friends they are in the race again this year.

The one exception is Rep. Overton Brooks (D.-La.) who hasn't definitely committed himself as between a race for re-election and a try at the Senate. Brooks is a nephew of former Sen. John Overton (D-La.) and once before, after Overton's death, toyed with the idea of making a senatorial race but ultimately decided against it. Brooks apparently still is canvassing the field but most of his colleagues expect him eventually to seek return to the House.

Brooks is the dean of the Louisiana delegation, having come to the House in 1937. He now is completing his ninth term, and is second ranking Democrat on the House Armed Services Committee.

The record for service among the two state delegations belongs to Rep. William Colmer (D.-Miss.), who entered the House in 1933. He is completing his 11th term. Colmer is seond ranking Democrat on the powerful House Rules Com-

Eight Sleeping Occupants Escape Without Harm

BATON ROUGE, April 3 (AP) — A stolen training plane smashed into a three-family house in a pre-dawn landing attempt today, killing one teen-age flyer and injuring another.

The small craft miraculously missed six adults and two infants asleep in three bedrooms when it knifed into the living room. The eight were jarred but uninjured.

Edwin Samuel White Jr., 19, of Mansfield, a Louisiana State University sophomore who soloed last July 23, was killed instantly.

Robert M. Heard, 18, son of LSU athletic director T. P. Heard, was critically injured. He is an LSU freshman.

Officers were not certain who was piloting. White had a pilot license, and Heard had received four hours of flying lessons, the Hair Flying Service said. Civil Aeronautics Authority officials said

French Plan To Move Wounded By Plane Monday

HANOI, Indochina, April 3 (AP)—The French clung grimly, without further retreat, to their battered Dien Bien Phu fortress tonight and announced a spectacular attempt would be made to evacuate their wounded by plane Monday.

Gen. Henri Navarre, commander of French Union forces in Indochina, said he planned to land mercy planes, marked with the Red Cross, on Dien Bien Phu's shell pocked airfield about noon Monday while a planeload of neutral observers and newsmen of the international press corps watched the operation from the air.

The landing will be made, he said, after the Communist-led Vietminh forces have been advised by Col. Christian de Castries, the Dien Bien Phu commander of the exact time of the operation.

French guns at the fortress 175 miles west of Hanoi will fall silent at the time, except at points where attacks are in active progress and the sky will be swept clear of all other planes, Gen. Navarre said. He recalled that the Vietminh had failed to reply to his March 27 appeal for a cease-fire on mercy planes.

The neutral observers, he added, will assure that the Red Cross-marked planes carry no supplies into Dien Bien Phu—only medical corpsmen and crews.

The Red-led Vietminh battered the fortress from three directions today but the French command said the outnumbered defenders held fast. At no point could the rebels get within less than a mile of their target.

N. E. Dairymen Approve Method To Raise Funds

The recently reorganized Northeast Louisiana Dairymen's Association has voted to set aside a small assessment from the sales of milk by members to help finance the organization.

This announcement yesterday followed the regular weekly meeting of the group in the Agriculture Building in West Monroe, at which the proposal was put to a vote.

It provides that all members wishing to participate in the plan will allow the processors in the northeast milkshed area to set aside one-cent from the sale of every 100 pounds of fluid milk, for use by the dairymen's association for expansion purposes, advertising and business matters, according to the group's president, Lantz Womack.

Womack said that 90 per cent of the milk producer members of the organization had pledged participation in the "set aside" program which is being conducted on a voluntary basis. It will go into effect April 20.

The association has a membership of 296 producers within the milk shed area, which covers Franklin, Richland, East Carroll, Madison, West Carroll, Morehouse and Ouachita parishes.

Among other matters discussed at the weekly session were milk prices, but no decisive action was taken. Plans were also made for sending delegates to a conference with the state Farm Bureau in Alexandria in mid-April to help in working out proposals to be presented at the next session of the legislature.

neither, to their knowledge, had flown before at night.

The plane crashed into the house at the northeast corner of Ryan Airfield, the city's air center. Tower control men said the young flyers apparently misjudged a turn coming in for a landing on the southwest runway.

Lt. H. G. Leach of the sheriff's office said the Hair Flying Service reported the plane was stolen.

The two youths, sheriff's deputies said, pushed the plane out of a hangar and took off after giving a fictitious identification to the airport tower.

Officers said a pint bottle of whiskey was found in a state charity hospital ambulance, which they said the collegians took from the state capitol to drive to the airport.

Dr. J. W. Watson, parish coroner, said White died instantly with a crushed skull, broken neck and numerous fractures.

"From the position of the body," he added, "it was impossible to tell who was piloting the plane."

Hospital attendants said Heard was improving but still critical. Dr. Charles Mosely said he "has not yet regained full consciousness" and is suffering from head injuries, a torn kidney and other internal injuries.

White's smashed pocket watch stopped at 3:36 a. m. His body was pitched through the windshield and landed in front of the demolished craft.

Young Heard was thrown into the kitchen where he was found attempting to rise.

"It's a miracle nobody else was hurt," a deputy commented, after surveying the plane's wreckage and what was left of a wall separating one bedroom from the living room.

I Am A Candidate For Re-Election As Your Mayor Of West Monroe

I want to express my appreciation to you the people of West Monroe for the fine reception you have given me during the campaign. I appreciate you and our city. We have many fine institutions and enterprises, among them are our numerous churches and schools. They are the foundation stones upon which we build.

And more than these, we also have many civic clubs and other organizations composed of men and women whose ideals are dedicated to the cause of wholesomeness in every cause that affects the welfare of all our people.

We are literally surrounded by thriving enterprises. We foresee potential facilities to adequately care for the needs of our people. Opportunity is abundant. So is optimism. We are in good position every way. We are alive, awake and moving forward progressively.

How did we get that way? Not at all by going backward as has been indicated, and neither by standing still. We are where we are because of the faith of our people in the possibilities of West Monroe. That faith has not deteriorated. It is a condemnation of the spirit of our people to insinuate that we are in an inferior position. That belittles all of us.

It is a truism of our times that politics would be more wholesome, and the so called controversies which are calculated to cause so much furore, would be dissolved if men would surrender themselves to the practice of the Golden Rule.

You and I are well aware of the many needs of our city. Any growing city is always confronted with needs. Can you imagine a city with every need satisfied? Wouldn't that be a paradise? You and I also know that things can be accomplished only as means are available. We have to pay for what we get. There is no magic way to plenty.

You also know that a great deal has been accomplished for our city within the few months of this administration. You, our citizens, helped us in all that. I have confidence in your iniative and vision for the future.

I will appreciate it a lot if you will honor me with a full term as Mayor of West Monroe. If you will, I will meet you more than half way in trying to get every reasonable thing done for West Monroe, as far as our means will permit.

I was not able to see all of you in person, so this is another way of asking you for your vote and support. But at any rate vote—that is your good American privilege, and also responsibility. Thank you very much.

Mr. Lear spoke here at the grand conclave seven years ago, and the news of his return will be welcomed by all who heard him in 1947. The grand commander's ball will be held in the Crystal Ballroom after the conclusion of the banquet.

There will be a Red Cross of Constantine breakfast for members only, Tuesday morning, April 13.

N. E. Dairymen Approve Method To Raise Funds

The recently reorganized Northeast Louisiana Dairymen's Association has voted to set aside a small assessment from the sales of milk by members to help finance the organization.

This announcement yesterday followed the regular weekly meeting of the group in the Agriculture Building in West Monroe, at which the proposal was put to a vote.

It provides that all members wishing to participate in the plan will allow the processors in the northeast milkshed area to set aside one-cent from the sale of every 100 pounds of fluid milk, for use by the dairymen's association for expansion purposes, advertising and business matters, according to the group's president, Lantz Womack.

Womack said that 90 per cent of the milk producer members of the organization had pledged participation in the "set aside" program which is being conducted on a voluntary basis. It will go into effect April 20.

The association has a membership of 296 producers within the milk shed area, which covers Franklin, Richland, East Carroll, Madison, West Carroll, Morehouse and Ouachita parishes.

Among other matters discussed at the weekly session were milk prices, but no decisive action was taken. Plans were also made for sending delegates to a conference with the state Farm Bureau in Alexandria in mid-April to help in working out proposals to be presented at the next session of the legislature.

neither, to their knowledge, had flown before at night.

The plane crashed into the house at the northeast corner of Ryan Airfield, the city's air center. Tower control men said the young flyers apparently misjudged a turn coming in for a landing on the southwest runway.

Lt. H. G. Leach of the sheriff's office said the Hair Flying Service reported the plane was stolen.

The two youths, sheriff's deputies said, pushed the plane out of a hangar and took off after giving a fictitious identification to the airport tower.

Officers said a pint bottle of whiskey was found in a state charity hospital ambulance, which they said the collegians took from the state capitol to drive to the airport.

Dr. J. W. Watson, parish coroner, said White died instantly with a crushed skull, broken neck and numerous fractures.

"From the position of the body," he added, "it was impossible to tell who was piloting the plane."

Hospital attendants said Heard was improving but still critical. Dr. Charles Mosely said he "has not yet regained full consciousness" and is suffering from head injuries, a torn kidney and other internal injuries.

White's smashed pocket watch stopped at 3:36 a. m. His body was pitched through the windshield and landed in front of the demolished craft.

Young Heard was thrown into the kitchen where he was found attempting to rise.

"It's a miracle nobody else was hurt," a deputy commented, after surveying the plane's wreckage and what was left of a wall separating one bedroom from the living room.

The other day "Rusty" appeared at his former Rayville home and was delighted to see again his former owners.

How long he was on the way and how he managed to get fed, as well as how he was able to withstand the vicissitudes of a 300-mile journey, is something that will probably not be known.

It remains a fact that he is home again and everybody is happy.

"O, what a blamed uncertain thing
This pesky month is;
It blew and then it snew

This joke lifted from "The Furrow," a farm implement publication, is also especially for gardeners and farmers.

"Yah," scoffed the corn belter wintering in Florida, "I reckon you got big boll weevils, but you should see our corn borers. They drill into the ear, eat off the silks, detassel the stalk, then pull it up by the roots."

"Shucks, man," retorted the southerner, "that ain't nothin' compared to our zoo-zoo bug. He eats cotton blossoms or drills holes in the bolls, spins cotton fibers into a cocoon, yanks the stalks up by the roots, crawls into the hole, and pulls the dirt in on top of him."

I Am A Candidate For Re-Election As Your Mayor Of West Monroe

I want to express my appreciation to you the people of West Monroe for the fine reception you have given me during the campaign. I appreciate you and our city. We have many fine institutions and enterprises, among them are our numerous churches and schools. They are the foundation stones upon which we build.

And more than these, we also have many civic clubs and other organizations composed of men and women whose ideals are dedicated to the cause of wholesomeness in every cause that affects the welfare of all our people.

We are literally surrounded by thriving enterprises. We foresee potential facilities to adequately care for the needs of our people. Opportunity is abundant. So is optimism. We are in good position every way. We are alive, awake and moving forward progressively.

How did we get that way? Not at all by going backward as has been indicated, and neither by standing still. We are where we are because of the faith of our people in the possibilities of West Monroe. That faith has not deteriorated. It is a condemnation of the spirit of our people to insinuate that we are in an inferior position. That belittles all of us.

It is a truism of our times that politics would be more wholesome, and the so called controversies which are calculated to cause so much furore, would be dissolved if men would surrender themselves to the practice of the Golden Rule.

You and I are well aware of the many needs of our city. Any growing city is always confronted with needs. Can you imagine a city with every need satisfied? Wouldn't that be a paradise? You and I also know that things can be accomplished only as means are available. We have to pay for what we get. There is no magic way to plenty.

You also know that a great deal has been accomplished for our city within the few months of this administration. You, our citizens, helped us in all that. I have confidence in your iniative and vision for the future.

I will appreciate it a lot if you will honor me with a full term as Mayor of West Monroe. If you will, I will meet you more than half way in trying to get every reasonable thing done for West Monroe, as far as our means will permit.

I was not able to see all of you in person, so this is another way of asking you for your vote and support. But at any rate vote—that is your good American privilege, and also responsibility. Thank you very much.

Your Mayor—West Monroe

Home Owners Are Reminded Of Tax Exemption Period

Bert Coverdale, Ouachita parish tax assessor, again reminded home owners in the parish Saturday that application forms for homestead tax exemptions must be signed in his office on or before May 15. Unless this is done, the assessor pointed out, the owner is not eligible for the tax reduction.

With the deadline for signing the application forms only six weeks away, the parish tax assessor urged that all persons not wait until the rush immediately prior to May 15 before coming by the office. In order to facilitate the signing of these forms, Coverdale is keeping his office, located on the first floor of the parish court house, open during the noon hour.

"There are many persons who otherwise would not be able to get by the office to sign their blanks," Coverdale said. "And since it takes only a few minutes to come into the office and sign the applications, the office is being kept open during the noon hour for those who work and, consequently, are not able to come at any other time."

Signs Of Upturn In Business

By J. M. ROBERTS Jr.
Associated Press News Analyst

The tone of reports on the nation's business has changed greatly within the past two weeks.

It is too early to tell whether it is merely a temporary spate of optimism or whether the recession, depression, rolling adjustment or whatever you want to call it has begun to level off.

The Census Bureau added a brighter interception of unemployment figures Friday. It reported there were 45,000 more people at work in March than in February, although there was also a 54,000 increase in unemployed. The 54,000 was the smallest addition to the ranks of unemployed for any of the last six months. That makes things better, the bureau said.

It was also noticeable, however, that spring farm activity was primarily responsible, while non-agricultural jobs, primarily industrial, decreased by 120,000.

This left a mixed picture. For one thing, the bureau's figures are not unanimously accepted. The AFL and the CIO both claim that unemployment actually runs some hundreds of thousands beyond government estimates.

The picture will be clearer a little later on, when information is available about the gross national product, price stability, and the like.

The financial sections of New York newspapers have had a good many reports recently of signs of better business. Of considerable importance was the confidence expressed by General Motors when it announced a billion-dollar expansion program for the next two years.

The National Assn. of Purchasing Agents reported a few days ago that while buying policies were still mostly short range, prices in many fields showed greater strength as inventories were reduced. It saw signs of recessions end.

A New York Times survey of New York buyers for retail outlets all over the country produced an optimistic report. Drought and other causes of decreased farm income produced weak spots, and sales were generally reported down in the Northeast. But other areas, the buyers reported, such as the Midsouth and West, were outstripping the high tide of 1953. Much of this information tallied with that gathered by The Associated Press.

The steel industry reports a pickup in new orders.

In 1945 the U. S. Labor force (people working or looking for work declined sharply, because many people who took wartime jobs stopped working.

By now, a great many citizens of this community will have seen pictures and films of the hydrogen blast in the Pacific Ocean. How is it possible to describe such an awesome thing? Can it be described in human values, as something one could touch or feel, or own?

Here is a force which in a matter of seconds, wiped out an entire island and chopped off parts of another. Here was a ball of fire larger in area than the city of Washington. Here is a force which can "take out" any city in the world. Will it be used? What earthly good would either the Russians or the Americans accomplish by blowing off entire sections of the globe?

Horrible as it is, the hydrogen bomb as it has presently been tested, still has human-like values. It is still comparatively small as regards nature's blast around the turn of the century at Krakatoa. Histories record that the Dutch East Indian island of Krakatoa went up in a volcanic blast which caused a tremendous tidal wave. The shock was felt for a thousand miles. The tidal wave was recorded as a ripple on the coast of France. Dust hung in the atmosphere for five years.

As far as one knows, no force of this size has as yet been manufactured but the AEC informs the people that the power is there, all that is needed is the weapon. In fact, the thing can be built to any desired size.

The people of the world must realize with a calm consideration that man has at last reached the stage at which he can easily destroy himself. One cannot lapse into frenzy or panic at this conclusion. For years and years, with the passing of each new weapon, men have said, "there goes mankind". However, men have withstood the test of time for the simple reason that the power they thought was in existence, was not. Gunpowder was thought to have been the most terrible weapon in existence. Chinese who had a civilization while Europeans were stalking through primeval forests in bearskins had discovered that force. Only centuries later did the Europeans find the force to claim it as their own.

In the legends of ancient Greece and Rome, and Egypt, there are recorded the marvelous powers of some men. It appears as how the very forces of magnetism were believed to have been uncovered. Indeed, one might believe this to be true in that the construction of the Egyptian pyramids demonstrates that huge granite blocks, each weighing tons upon tons were put into place to an exactness never matched by modern contractors and engineers. The legends of ancient India, ancient Peru and Aztec Mexico also record similar feats.

Who is to say that modern man has discovered everything? That is, until the Hydrogen blast. Now, man is capable of turning the Earth upon which he so perilously rides through space, into an atomic conversion furnace. In short, the Earth can become another Sun.

It's amazing, this thing, in that it dwarfs mere man to such an extent. Humans who have always thought of themselves as being all powerful, have actually made something which overpowers them. The average problem of the insignificant human is left in the wake of the tremendous fireball. Would it matter to the Hydrogen blast whether or not a man was rich or poor? Would it remove in a gaseous state, only Democrats or Republicans? Would it distinguish between pauper and President?

In an instant, all that is progress, the work of years, the familiar things—gone; gone in total destruction. There is only one good thing about the bomb. If it hits, you'll never know it.

A return to the history books will show the tedious works of man over the years. Consider this area for instance. It is more familiar to you than any other area. You know its history. Long ago, the Indians trod the forests along the banks of the beautiful Ouachita. At first, settlers were few and far between. Then, the founding of Fort Miro. Later, the War Between the States.

After that; progress. A community in the building. The discovery of the natural gas field. More progress over the years. The new buildings, the stores, the streets, the works of man. It's hard to believe that in one instant, all of this could be wiped from the face of the Earth and where there was once human habitation, sometimes called civilization, there would be a glassy crater, steaming and swirling in the heat of fiery destruction.

The release of the pictures of the Hydrogen weapon are late. They should panic no one. Instead, they should serve as a measure of consideration for the American people and the people of the world as to the tremendous force in the hands of man, a being not yet mentally equipped to be the guardian of that which he now possesses.

Franklin Parish

In the State of Louisiana, Franklin Parish is considered as one of the most important agricultural parishes. It has the world's largest cotton compress and is perhaps the leading cotton producing parish in the state. As Louisiana is a leading cotton producing state in the nation, Franklin can easily be said to be a major cotton producer in the nation.

Perhaps the first European to enter Franklin Parish was Hernando DeSoto who established a camp near the present site of Gilbert. Later, a Mississippi family, the Osbornes, started a plantation near the present city, (and Parish seat) at Winnsboro. The parish, a subdivision of Ouachita, Catahoula and Madison parishes, came into existence in the year 1843. At the insistence of John Winn, an early citizen of Franklin, the legislature in that year set aside the parts of the three older parishes and named the new political subdivision after President Franklin. Winn was its first State Senator.

Historically, Franklin Parish progressed somewhat slower than its sister parishes. In later years however, it has passed other parishes especially in agriculture. For instance the government classing office passed more than 400,000 bales of cotton last year. It is the largest office of its type in the state. Franklin was allotted 64,000 bales by the Federal Government for the coming year.

Cotton is not the only agricultural commodity in Franklin parish as it is a major farm area producing hogs, cattle, corn, hay, commercial poultry, soybeans and other products. There are 53 Grade "A" dairies located inside the parish lines and there are more than 160,000 chickens in production all the time. There are 48 oil wells and two gas wells, giving the parish some claim to oil fame. Franklin is also noted for its fishing and hunting which is among some of the best in the state.

Business wise the parish with its governmental seat at Winnsboro, is a thriving area. Towns which were once mere hamlets are beginning to expand in the general progress which seems to abound there. Its school system has been improved until it ranks among the highest in the state and it is the seat of much religious activity, almost all of the denominations being represented.

Franklin parish, another one of the parishes comprising the growing Northeast Louisiana fifth congressional district, can well be described as a sign of the times. It is an example of the progress being made in the new South and in Louisiana.

The people of Franklin parish, with a long history of development behind them, have good reason to be proud of their progress.

A Vote Of Thanks

Juvenile Judge Camille Kelley decribes herself as a "fighting Irishman." She has for years been the help of young people over the nation who she understands and knows. She realizes as do few other people, the problems of the youngsters in these days of great confusion. She has years and years of experience in this field and has devoted her life to the service of the young people.

Last week, she came to the Twin Cities to speak not only to the community, but to the youngsters at LTI and to the Kiwanis club concerning the detention home. Just before she was to make a television appearance, she suffered a slight stroke. Later, she suffered a more severe stroke and was placed on the critical list at the hospital.

Judge Kelley is well along in years. She is a real "trooper" who never ducks an obligation and her obligation in this community was to help the youngsters and the authorities who are engaged in establishing a detention home. Judge Kelley was unable to meet her appointments while here.

However, if she feels that any good she might have done while in this community was negated due to her illness, she is happily mistaken. Those who might not have heard of the Judge's work are now well aware of it. They are interested in this person who, despite her years, travels around the nation keeping a schedule which would make younger people quiver, and who came to the area to do a good job.

She did a good job here, and when she leaves, it is hoped she will return. All Americans admire a person who never gives up, who, no matter the odds, does what he feels necessary as part of a good job. The Twin Cities are no exceptions to the rule.

Thanks, Judge Kelley.

Thanks for coming.

It is hoped that you have a speedy recovery.

More On 1956

Several weeks ago, this newspaper published information concerning the tremendous Asiatic buildup currently being promulgated by the Communist Russians and Chinese. The information was verified by the highest sources and now, comes word of more revealing nature.

It would be wise to consult the maps of Soviet Russia and Asia to get a clear picture of this new situation.

The Trans-Siberian Railroad has already been double tracked and the Russians are doubling that line once again. It was not realized that the Russians were possessed of such a steel supply but late word informs the Morning World that the Manchurian, Chinese and Russian steel mills are redoubling their efforts in order to cope with the situation.

The most startling piece of news is that a new line running north of Lake Baikal into Siberia is being constructed. Where on the Pacific, it is to terminate, no one yet knows. It will probably supply the Mid-Siberian Russian Air bases and terminate on the Kamchatka peninsula.

There is a report to the effect that the Russians are already constructing a tunnel from the mainland to Sakhalin island thus increasing the threat to Japan. There is a line running from Vladovostok to the Kamchatka peninsula increasing the threat to Alaska. There are reliable reports which indicate that the Communist Chinese and the Russians are building or have finished the railroad across Sinkiang province to connect north of the Communist capitol at Peiking. The desert line will probably terminate in Paotow or Cheng Teh.

It is definitely known that the Chinese have built a line running north of Sian with Lanchow as the first objective. Given time, these two nations, Russia and China possessed of first class steel mills, will be able to effect and contruct adequate surface communications to enable them to supply large armies in Eastern Siberia and to ship troops and equipment from one area or the other in a rapid manner.

It is a known fact that tens of thousands of slave laborers from all over the world are working on these rail lines. There are Americans in this category.

This information, when carefully considered, is of the gravest importance to every American citizen. Because you live in Monroe, you are not eliminated from concern over these moves. They are not being made with peaceful intentions.

15 Baptist Ministers Reply To Critics

Monroe, La.

Editor, Morning World:

The Trenton Baptist Pastor's Conference most certainly commends you for your fine editorial Sunday, (March 28, 1954) on "What Kind of Mark Have You?"

Your warnings are timely when you state, "The American people are today faced with fiery and terrible destruction on one hand, moral and domestic destruction on another . . . all Americans as temporal leaders of the earth's free people's should be on their knees . . . asking guidance of God."

Our great and noble President of the United States must have realized the seriousness of our time when he was inaugurated President a little more than a year ago. He prayed a personal prayer for divine guidance for himself and those who would be associated with him in the leadership of our nation. This is the first time a president of the United States ever did that unusual thing and we have had some great crises before.

We do not agree with your critics that you are hysterical or fear-stricken but we believe that you are portraying unusual foresight to urge our people to seek divine guidance of the eternal God to help us in such an hour as this.

The Trenton Baptist Pastor's Conference represents 18 Baptist churches in our parish on the west side of the Ouachita River with a church membership of over 5,000.

This resolution was passed on this day, March 29, 1954 at the Cheniere Baptist Church.

Religion In The Schools

Monroe, La.

Editor, Morning World:

By reason of the source of the attacks published in last Sunday's Morning World, I feel I have a personal obligation to answer Dr. Greene. He is certainly free to express his opinions, but his caustic presentation certainly ill-becomes a minister. Love of truth and the desire to clarify issues are totally at odds with personal disparagements. Added to that, one can scarcely hope to convince another of error, in most cases, by any form of ridicule.

While I found myself at variance with Dr. Greene on practically every point, I shall limit myself to those which seem more important. In the matter of religion in schools, opponents consistently overlook a fundamental aspect: that because the constitution speaks of "an" establishment of religion and not "the" establishment (referring to particular faiths), then there is no basis for prohibiting the presentation of the basic tenets of religion to the exclusion of particular beliefs. Therefore, the argument as to what religion is to be taught is really irrelevant at the moment. When a man is about to be caught in a downpour, he does not ordinarily consider the kind of suit he is wearing, even though one may be better than another. He rather seeks some protective covering. Mankind now is about to be caught in a deluge. It has little time to bicker over the finer issues of religious belief, important and profound as they may be. One must consider that the rich young man of the Gospels was told first to keep the commandments to gain salvation. Then he was told to sell his goods, give to the poor and follow Christ to acquire perfection. Right now there is a necessity for keeping the commandments. It's time to stop straining at gnats and swallowing camels. In short, many fuss over alcohol, tobacco and narcotics which, in themselves, are not evil. Men make them so. Or they wail against poverty and sickness as the greatest evils afflicting mankind. But how much is said about merchants defrauding customers, a thing evil in itself? Or of politicians who have forgotten the eighth commandment about bearing false witness, together with public news agencies which injure by their omissions or contortions of truth? And the infidelities of husbands and wives, the divorces, abortions, etc., are these just "social phenomena" of small importance? All of the above have become accepted patterns in public and private life.

Hence, it seems that if nothing else, the mere announcement in our public schools that there is a God and the mere acknowledgement of a natural law written in every man's heart, given us in the concrete form of the ten commandments, would be an excellent start. From there, it should not be too difficult to show man's dependence on God and His relation to us. As matters stand now in our educational system, life is made to consist of a mass of scientific and social facts with little semblance of coherence and integration. And unless a child's parents supply the integration, that child grows, at best, in acceptance of the world only as a place which owes him certain material benefits, to be gained at any cost without sacrificing social front. It is this mentality which communists term "bourgeois." Out of a similar educational morass in Germany rose such men as Kant, Fichte, Hegel and Marx who sought to bring some order out of chaos. From them evolved the "order" of dialectical materialism which takes the place of God and His moral order.

It does not follow that because some families teach their children spiritual values, then the schools have no obligation. The fact is most parents fail in spiritual leadership for the majority of Americans have no or just casual connections with a church. And were it not for other factors in the life of some children, they would be utterly ignorant of any spiritual concepts. Furthermore, because school occupies much of a student's day and is therefore a force of undeniable importance, it cannot escape the obligation of directing that day rightly by defining the order of values in our universe. That is the prime object of education. And to leave God out would be its prime failure.

In conclusion, I would ask those opponents of religious instruction in public schools if they accept the Judaeo - Christian tradition as the basis of our western civilization? If so, then they must at least accept the teaching of religion along socio-historical lines. How teach the developments arising from that civilization if we know nothing of the source? Is it any wonder that our age is an age of neuroses and mental illness considering the intellectual and moral disorientation? And in this regard, the evil which some may attribute to our schools arises not so much from commission, but omission. And until omission is recognized as damaging as commission, we shall continue to be conditioned for the day when a totalitarian form of government will seem a deliverance from our confusion.

Chiropractic Is Safe, Sane And Scientific

Farmerville, La.

Editor, Morning World:

Re: more erroneous and unkind Medical Propaganda (and more to come) there are certain facts listed below for the benefit of the public:

Fact No. 1: CHIROPRACTIC is not CHIROPRACTIC MEDICINE. Chiropractors do not give Medicine; Medics do not adjust the spine. Medics have sought to "take over" Chiropractic and dictate the policies. Failing this, they have sought by every means to destroy it.

Fact No. 2: Chiropractors receive the highest type of Professional Training. The Chiropractic curriculum includes the same studies employed by the Medical Colleges—except the Materia Medica (Chiropractic Philosophy & Technic are substituted). 4,000 Class-room hours are required for a D. C. Degree from any recognized Chiropractic College; as against only 3,750 for an M. D. Degree from Johns-Hopkins. The medical student is forced to spend from 400 to 500 of his class-room hours attempting to learn the NAMES alone of over 23,000 drugs.

Fact No. 3: The Medical Profession is NOT the only one qualified to care for the sick. There are many DRUGLESS healing professions (of which Chiropractic is the largest). The medic would like to give the impression that ailing humanity should be attended only by a physician — that only the physician understands — that if the physician cannot cure, the patient should die —and God's Will was done. Recently the famous Bernard Baruch contributed $1,000,000 in order to determine future steps necessary for safeguarding and preserving the health of the people. The Committee of 400 scientists in the health field concluded: "The age of Medicine's pill and potion is past and to survive must revert to Physical medicine, postural hygiene, body mechanics, structural hygiene, physical agents essential to produce biologic responses including the effects of psychic reactions more potent than the effects of many drugs gathered through many centuries by trial and error". It is not the purpose of this letter to criticize the Medical Profession; neither have they a right to criticize Chiropractic. Both have their place in the world. Neither should try to rule or ruin.

Fact No. 4: Chiropractic must be recognized in Louisiana. It is Safe, Sane and Scientific; over 220,000 people in this state depend upon Chiropractic care — over 90 per cent of these people first consulted the Medic without any relief. In 44 states of the Union people have the right to CHOOSE their doctor—should our people be forced to go out of the state to receive Chiropractic care? The Chiropractic Bill to be presented the legislature next month by the Louisiana Chiropractic Association maintains the highest standards in the Nation. It would be shameful indeed if the selfish and conceited Louisiana Medical Society were able to defeat this Bill with their unorthodox snears, slanders and untruths. It is time people contacted their senators and representatives, and in the spirit of true Democracy and fair play, insist that appropriate action be taken.

Chiropractic And Medicine Are Different Professions

Farmerville, La.

Editor, Morning World:

From recent articles appearing in your paper there seems to be a campaign waged to inject public sentiment against Chiropractors. Why does anyone wish to attack such a worthy and proven cause as this? I have met many people living within the boundaries of this state who have found success in chiropractic care. Yes, these people have given the M. D. every chance to help them recover or their funds have exhausted and then they give chiropractic a chance only then to find health anew.

Out of the scores of the chiropractors' patients, never have I met even one who has not received even temporary relief. If these people cannot get well under medical treatment, then why should they be condemned for searching elsewhere for health?

Are these irate medical practitioners so really interested in the health of the ailing? Are they trying to tell the sick people that their method is the only way to treat their ills? I'm grateful to God that I and many others can say that we have found out otherwise.

Chiropractic and medicine are two distinctly different professions. Thank the Lord for a profession that still upholds the healing power of nature.

In the interest of better health.

Resolution Adopted To Protect Public Welfare

Monroe, La.

Editor, Morning World:

The following resolution was adopted at the March 25th meeting of the Fifth District Pharmaceutical Association.

WHEREAS the Pharmacists of the Fifth District are vitally interested in the health and welfare of our community and vigorously support scientific and ethical medicine as a means of attaining this end

AND WHEREAS the Pharmacists of the Fifth District are cognizant of the fact that the chiropractic theory of disease contradicts so many of the established and true theories of medical science.

AND WHEREAS the educational requirements of chiropractic are so deficient that they do not qualify chiropractors to diagnose and treat disease,

THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED that the Fifth District Pharmaceutical Association, in order to protect the public welfare, opposes any law that would legalize chiropractic.

E. W. VOGT,
President, Fifth District Pharmaceutical Association

Proverbial Fly

Mangham, La.

Editor Morning World:

We read with interest your daily editorial discussions, and agree with some.

The current series of letters, that which are now being widely read each week, is indeed a great stimulant for an otherwise dull mind, bent daily on things requiring thought directed toward the acquisition of doleful dollars and the support of a family.

Like the proverbial Fly-in-the-Ointment, however, there must be bickerings, bigotry and bargaining among the members of the highest professions where the aim is to do GOOD.

It seems to the writer of this Letter, that it would be so much better were the various and sundry noble professions to police their own ranks and weed out any weeds before attempting to direct unfavorable attention upon those of other so-called creeds.

Long Live Northeast Louisiana State College

Monroe, La.

Editor, Morning World:

The virtues of Louisiana's small colleges is at the moment vitally important to each of us. Especially should we of the state's northeast section become really concerned.

I wonder how many persons who read the Sunday Morning World could honestly say they don't want Northeast State College to remain here as a four-year school but would rather see it return to a junior status? I wonder, too, what their arguments could be?

Why should anyone want to destroy a four - year college that is in an area where it is urgently needed now and will surely be needed more in the future; that was created by the state legislature, a body of the people's representatives; that has been rendered a favorable decision by the state-Supreme Court; that has continued to grow in student enrollment and popularity by leaps and bounds; that has proven its high efficiency in economic management?

Why should anyone, especially a state legislator from north Louisiana, be so determined to rid our state of Northeast State and John McNeese College at Lake Charles—two fine four - year colleges-and at the same time work for a movement to create two new junior colleges in New Orleans? How can this man, and those who think as he does, arrive at the conclusion that this is the best way to instruct a rapidly increasing college population in an age that demands the best in education?

It appears that their only argument of note is funds. "We can't afford a four - year college in every corner of the state," they say. Well, who wants to? All we proponents of the existing small four - year colleges in Louisiana want is for them to be encouraged, not ridiculed and hindered. Why don't aspiring politicians - who could be good politicians - get on the positive side of life and help to find a way to give a full four-year college education to as many of our young people as possible instead of trying to tear down the results it has taken forward-looking men years of effort and thought to realize?

Why don't more people express their opinions publicly on this subject? How many people will be interested enough in the educational welfare of our state to take the little time and effort required to address their opinions to the Public Forum before the legislature convenes in May?

Long live Northeast Louisiana State and John McNeese - small four-year colleges of Louisiana!

There Is Only One Way

Rayville, La.

Editor, Morning World:

I want to congratulate you on your editorial, "What Kind of Mark Have You" in your paper, Sunday, March 28th.

If all of the newspapers in the country would write articles like that and the people would read them, it might start them to thinking and cause them to get their Bibles out and brush the dust away and start reading.

I think the trouble of our country is that the religious people are still wandering around in the wilderness of sin, going after the things of the world instead of spiritual things.

There are sinners today who are thinking about making a change in life but they don't know which way to go. There seems to be so many ways. There is only one way.

United We Stand

Bastrop, La.

Editor, Morning World:

In 1953 the Democrats tackled the problem of rebuilding the national economy which the Republicans had shattered and obliterated. Everybody worked together in united harmony for more than 16 years, and built up the most progressive and prosperous nation in the world by evenly distributing the wealth among all the people.

The Republicans have been in power less than a year and a half. Already, unemployment has risen to approximately four million people. The average worker earned about three hundred dollars a month or thirty-six hundred a year. Multiply four million by thirty-six hundred and you will find that our national income have been cut fourteen billion and four hundred million dollars a year, and as unemployment rises, so will this total rise. With this huge cut in the national income, there is not a chance for small business to live much longer. Please excuse this anecdote but I think we might do well to write Senator Long and get his recipe for making woodpecker soup and rabbit hash.

By now, a great many citizens of this community will have seen pictures and films of the hydrogen blast in the Pacific Ocean. How is it possible to describe such an awesome thing? Can it be described in human values, as something one could touch or feel, or own?

Here is a force which in a matter of seconds, wiped out an entire island and chopped off parts of another. Here was a ball of fire larger in area than the city of Washington. Here is a force which can "take out" any city in the world. Will it be used? What earthly good would either the Russians or the Americans accomplish by blowing off entire sections of the globe?

Horrible as it is, the hydrogen bomb as it has presently been tested, still has human-like values. It is still comparatively small as regards nature's blast around the turn of the century at Krakatoa. Histories record that the Dutch East Indian island of Krakatoa went up in a volcanic blast which caused a tremendous tidal wave. The shock was felt for a thousand miles. The tidal wave was recorded as a ripple on the coast of France. Dust hung in the atmosphere for five years.

As far as one knows, no force of this size has as yet been manufactured but the AEC informs the people that the power is there, all that is needed is the weapon. In fact, the thing can be built to any desired size.

The people of the world must realize with a calm consideration that man has at last reached the stage at which he can easily destroy himself. One cannot lapse into frenzy or panic at this conclusion. For years and years, with the passing of each new weapon, men have said, "there goes mankind". However, men have withstood the test of time for the simple reason that the power they thought was in existence, was not. Gunpowder was thought to have been the most terrible weapon in existence. Chinese who had a civilization while Europeans were stalking through primeval forests in bearskins had discovered that force. Only centuries later did the Europeans find the force to claim it as their own.

In the legends of ancient Greece and Rome, and Egypt, there are recorded the marvelous powers of some men. It appears as how the very forces of magnetism were believed to have been uncovered. Indeed, one might believe this to be true in that the construction of the Egyptian pyramids demonstrates that huge granite blocks, each weighing tons upon tons were put into place to an exactness never matched by modern contractors and engineers. The legends of ancient India, ancient Peru and Aztec Mexico also record similar feats.

Who is to say that modern man has discovered everything? That is, until the Hydrogen blast. Now, man is capable of turning the Earth upon which he so perilously rides through space, into an atomic conversion furnace. In short, the Earth can become another Sun.

It's amazing, this thing, in that it dwarfs mere man to such an extent. Humans who have always thought of themselves as being all powerful, have actually made something which overpowers them. The average problem of the insignificant human is left in the wake of the tremendous fireball. Would it matter to the Hydrogen blast whether or not a man was rich or poor? Would it remove in a gaseous state, only Democrats or Republicans? Would it distinguish between pauper and President?

In an instant, all that is progress, the work of years, the familiar things—gone; gone in total destruction. There is only one good thing about the bomb. If it hits, you'll never know it.

A return to the history books will show the tedious works of man over the years. Consider this area for instance. It is more familiar to you than any other area. You know its history. Long ago, the Indians trod the forests along the banks of the beautiful Ouachita. At first, settlers were few and far between. Then, the founding of Fort Miro. Later, the War Between the States.

After that; progress. A community in the building. The discovery of the natural gas field. More progress over the years. The new buildings, the stores, the streets, the works of man. It's hard to believe that in one instant, all of this could be wiped from the face of the Earth and where there was once human habitation, sometimes called civilization, there would be a glassy crater, steaming and swirling in the heat of fiery destruction.

The release of the pictures of the Hydrogen weapon are late. They should panic no one. Instead, they should serve as a measure of consideration for the American people and the people of the world as to the tremendous force in the hands of man, a being not yet mentally equipped to be the guardian of that which he now possesses.

Franklin Parish

In the State of Louisiana, Franklin Parish is considered as one of the most important agricultural parishes. It has the world's largest cotton compress and is perhaps the leading cotton producing parish in the state. As Louisiana is a leading cotton producing state in the nation, Franklin can easily be said to be a major cotton producer in the nation.

Perhaps the first European to enter Franklin Parish was Hernando DeSoto who established a camp near the present site of Gilbert. Later, a Mississippi family, the Osbornes, started a plantation near the present city, (and Parish seat) at Winnsboro. The parish, a subdivision of Ouachita, Catahoula and Madison parishes, came into existence in the year 1843. At the insistence of John Winn, an early citizen of Franklin, the legislature in that year set aside the parts of the three older parishes and named the new political subdivision after President Franklin. Winn was its first State Senator.

Historically, Franklin Parish progressed somewhat slower than its sister parishes. In later years however, it has passed other parishes especially in agriculture. For instance the government classing office passed more than 400,000 bales of cotton last year. It is the largest office of its type in the state. Franklin was allotted 64,000 bales by the Federal Government for the coming year.

Cotton is not the only agricultural commodity in Franklin parish as it is a major farm area producing hogs, cattle, corn, hay, commercial poultry, soybeans and other products. There are 53 Grade "A" dairies located inside the parish lines and there are more than 160,000 chickens in production all the time. There are 48 oil wells and two gas wells, giving the parish some claim to oil fame. Franklin is also noted for its fishing and hunting which is among some of the best in the state.

Business wise the parish with its governmental seat at Winnsboro, is a thriving area. Towns which were once mere hamlets are beginning to expand in the general progress which seems to abound there. Its school system has been improved until it ranks among the highest in the state and it is the seat of much religious activity, almost all of the denominations being represented.

Franklin parish, another one of the parishes comprising the growing Northeast Louisiana fifth congressional district, can well be described as a sign of the times. It is an example of the progress being made in the new South and in Louisiana.

The people of Franklin parish, with a long history of development behind them, have good reason to be proud of their progress.

A Vote Of Thanks

Juvenile Judge Camille Kelley decribes herself as a "fighting Irishman." She has for years been the help of young people over the nation who she understands and knows. She realizes as do few other people, the problems of the youngsters in these days of great confusion. She has years and years of experience in this field and has devoted her life to the service of the young people.

Last week, she came to the Twin Cities to speak not only to the community, but to the youngsters at LTI and to the Kiwanis club concerning the detention home. Just before she was to make a television appearance, she suffered a slight stroke. Later, she suffered a more severe stroke and was placed on the critical list at the hospital.

Judge Kelley is well along in years. She is a real "trooper" who never ducks an obligation and her obligation in this community was to help the youngsters and the authorities who are engaged in establishing a detention home. Judge Kelley was unable to meet her appointments while here.

However, if she feels that any good she might have done while in this community was negated due to her illness, she is happily mistaken. Those who might not have heard of the Judge's work are now well aware of it. They are interested in this person who, despite her years, travels around the nation keeping a schedule which would make younger people quiver, and who came to the area to do a good job.

She did a good job here, and when she leaves, it is hoped she will return. All Americans admire a person who never gives up, who, no matter the odds, does what he feels necessary as part of a good job. The Twin Cities are no exceptions to the rule.

Thanks, Judge Kelley.

Thanks for coming.

It is hoped that you have a speedy recovery.

More On 1956

Several weeks ago, this newspaper published information concerning the tremendous Asiatic buildup currently being promulgated by the Communist Russians and Chinese. The information was verified by the highest sources and now, comes word of more revealing nature.

It would be wise to consult the maps of Soviet Russia and Asia to get a clear picture of this new situation.

The Trans-Siberian Railroad has already been double tracked and the Russians are doubling that line once again. It was not realized that the Russians were possessed of such a steel supply but late word informs the Morning World that the Manchurian, Chinese and Russian steel mills are redoubling their efforts in order to cope with the situation.

The most startling piece of news is that a new line running north of Lake Baikal into Siberia is being constructed. Where on the Pacific, it is to terminate, no one yet knows. It will probably supply the Mid-Siberian Russian Air bases and terminate on the Kamchatka peninsula.

There is a report to the effect that the Russians are already constructing a tunnel from the mainland to Sakhalin island thus increasing the threat to Japan. There is a line running from Vladovostok to the Kamchatka peninsula increasing the threat to Alaska. There are reliable reports which indicate that the Communist Chinese and the Russians are building or have finished the railroad across Sinkiang province to connect north of the Communist capitol at Peiking. The desert line will probably terminate in Paotow or Cheng Teh.

It is definitely known that the Chinese have built a line running north of Sian with Lanchow as the first objective. Given time, these two nations, Russia and China possessed of first class steel mills, will be able to effect and contruct adequate surface communications to enable them to supply large armies in Eastern Siberia and to ship troops and equipment from one area or the other in a rapid manner.

It is a known fact that tens of thousands of slave laborers from all over the world are working on these rail lines. There are Americans in this category.

This information, when carefully considered, is of the gravest importance to every American citizen. Because you live in Monroe, you are not eliminated from concern over these moves. They are not being made with peaceful intentions.

15 Baptist Ministers Reply To Critics

Monroe, La.

Editor, Morning World:

The Trenton Baptist Pastor's Conference most certainly commends you for your fine editorial Sunday, (March 28, 1954) on "What Kind of Mark Have You?"

Your warnings are timely when you state, "The American people are today faced with fiery and terrible destruction on one hand, moral and domestic destruction on another . . . all Americans as temporal leaders of the earth's free people's should be on their knees . . . asking guidance of God."

Our great and noble President of the United States must have realized the seriousness of our time when he was inaugurated President a little more than a year ago. He prayed a personal prayer for divine guidance for himself and those who would be associated with him in the leadership of our nation. This is the first time a president of the United States ever did that unusual thing and we have had some great crises before.

We do not agree with your critics that you are hysterical or fear-stricken but we believe that you are portraying unusual foresight to urge our people to seek divine guidance of the eternal God to help us in such an hour as this.

The Trenton Baptist Pastor's Conference represents 18 Baptist churches in our parish on the west side of the Ouachita River with a church membership of over 5,000.

This resolution was passed on this day, March 29, 1954 at the Cheniere Baptist Church.

Religion In The Schools

Monroe, La.

Editor, Morning World:

By reason of the source of the attacks published in last Sunday's Morning World, I feel I have a personal obligation to answer Dr. Greene. He is certainly free to express his opinions, but his caustic presentation certainly ill-becomes a minister. Love of truth and the desire to clarify issues are totally at odds with personal disparagements. Added to that, one can scarcely hope to convince another of error, in most cases, by any form of ridicule.

While I found myself at variance with Dr. Greene on practically every point, I shall limit myself to those which seem more important. In the matter of religion in schools, opponents consistently overlook a fundamental aspect: that because the constitution speaks of "an" establishment of religion and not "the" establishment (referring to particular faiths), then there is no basis for prohibiting the presentation of the basic tenets of religion to the exclusion of particular beliefs. Therefore, the argument as to what religion is to be taught is really irrelevant at the moment. When a man is about to be caught in a downpour, he does not ordinarily consider the kind of suit he is wearing, even though one may be better than another. He rather seeks some protective covering. Mankind now is about to be caught in a deluge. It has little time to bicker over the finer issues of religious belief, important and profound as they may be. One must consider that the rich young man of the Gospels was told first to keep the commandments to gain salvation. Then he was told to sell his goods, give to the poor and follow Christ to acquire perfection. Right now there is a necessity for keeping the commandments. It's time to stop straining at gnats and swallowing camels. In short, many fuss over alcohol, tobacco and narcotics which, in themselves, are not evil. Men make them so. Or they wail against poverty and sickness as the greatest evils afflicting mankind. But how much is said about merchants defrauding customers,a thing evil in itself? Or of politicians who have forgotten the eighth commandment about bearing false witness, together with public news agencies which injure by their omissions or contortions of truth? And the infidelities of husbands and wives, the divorces, abortions, etc., are these just "social phenomena" of small importance? All of the above have become accepted patterns in public and private life.

Hence, it seems that if nothing else, the mere announcement in our public schools that there is a God and the mere acknowledgement of a natural law written in every man's heart, given us in the concrete form of the ten commandments, would be an excellent start. From there, it should not be too difficult to show man's dependence on God and His relation to us. As matters stand now in our educational system, life is made to consist of a mass of scientific and social facts with little semblance of coherence and integration. And unless a child's parents supply the integration, that child grows, at best, in acceptance of the world only as a place which owes him certain material benefits, to be gained at any cost without sacrificing social front. It is this mentality which communists term "bourgeois." Out of a similar educational morass in Germany rose such men as Kant, Fichte, Hegel and Marx who sought to bring some order out of chaos. From them evolved the "order" of dialectical materialism which takes the place of God and His moral order.

It does not follow that because some families teach their children spiritual values, then the schools have no obligation. The fact is most parents fail in spiritual leadership for the majority of Americans have no or just casual connections with a church. And were it not for other factors in the life of some children, they would be utterly ignorant of any spiritual concepts. Furthermore, because school occupies much of a student's day and is therefore a force of undeniable importance, it cannot escape the obligation of directing that day rightly by defining the order of values in our universe. That is the prime object of education. And to leave God out would be its prime failure.

In conclusion, I would ask those opponents of religious instruction in public schools if they accept the Judaeo - Christian tradition as the basis of our western civilization? If so, then they must at least accept the teaching of religion along socio-historical lines. How teach the developments arising from that civilization if we know nothing of the source? Is it any wonder that our age is an age of neuroses and mental illness considering the intellectual and moral disorientation? And in this regard, the evil which some may attribute to our schools arises not so much from commission, but omission. And until omission is recognized as damaging as commission, we shall continue to be conditioned for the day when a totalitarian form of government will seem a deliverance from our confusion.

Chiropractic Is Safe, Sane And Scientific

Farmerville, La.

Editor, Morning World:

Re: more erroneous and unkind Medical Propaganda (and more to come) there are certain facts listed below for the benefit of the public:

Fact No. 1: CHIROPRACTIC is not CHIROPRACTIC MEDICINE. Chiropractors do not give Medicine; Medics do not adjust the spine. Medics have sought to "take over" Chiropractic and dictate the policies. Failing this, they have sought by every means to destroy it.

Fact No. 2: Chiropractors receive the highest type of Professional Training. The Chiropractic curriculum includes the same studies employed by the Medical Colleges—except the Materia Medica (Chiropractic Philosophy & Technic are substituted). 4,000 Class-room hours are required for a D. C. Degree from any recognized Chiropractic College; as against only 3,750 for an M. D. Degree from Johns-Hopkins. The medical student is forced to spend from 400 to 500 of his class-room hours attempting to learn the NAMES alone of over 23,000 drugs.

Fact No. 3: The Medical Profession is NOT the only one qualified to care for the sick. There are many DRUGLESS healing professions (of which Chiropractic is the largest). The medic would like to give the impression that ailing humanity should be attended only by a physician — that only the physician understands — that if the physician cannot cure, the patient should die —and God's Will was done. Recently the famous Bernard Baruch contributed $1,000,000 in order to determine future steps necessary for safeguarding and preserving the health of the people. The Committee of 400 scientists in the health field concluded: "The age of Medicine's pill and potion is past and to survive must revert to Physical medicine, postural hygiene, body mechanics, structural hygiene, physical agents essential to produce biologic responses including the effects of psychic reactions more potent than the effects of many drugs gathered through many centuries by trial and error". It is not the purpose of this letter to criticize the Medical Profession; neither have they a right to criticize Chiropractic. Both have their place in the world. Neither should try to rule or ruin.

Fact No. 4: Chiropractic must be recognized in Louisiana. It is Safe, Sane and Scientific; over 220,000 people in this state depend upon Chiropractic care — over 90 per cent of these people first consulted the Medic without any relief. In 44 states of the Union people have the right to CHOOSE their doctor—should our people be forced to go out of the state to receive Chiropractic care? The Chiropractic Bill to be presented the legislature next month by the Louisiana Chiropractic Association maintains the highest standards in the Nation. It would be shameful indeed if the selfish and conceited Louisiana Medical Society were able to defeat this Bill with their unorthodox sneers, slanders and untruths. It is time people contacted their senators and representatives, and in the spirit of true Democracy and fair play, insist that appropriate action be taken.

Chiropractic And Medicine Are Different Professions

Farmerville, La.

Editor, Morning World:

From recent articles appearing in your paper there seems to be a campaign waged to inject public sentiment against Chiropractors. Why does anyone wish to attack such a worthy and proven cause as this? I have met many people living within the boundaries of this state who have found success in chiropractic care. Yes, these people have given the M. D. every chance to help them recover or their funds have exhausted and then they give chiropractic a chance only then to find health anew.

Out of the scores of the chiropractors' patients, never have I met even one who has not received even temporary relief. If these people cannot get well under medical treatment, then why should they be condemned for searching elsewhere for health?

Are these irate medical practitioners so really interested in the health of the ailing? Are they trying to tell the sick people that their method is the only way to treat their ills? I'm grateful to God that I and many others can say that we have found out otherwise.

Chiropractic and medicine are two distinctly different professions. Thank the Lord for a profession that still upholds the healing power of nature.

In the interest of better health.

Resolution Adopted To Protect Public Welfare

Monroe, La.

Editor, Morning World:

The following resolution was adopted at the March 25th meeting of the Fifth District Pharmaceutical Association.

WHEREAS the Pharmacists of the Fifth District are vitally interested in the health and welfare of our community and vigorously support scientific and ethical medicine as a means of attaining this end

AND WHEREAS the Pharmacists of the Fifth District are cognizant of the fact that the chiropractic theory of disease contradicts so many of the established and true theories of medical science.

AND WHEREAS the educational requirements of chiropractic are so deficient that they do not qualify chiropractors to diagnose and treat disease,

THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED that the Fifth District Pharmaceutical Association, in order to protect the public welfare, opposes any law that would legalize chiropractic.

Proverbial Fly

Mangham, La.

Editor Morning World:

We read with interest your daily editorial discussions, and agree with some.

The current series of letters, that which are now being widely read each week, is indeed a great stimulant for an otherwise dull mind, bent daily on things requiring thought directed toward the acquisition of doleful dollars and the support of a family.

Like the proverbial Fly-in-the-Ointment, however, there must be bickerings, bigotry and bargaining among the members of the highest professions where the aim is to do GOOD.

It seems to the writer of this Letter, that it would be so much better were the various and sundry noble professions to police their own ranks and weed out any weeds before attempting to direct unfavorable attention upon those of other so-called creeds.

Long Live Northeast Louisiana State College

Monroe, La.

Editor, Morning World:

The virtues of Louisiana's small colleges is at the moment vitally important to each of us. Especially should we of the state's northeast section become really concerned.

I wonder how many persons who read the Sunday Morning World could honestly say they don't want Northeast State College to remain here as a four-year school but would rather see it return to a junior status? I wonder, too, what their arguments could be?

Why should anyone want to destroy a four - year college that is in an area where it is urgently needed now and will surely be needed more in the future; that was created by the state legislature, a body of the people's representatives; that has been rendered a favorable decision by the state-Supreme Court; that has continued to grow in student enrollment and popularity by leaps and bounds; that has proven its high efficiency in economic management?

Why should anyone, especially a state legislator from north Louisiana, be so determined to rid our state of Northeast State and John McNeese College at Lake Charles—two fine four - year colleges-and at the same time work for a movement to create two new junior colleges in New Orleans? How can this man, and those who think as he does, arrive at the conclusion that this is the best way to instruct a rapidly increasing college population in an age that demands the best in education?

It appears that their only argument of note is funds. "We can't afford a four - year college in every corner of the state," they say. Well, who wants to? All we proponents of the existing small four - year colleges in Louisiana want is for them to be encouraged, not ridiculed and hindered. Why don't aspiring politicians - who could be good politicians - get on the positive side of life and help to find a way to give a full four-year college education to as many of our young people as possible instead of trying to tear down the results it has taken forward-looking men years of effort and thought to realize?

Why don't more people express their opinions publicly on this subject? How many people will be interested enough in the educational welfare of our state to take the little time and effort required to address their opinions to the Public Forum before the legislature convenes in May?

Long live Northeast Louisiana State and John McNeese - small four-year colleges of Louisiana!

The Board of Directors of the Northeast Louisiana Livestock Show wish to express our sincere appreciation for the timely and influential editorial as well as for all other space alloted our district show, during the first week of this month, by your papers.

With our present new facilities and the continued wonderful support we are receiving from all sections of northeast Louisiana we feel that our show is destined to soon rank among the big livestock shows of the nation.

Our livestock show is not a carnival nor festival but an educational institution dedicated to the improvement and expansion of the livestock industry of northeast Louisiana, the largest and most fertile area in the U. S. for such an undertaking.

There Is Only One Way

Rayville, La.

Editor, Morning World:

I want to congratulate you on your editorial, "What Kind of Mark Have You" in your paper, Sunday, March 28th.

If all of the newspapers in the country would write articles like that and the people would read them, it might start them to thinking and cause them to get their Bibles out and brush the dust away and start reading.

I think the trouble of our country is that the religious people are still wandering around in the wilderness of sin, going after the things of the world instead of spiritual things.

There are sinners today who are thinking about making a change in life but they don't know which way to go. There seems to be so many ways. There is only one way.

United We Stand

Bastrop, La.

Editor, Morning World:

In 1953 the Democrats tackled the problem of rebuilding the national economy which the Republicans had shattered and obliterated. Everybody worked together in united harmony for more than 16 years, and built up the most progressive and prosperous nation in the world by evenly distributing the wealth among all the people.

The Republicans have been in power less than a year and a half. Already, unemployment has risen to approximately four million people. The average worker earned about three hundred dollars a month or thirty-six hundred a year. Multiply four million by thirty-six hundred and you will find that our national income have been cut fourteen billion and four hundred million dollars a year, and as unemployment rises, so will this total rise. With this huge cut in the national income, there is not a chance for small business to live much longer. Please excuse this anecdote but I think we might do well to write Senator Long and get his recipe for making woodpecker soup and rabbit hash.

DONATES FAT STEER TO CHAPTER—G. C. Donates Steer To Delhi Chapter Of Future Farmers

DELHI, April 3 (Special)—G. C. Dixon, Dunn businessman and farmer, recently donated a fat steer to the Delhi chapter of the Future Farmers of America "as an award for having made an outstanding record in FFA work during the last few years." The animal was accepted in behalf of the club by Merritt Dearman, president of the local chapter, and Charles Thomas, club member.

During the last few years the Delhi chapter, consisting of 40 members, has made a list of accomplishments with winners in nearly every type of contest open to members. The group is under the direction of W. A. Gaharan.

The highlight of the chapter's accomplishments was being selected one of the best FFA chapters in Louisiana in 1952 and 1953, and also placing in the Silver Emblem group in the national best chapter contest in 1952 and again in 1953.

Members credit the success of the chapter to the cooperation and backing given by honorary members — business firms in Delhi, American Legion Post, and the cooperative efforts of active members.

During the last nine years our chapter has had thirty-three members to receive the state farmer degree and three boys to receive the highest award an FFA member can achieve, the American Farmer Degree. Six out of those last nine years the chapter has had either a parliamentary law team or a public speaker in the state contest.

Two of the chapter's most outstanding cooperative activities were a swine project and a corn project that were carried out on land that was provided by honorary members.

In 1952 and in 1953 the chapter members fed and exhibited the grand champion fat barrow at the North East District Livestock Show. This year the members raised and fed four barrows as a cooperative project. This netted the chapter $230.48. As a cooperative supplementary project the members raised three acres of corn which yielded 150 barrels of corn. The members raise their own corn and hogs each year as a chapter project.

Another cooperative chapter project carried out this year was the building and entering and educational exhibit in the State Fair at Shreveport. Practically all of the members played a part in getting the exhibit ready. The exhibit placed first over twenty other exhibits and the chapter received a check for $200 for winning.

Last year the meat judging team tied for first place in the area 2 contest held at Ruston. This year the livestock judging team tied for fifth place in the Northeast District Contest. Sixty teams competed. Last year the public speaker, Merritt Dearman, won the area 2 speaking contest and will complete again for this award on April 24.

9-Week Summer Lab School At Northeast State

Northeast State will offer a nine-week summer laboratory school for pupils of elementary and junior high school levels, with registration scheduled Tuesday, June 8.

Applications to enroll may be made now, however, by telephoning or writing Mrs. Evelyn Otts, director of the teacher training, who will be in charge of the summer school. Applications should be filed with her at Northeast at an early date because of the limited number of pupils who will be enrolled.

The school day calendar will be based on a program of study and activity from 8 to 11 a.m. from Monday through Friday. The registration fee is $5.

Instruction in the laboratory school will emphasize individual attention, with particular emphasis being placed upon difficulty which children may find in the study of reading, arithmetic and other subjects. Activities also will be geared to meet the needs of the specially gifted child.

This year's program will offer several unusual features which include the teaching of Spanish on the elementary level, typing classes for upper elementary children, special art and music activities as well as physical education.

Facilities of the college will be used by the school to make possible several offerings. Among these will be experiences in science, including laboratory work, for upper elementary pupils.

Provision will also be made for a mid-morning lunch period.

The summer laboratory school will be supervised by three teachers: Miss Bettie Oxford, Miss Una Lea Wallace and T. L. Hammett. Miss Oxford and Miss Wallace are teachers of the Ouachita Parish School System, and Hammett is a member of the Forest High School faculty. He and Miss Oxford did supervisory work last summer in the laboratory school. The three hold master's degrees.

Registration At Lexington Is Set For April 7 And 8

Wednesday and Thursday have been set as registration dates for children who will be eligible to enter the Lexington Avenue school kindergarten in the fall, Miss Rosa Belle McDonald, principal, announced Saturday.

Miss Alice McBride, kindergarten teacher, will meet with the mothers and children in the auditorium at 8:30 a.m. and outline the procedure to follow throughout each morning.

Lexington Avenue Parent-Teacher Association committee members who will record the summer round-up data are Miss Rosa Belle McDonald, chairman; Mrs. N. Klam, Mrs. Ray Updegraff, Mrs. J. H. Scoggins, Jr., Mrs. Harold V. Brady and Mrs. Fred Parrish.

5 Carroll High Graduates Earn Varsity Honors

The principal of Carroll High School was informed recently by the president of Southern University, Dr. F. G. Clark, that five former students of Carroll High had attained a 2.0 average or above and thus were placed on the honor roll for the fall semester, 1953.

The students were listed as follows: sophomore, Doris Jean Smith; freshmen, Richard Johnson, Roye L. Love, Lula M. Rodgers, and Ada Bea Vaughn.

These were honor students in high school and the principal and faculty of Carroll High is proud of the record they are making at Southern University.

Out of the class of 1953 approximately 25 are enrolled in the freshman class at Southern University. Of those 25, four are listed on the Honor Roll. Already we have observed that in other phases of activities Carroll High students are excelling, such as athletics and music. This is representative of the type of instruction Carroll High advocates and strives to give its pupils.

The music department featuring the choir, Choralettes, the female trio and special soloists have just returned from a concert performance in Alexandria.

Donates Steer To Delhi Chapter Of Future Farmers

DELHI, April 3 (Special)—G. C. Dixon, Dunn businessman and farmer, recently donated a fat steer to the Delhi chapter of the Future Farmers of America "as an award for having made an outstanding record in FFA work during the last few years." The animal was accepted in behalf of the club by Merritt Dearman, president of the local chapter, and Charles Thomas, club member.

During the last few years the Delhi chapter, consisting of 40 members, has made a list of accomplishments with winners in nearly every type of contest open to members. The group is under the direction of W. A. Gaharan.

The highlight of the chapter's accomplishments was being selected one of the best FFA chapters in Louisiana in 1952 and 1953, and also placing in the Silver Emblem group in the national best chapter contest in 1952 and again in 1953.

Members credit the success of the chapter to the cooperation and backing given by honorary members — business firms in Delhi, American Legion Post, and the cooperative efforts of active members.

During the last nine years our chapter has had thirty-three members to receive the state farmer degree and three boys to receive the highest award an FFA member can achieve, the American Farmer Degree. Six out of those last nine years the chapter has had either a parliamentary law team or a public speaker in the state contest.

Two of the chapter's most outstanding cooperative activities were a swine project and a corn project that were carried out on land that was provided by honorary members.

In 1952 and in 1953 the chapter members fed and exhibited the grand champion fat barrow at the North East District Livestock Show. This year the members raised and fed four barrows as a cooperative project. This netted the chapter $230.48. As a cooperative supplementary project the members raised three acres of corn which yielded 150 barrels of corn. The members raise their own corn and hogs each year as a chapter project.

Another cooperative chapter project carried out this year was the building and entering and educational exhibit in the State Fair at Shreveport. Practically all of the members played a part in getting the exhibit ready. The exhibit placed first over twenty other exhibits and the chapter received a check for $200 for winning.

Last year the meat judging team tied for first place in the area 2 contest held at Ruston. This year the livestock judging team tied for fifth place in the Northeast District Contest. Sixty teams competed. Last year the public speaker, Merritt Dearman, won the area 2 speaking contest and will complete again for this award on April 24.

Franklin Parish-- Historical Review

Rich Land Area Modern Farms Push Progress

Nearly 5,000 Farms In Parish Average 64 Acres Per Unit

By OTIS HASSELL

Franklin parish, with an area of 648 square miles and located near the center of northeast Louisiana, could well be called the "hub" of this agricultural district.

History of Indians who inhabited the area which is now Franklin parish, is meager, but several Indian Mounds have been excavated, and bones of prehistoric Indians have been dug up near Boeuf River. Many arrow-heads have been found on Bayou Macon.

Louisiana Mounds

Dr. George E. Beyer, who published his "Mounds of Louisiana" in 1897, discusses their origin and purpose and describes the results of excavations of many of the structures. One of the most interesting of these was the Snyder mound near Como, in Franklin parish, from which the oak tree over three hundred years old, had been cut. This was a burial ground that had probably long been abandoned before the oak began to grow. Skeletons of bodies were found arranged in a circle, with the heads toward the center. There were no signs of pottery or implements of any kind, except an arrow-head in the skull of one of the skeletons. The only rectangular mound in this parish was located by Dr. Beyer at a site two miles northeast of the Snyder mound. Ten miles south of Como, near the junction of two bayous, there were three mounds. One was called the Lewis and another the Brannin. The third was unnamed.

One-half mile north of Snyder mound was a group of mounds arranged in parallel rows extending two miles in a northeasterly direction. These were burial mounds, yielding no pottery or implements when excavated. Ten miles from Como, on a farm formerly owned by T. A. Harris, Dr. Beyer found three mounds "full of vessels, stone hatchets, arrow heads, mortar and pestle."

According to Dr. Beyer, the antiquity of these mounds far antedates the discovery of America by Columbus.

Early Pioneers

DeSoto was probably the first white man to view the part of Louisiana which is now Franklin Parish. One of his camping places was on Dee- Creek, at or near where the village of Gilbert now stands.

One of the first pioneer settlers in this area was the Osborn family, which came from Claiborne county Mississippi, and took up land near the site of the present town of Winnsboro.

Following the Osborns came Nell Buie, who in 1812 or 1816 (the exact year is uncertain), took up land a few miles from Boeuf River at what was then known as Boeuf Prairie, now Fort Necessity. Soon after Buie arrived, other families came, including the Ogdens, Richardsons, Gilberts, Wards, Mackeys, Lewises, Wombles, Cordells, Doyles, Daileys, Graysons, Matthews, John Willis, Lemuel Bowden, James Givens and S. W. McCleur. Some located in the Boeuf Prairie neighborhood and others closer to the Tensas River and on Bayou Macon. It was in 1835 that the Adams and Ramage families arrived.

A cluster of farms called the "Lower Settlement", became known as Ockley, and another at Osborn's, called the "Upper Settlement", comprised nearly all of the inhabitants of the eastern portion. Generally, however, the country was a vast unbroken, primeval forest, visited by hunters and trappers. The site of the present parish court house at Winnsboro, was known as a favorite camping ground for bear hunters.

Primitive Life

The lives of the first settlers were necessarily most primitive, and their lot was made harder by the infiltration of renegades from other states who continued their lawlessness after arriving here. Many tales have been handed down concerning this period. There is the story that progress in Franklin parish really began when two keelboats on Boeuf River, laden with new machinery, ran aground. The machinery in one was said to be able to gin cotton at the breath-taking rate of four bales a day! In the other was a massive, hand-wrought iron contrivance that could "cut more cypress boards in a day than fifty men"! After back-breaking efforts to free their boats from the sandbar, the boatmen decided to pitch their camp right there. This camp became a settlement which grew rapidly through the industry of its founders. Then there is the story of the man who was hung for stealing his neighbor's hogs, and yet the hogs came home a few days afterward; the case of the peddler's flashy saddle blanket which caused him to lose his life when he met a local gunman; again the tragedy of the judge and district attorney being slain at Three Rivers Ferry as they were coming over from Columbia to Boeuf Prairie court house to try an alleged cow thief, confined in jail there.

Sen. John Winn

Franklin Parish was established on March 1, 1843. John Winn, a pioneer of this section of Louisiana, had been elected state senator, and through his efforts, a bill was passed in the legislature, creating a political subdivision from parts of Catahoula, Ouachita and Madison, and giving to it the name of Franklin, in honor of that great all around American, Benjamin Franklin.

According to the "History of Northeast Louisiana," by Mr. and Mrs. Frederick W. Williamson, E. K. Wilson, of Ouachita parish, was named first district judge; J. W. Willis, sheriff, and M. S. Osborn, parish judge. The first court was held at Boeuf Prairie, the most populous of the communities existing in the parish. C. H. Ramage and Allen Bonner, who were later to become prominent factors in the growth of the parish and the development of its affairs, are recorded as "resident lawyers" at the time. Other early officials included sheriff John Ward and Judge Crawford. Crawford was the judge who was assassinated at the Three Rivers Ferry.

First Police Jury

Members of the first police jury were W. B. Grayson, M. R. Desha, L. M. Bowen, James Gwin, Sam Norris, John Ward and C. W. Sanders.

A disagreement between the inhabitants of the eastern and western portions of the parish developed regarding the location of the parish seat, the issue being settled when John Willis, in 1845, donated 160 acres of land, situated in virtually the center of the parish, to serve as a parish seat. The donation was accepted and a townsite plotted, the place being given the name of Winnsboro in honor of Senator Winn.

The first courthouse was a frame building, which occupied the southeast corner of the present courthouse square, where it remained in use until 1865, when it was replaced with a brick building. Another brick building was erected in 1903, which served the parish until the present $600.000 pink brick structure was erected in 1950.

Civil War

In its early years, Franklin was not one of the wealthy, cotton growing parishes, such as those fronting on the Mississippi River. Its settlers were of Anglo-Saxon and Scotch-Irish stock ,who gained their homes and farms in the midst of the wilderness through hard and persistant effort, in which all members of the families engaged. There were few slaves or other laborers. Franklin suffered its share in the gruelling experience of the Civil War, but the land did not become the marching ground of moving armies as did other parishes in this section of Louisiana. Its citizens, however, took their part in rendering aid to other parishes in the chaotic days of the Reconstruction, sending a quota of armed men to Waterproof to help quell an uprising of Negroes under the notorious Alfred Fairfax.

In 1868, Joshua Baker, the engineer who designed and built the courthouse at Winnsboro in 1847, served as governor under military authority until the appointment of Henry Clay Warmoth.

Reconstruction

The population of Franklin parish grew conservatively, though steadily, through the years following the war. Extensive settlement was handicaped by the lack of railroad facilities, which did not develop until 1890. The following years saw remarkable expansion both in population and productivity.

Franklin parish, with Richland and West Carroll parishes, is in the Fifth Judicial District. Franklin, Catahoula, and Richland parishes comprise the 32nd Senatorial District. The parish has one member in the House of Representatives.

Franklin parish is divided into nine wards, each of which has one police juror except ward seven, which has three. The parish school board has the same appointment of members, and each ward has a justice of the peace except ward seven, which has three.

The entire parish is in the Tensas Basin levee district, and it is also included in the Northeastern Soil Conservation district with headquarters at Winnsboro.

Principal Towns

Principal towns and villages in Franklin parish are Winnsboro (parish seat), Wisner, Gilbert, Baskin, Crowville, Fort Necessity and Chase.

There are 18,601 white, and 10,775 Negro residents in the parish. This total population, as listed by the 1950 census, of 29,376, is a decrease for the entire parish of 9.3 per cent from the 1940 count of 32,382. From 1940 to 1950 the population of the town of Winnsboro increased from 2,834 to 3,655, which was an increase of 29 per cent. During this same period, however, the rest of the parish showed a decrease of 13 per cent.

Soils, Drainage

Soils in this parish are developed from alluvial material of various ages and elevations, varying from clays to a very fine sandy loam of the bottomlands to silt loams and silty clay loams of the Macon Ridge. The bulk of this material has been deposited by the Mississippi River and other streams. Topography of the land ranges from level to moderate and steep slopes.

A drainage program consisting of a network of ditches and canals has, during the past ten years, drained thousands of acres of bottomland and made them suitable for crops and pastures.

The total land area of Franklin parish is 414,720 acres. Of this amount, 303,662 acres, 73.2 per cent is in farms. There are 130,247 acres in crops and 127,445 acres in pastures. Although there are a few large plantations in Franklin parish, most of the farms are one or two family size. There are 4,739 farms in the parish with the average size farm being 64.1 acres.

Irrigation is being applied to more farms each year and is now being used on both crops and pastures.

Cotton

Cotton is the principal cash crop, and Franklin parish is the leading cotton producing parish in the state. In 1953, according to Department of Commerce figures, Franklin led Louisiana in cotton production and ginned 74,552 bales before January 16, of this year.

Last year, 102,000 acres of cotton was planted in the parish and 97,000 acres harvested. This year, under the acreage reduction program, Franklin has been alloted 64,000 acres to be planted in cotton.

Cotton gins which can gin hand picked, pulled or machine picked cotton, are located throughout the parish. The Union Compress & Warehouse Co. at Winnsboro is the largest inland cotton compress in the world. The cotton produced in this parish and some from adjoining parishes is stored in this compress where the bales are compressed to a much smaller size and shipped to mills in all parts of the world.

Also located in Winnsboro is a government cotton classing office which serves 11 northeast Louisiana parishes. Over 400,000 bales of the 1953 cotton crop have been classed by this office.

Cattle, Poultry

Beef cattle, dairy herds, commercial poultry farms, hogs, corn, soybeans, hay and other feed crops, are all a very important part of the Franklin parish agriculture picture today.

Every Tuesday cattlemen and farmers go to the Franklin Livestock auction barn in Winnsboro to trade, buy or sell their livestock or other produce.

There are 53 grade A dairies in Franklin parish with a processing plant "The Milk House", being located in Winnsboro. This processing plant buys the milk from the producers, and after it is processed, sells the milk and milk products in wholesale and retail lots.

The poultry business in this parish is growing fast. There is now a total of 32 broiler houses of 5,000 capacity each, in operation. There are also nine, 500 hen capacity laying houses in the parish, and one hatchery located between Gilbert and Wisner, which specializes in broiler type chicks.

Natural Resources

There are limited quantities of timber in Franklin parish and a few saw mills are operating, but as more farm land is cleared the timber area becomes smaller. Varieties of timber which grow here are white oak, red oak, water oak, pin oak, overcup oak, ash, cottonwood, elm, hickory, tupelo gum, pecan, cypress and pine.

Sweet potatoes are grown on Franklin parish farms. A sweet potato Research Center consisting of a 300 acre L.S.U. Louisiana Agricultural Experimental Station, is located five miles south of Winnsboro on Highway 15, near Chase.

The development of mineral resources in Franklin parish has been confined solely to oil and gas production. There are 48 oil wells and two gas wells in the parish, and drilling for more oil and gas is continuing.

Fishing, Hunting

The Tensas and Boeuf Rivers and Bayou Macon furnish fine fishing waters for the people of this area. A dam has been constructed across Turkey Creek seven miles southwest of Wisner to form a large lake which provides excellent fishing and duck hunting. Other lakes in the parish are Dean Lake, Twin Lake, East Lake, Big Cow, Upper Moon, Hollywood, Harris, Hog, Bealer, Johnson, East Johnson, Moore, Little Cow, Middle, Board, Tree, Deer, Calf, Batese, Lower Moon, Little and Forest Lakes. The chief types of fishing here are rod and reel for bass; rod, hook and line for perch and catfish; seines and nets for buffalo and trot lines for catfish. There are two commercial fish markets in the parish; one at Wisner and one at Winnsboro.

Splendid hunting areas are to be found in Franklin parish. The game consists of quail, squirrels and rabbits, with some deer being found in the Tensas river and Bayou Macon area.

Schools

The early schools of Franklin parish were of the most primitive type. School houses were made of logs and furnished with wooden shutters and splitlog benches. In 1908, the first brick school building in the parish was built at Winnsboro. It cost $18.000 and had seven rooms and a basement.

Today there are eight white high schools and two elementary schools. For the Negroes there are two high schools, two junior high schools and 11 elementary schools.

The Franklin parish school board has called an election for April 20, when the resident property taxpayers will be asked to approve bond issues totaling $1,220,000.00, for the improvement and enlargement of the present school system. $950.000 is to be used primarily for the Negro schools of the parish, while $270.000 is scheduled to be used for the white schools. The $270,000 will be used as follows; Winnsboro High school, $175,000; Wisner High school, $35.000; Crowville High School, $30.000, and Baskin High School, $30,000.

In school sports, Franklin parish produced two State Championship girl's basketball teams this year. The Baskin High School girls took the Class B state title for the seventh consecutive time and the Winnsboro High School girls won the Class A title for the first time in 33 years.

Churches

The Boeuf Prairie Methodist (formerly known as the White Swan Methodist church) at Fort Necessity, is the oldest church in the parish. It was founded in 1833, and was 10 years old when Franklin parish was established. Now, there are churches in practically every community, with many church buildings recently remodeled and enlarged. In several communities beautiful new buildings have been erected. Religious denominations represented in Franklin parish include Baptist, Methodist, Presbyterian, Free Methodist, Christian, Church of Christ, Catholic and Assembly of God.

The first Masonic Lodge in Franklin parish was Winnsboro Lodge No. 246 F. and A. M. which was chartered on February 13, 1894. Other lodges in the parish are Crowville Lodge No. 370 F. and A. M., at Crowville; New Hope Lodge No. 328 F. and A. M., at Liddiville; Dan Gilbert Lodge No. 405 F. and A. M., at Gilbert, and T. B. Gilbert Lodge No. 423 F. and A. M., at Wisner.

At Winnsboro is located the Winnsboro Airport, the Franklin Parish Trade School, Franklin Parish Library with a branch at Wisner and a bookmobile to serve rural sections of the parish; Winnsboro State Bank and Trust Co., with a branch at Gilbert; Franklin State Bank and Trust Co., with a branch at Wisner.

The Missouri Pacific Railroad and Highway 15 runs north-south through the parish, and Franklin parish is criss-crossed by a network of blacktop and gravel roads.

The Franklin parish police jury is now operating under the unit system and the quality of parish roads is better now than ever before. At the beginning of this year the Franklin parish police jury was able to pay all debts due and was out of the "red" for the first time in years.

Franklin parish has a health Unit under the supervision of the State Department of Health, and three hospitals—Winnsboro Sanitarium, Inc., Rodgers' Clinic at Winnsboro, and Rosalee Sanitarium at Wisner.

Mail service is provided for Franklin parish citizens by post offices at Winnsboro, Baskin, Chase, Gilbert, Wisner, Crowville, Swampers, Fort Necessity, Jigger and Extension. There are two city routes, one parcel post route, one star route and four rural routes out of the Winnsboro post office. There is one rural route at Baskin, one at Gilbert and one at Wisner.

War Memorial Fair

The Franklin Parish War Memorial Fair Inc., so named, in honor of the brave sons of Franklin parish who either served, suffered, or gave their life, in the military service of their country, is located at Winnsboro. It is at the fairgrounds here that the Catahoula-Franklin-Richland Tri-Parish fair is held each fall.

Modern dial system telephone service is provided for all the parish, except Wisner, by the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Co. Wisner and surrounding area is furnished the same modern service by the LaSalle Telephone Co.

Electricity, which plays a very large part in our way of living today, is available to nearly every family in the parish.

The La. Power and Light Co. and the Northeast La. Power Co-op., Inc., both with headquarters in Winnsboro, supplies Franklin parish with its electric power.

Franklin Parish-- Historical Review

Nearly 5,000 Farms In Parish Average 64 Acres Per Unit

By OTIS HASSELL

Franklin parish, with an area of 648 square miles and located near the center of northeast Louisiana, could well be called the "hub" of this agricultural district.

History of Indians who inhabited the area which is now Franklin parish, is meager, but several Indian Mounds have been excavated, and bones of prehistoric Indians have been dug up near Boeuf River. Many arrow-heads have been found on Bayou Macon.

Louisiana Mounds

Dr. George E. Beyer, who published his "Mounds of Louisiana" in 1897, discusses their origin and purpose and describes the results of excavations of many of the structures. One of the most interesting of these was the Snyder mound near Como, in Franklin parish, from which the oak tree over three hundred years old, had been cut. This was a burial ground that had probably long been abandoned before the oak began to grow. Skeletons of bodies were found arranged in a circle, with the heads toward the center. There were no signs of pottery or implements of any kind, except an arrow-head in the skull of one of the skeletons. The only rectangular mound in this parish was located by Dr. Beyer at a site two miles northeast of the Snyder mound. Ten miles south of Como, near the junction of two bayous, there were three mounds. One was called the Lewis and another the Brannin. The third was unnamed.

One-half mile north of Snyder mound was a group of mounds arranged in parallel rows extending two miles in a northeasterly direction. These were burial mounds, yielding no pottery or implements when excavated. Ten miles from Como, on a farm formerly owned by T. A. Harris, Dr. Beyer found three mounds "full of vessels, stone hatchets, arrow heads, mortar and pestle."

According to Dr. Beyer, the antiquity of these mounds far antedates the discovery of America by Columbus.

Northeast To Hold Conference On Education

MISS MARION B. COOK

Northeast State will sponsor an educational conference Saturday, April 10 from 9 to 11 a.m. in Brown Auditorium on the campus.

The lecture-discussion meeting which will emphasize children's literature is open to the public, Dean William M. Smith of the faculty announced. The program is designed to appeal to classroom teachers, supervisors, administrators, P.-T.A. members and others who are interested in children's literature.

Guest lecturer for the conference will be Miss Marion Belden Cook, noted author, editor, radio speaker and lecturer. Her major interest is illustrated by the title of many of her talks, "Introducing the U.-S. A. to Children Through Books."

As an advocate of regional literature for young people, Miss Cook discusses books of this nature in connection with the study of geography and history. Speaking at clubs, libraries and colleges, she describes how this type of reading brings about a clearer, more sympathetic understanding regarding contemporary life in the United States. The author explains how regional fiction presents important aspects of life in our country, and how it personalizes and dramatizes the work of the social studies program.

To emphasize how such authentic reading material encourages a broader interest in the American way of life, Miss Cook includes brief descriptions of juvenile books and collected short stories about contemporary life in many regions of the United States.

The writer and editor has to her credit the compilation of three books of regional short stories, "Stories from the East and North," "Stories from the South," and "Stories from the West." These are used throughout the United States in elementary schools and libraries, and they have been under study at three of UNESCO's International Childhood Educational Seminars in Brussels, Quebec and Montevideo.

Miss Cook has also written articles about children's regional literature for journals in this country as well as in foreign lands, including Great Britian, India, Pakistan and China.

On her list of activities, she has lectured before women's clubs, P.-T.A. councils, library groups and classes in children's literature at colleges and universities throughout the United States.

TO THE VOTERS OF WEST MONROE

As a completely independent candidate for alderman I want to solicit your vote and support in the April 6 primary election.

I am making the race on my long record as your city clerk, and I believe that the great majority of our citizens will agree that my record as a public servant has been a good one.

The fact that I have served as city clerk for the past 28 years under the administrations of Mayors C. C. Bell, Sr., Harry Williams Jr., D. C. (Monk) Golson, C. C. Bell Jr. and J. Allan Norris should be ample proof that I have never taken part in factional politics; and during those years I have always tried to treat everyone with equal courtesy and consideration.

I am making the race for alderman at the suggestion of numerous friends who expressed themselves as believing that my knowledge of the details of city affairs would be of more value if I were a member of the governing board of aldermen. Since the city charter provides that an alderman can also serve as city clerk, I would retain my present job as city clerk if a majority of the aldermen so desired.

I shall be deeply grateful for your vote and support.

PLAYING OLD VIOLIN—W. F. Shamburger, of West Monroe who is 78, is playing a violin which is well over 250 years old and which was bought by his father who took the instrument in payment of a doctor's fee.

1700 Violin Is Owned By Man In W. Monroe

The life of a violin is not classified in years, but is measured with centuries.

W. F. Shamburger, 78, who is presently residing in West Monroe, is the proud owner of a Canora violin which was made in 1700.

The beautiful instrument, made of beech wood and inlaid with mother of pearl, today possesses a perfect tone, one which is distinctly clear and melodious.

The violin has been in the family for some 70 years. The instrument came into the family when Shamburger's father, who was a doctor in Mississippi, took the violin in payment of a medical bill. He further gave the debtor $50 besides payment of the bill for the instrument.

Inscribed on the back of the violin are several Latin expression, and one when translated literally means "I sing for sad occaions." The interpreter said that the other expressions state that the violin was made for traveling minstrels.

Sen. Williams To Fight Tax Cuts On Dividends In General Revision Bill

WASHINGTON, April 3 (AP)—Sen. Williams (R-Del) said today he will join in a fight to knock out of the general tax revision bill a key section giving tax reductions to stockholders on their dividend income.

The Senate Finance Committee, on which Williams serves, is opening three weeks of public hearings Tuesday on the 875-page measure which represents a complete rewrite of the nation's whole tax structure.

Williams said he was not passing on the merits of the dividend provision, but he contended the government could not afford now to lose the millions of dollars of revenue he said was involved.

"It is ill-advised at this time," he said.

Several Democratic senators also have said they will try to knock the provision out of the bill, and the issue is shaping up as one of the biggest fights ahead on the measure.

Sen. Byrd (D-Va) takes the same position as Williams—that the budget must not be thrown further out of balance. Other Democrats argue the dividend benefit would be largely for the wealthy and that what is needed now is more buying power for low income families. They contend that 80 per cent of all publicly held stock is owned by six-tenths of one per cent of American families.

One Republican Senate leader on tax questions told a reporter privately today he was confident the dividend section could be retained, but he conceded it would be after a tough battle.

President Eisenhower and Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey asked for the provision on the ground that it was a step in the direction of ending "double taxation" of corporation profits. These profits are taxed both as corporation income and as income to the stockholders.

Humphrey contends the move would help greatly to increase investment funds for modernizing business plants and equipment.

Under the provision as approved by the House, up to $50 of dividend income would be exempted from taxes the first year and up to $100 thereafter.

In addition, the stockholder could deduct from his tax 5 per cent of his dividend income the first year, 10 per cent after that.

The estimated revenue loss is 240 million dollars the first year, 814 million annually when the plan reaches full effect.

House Democrats tried to knock out the dividend section bot they were forced by a parliamentary situation to couple it with an income tax cut which they favored. The vote to keep the dividend section, and against the income tax cut, was 210-204.

One Senate Democratic source said the tentative plan in that branch is to try to separate the two issues.

"We want to get separate recorded votes on each one, because we think they both have political oomph," he said. "Besides, we can't mobilize the full strength for either one if they are joined together."

The income tax reduction would be accomplished by an increase in personal exemptions.

Residence Fire In West Monroe Quickly Put Out

The West Monroe fire department Friday afternoon took less than 30 minutes to douse a fire in a residence at 128 Blanks Street, just outside the West Monroe city limits, it was reported Saturday.

According to a fire department spokesman, the fire was reported at 3:35 p.m. Friday. Two trucks were sent to the scene and returned to the station at 4:04 p.m.

The spokesman said damage was "fairly heavy" to one room of the house — which is occupied by Mrs. Ruth Martin — but it was not behond repair. Cause of the blaze was gas escaping from an open pipe, he spokesman said.

INSPECTS OLD HORSECOLLAR—J. C. Raley is shown looking at a horsecollar, reputed to be nearly 100 years old. The collar, made of moss and corn shucks, was bought from John Lumm of Natchez, Miss., and is said to have been made in 1861 by slaves on a Mississippi plantation. Raley got the collar about three weeks ago. (Staff photo.)

Spring's Return Causes Activity For Ki-Ro-Li

Yes, with the arrival of spring our thoughts turn to the great outdoors but for the Boy Scouts of Ouachita Valley Council these thoughts turn to even more outdoor experiences than they have enjoyed during the winter months and they are now busily making their plans for the highlight of their year's outdoor program by making reservations for their attendance at one of the annual council camping periods to be held at Camp Ki-Ro-Li, five miles west of West Monroe.

This camp site, comprising approximately 140 acres of rolling hillland, as well as creek bottom bordering along old Tupaw creek, is ideally situated and easily accessible yet is so located that any scouter that is within its confines feels that he is all alone and far from normal city life. Camp Ki-Ro-Li was founded over a quarter of a century ago by three civic clubs of Monroe, the Kiwanis, the Rotary and the Lions clubs in cooperation with many individual citizens and scouters of the entire council. The name — Ki, in tribute to the Kiwanis, Ro, in tribute to the Rotary club and the Li honoring the Lions clubs, thus giving Ki-Ro-Li.

The opening period of the 1954 camping season will begin May 30 and will last for one week. This period will be for the special training of the camp staff to be headed again this year by field scout executive, Jim Simpson, who will be assisted by other professional scouters as well as many Boy Scouts themselves, all fully qualified in their respective field of activity. The campers themselves will attend Camp Ki-Ro-Li in the course of seven periods of one week each beginning with registration on each Sunday beginning June 6 and each succeeding Sunday thereafter and camp will close July 24.

Already there are many reservations in the council office located in the Ouachita Parish court house here in Monroe. Those scouts planning to attend should check with their scoutmasters at once for proper reservation blanks or call by the council office. Early reservations will also mean a savings in the actual camp fee charged for each boy but to effect these savings the scout's completed reservation blank, along with his reservation fee of $2.00 must be in the council office not later than April 15. This does not mean of course that no reservations will be accepted after this date for they will but it does mean a saving to you for your early committment.

The camping committee has made it mandatory that an adult leader accompany any group of scouts to the camp for the period of time which they may elect to attend. This adult does not have to be the scoutmaster but can be one of the parents or some other adult. So scouts, now is the time to get busy and get your reservation in to the council office without further delay. Last year over six hundred scouts attended Camp Ki-Ro-Li and unfortunately some were deprived of this great experience by failure to make proper reservations.

Head Culls Sports' Tryout Talent Today

Paul Martin Looks 'Em Over

Big league baseball, along with the higher minors, have been dominating the baseball news for the past few weeks, and all the baseball talk naturally starts the home folks working up a fever about what a certain Class C club will be doing to liven up hometown interest in the Cotton States League this year. When Manager Ed Head of the Twin Cities Sports opened his tryout camp here yesterday, the diamond diet served up its first course of daily fare that will be offered hungry fans hereabout well into August.

Head is scheduled to make his final observations of his tryout talent this afternoon before deciding whether any of the rookie prospects show enough stuff to travel with the Sports. Tuesday the Sports will launch spring training with just three weeks to get ready for the Cotton States opener with El Dorado.

"How are the Sports shaping up?" has been a question asked us often in recent weeks. We have been able to answer only that Skipper Head has signed so many players coming to us well recommended. We don't know a thing about these men except what we have been told. If they live up to recommendations, they should be just what we want. Personally, we'd rather wait to see what they show during spring training. After all the Twin Cities will be having a complete new personnel this year. No players with Monroe last year will be back unless something unforeseen developes in the next few weeks. Before our season opens a lot of changes could still be made as Head and his board of directors for the Twin Cities Baseball Corporation seek to find the kind of players they want.

Of all the players under contract to the Sports at this writing, we know only one. Showing the stuff he delivered the last time we saw him in action, we're satisfied he can do our Cotton States entry plenty of good. He's pitcher Billy Halley, the Union parish athlete who started a career in the Brooklyn Dodger system at Greenwood, Miss., and shut out the Sports, 2-0, on three hits in his last professional baseball appearance in 1952. Halley, who made his original jump to pro ball from the West Monroe Rebels of the old Delta League, had to quit the game two years ago to operate the logging business of a brother who was called into military service.

At 23 years of age, Billy Glenn Halley, still has a baseball future if the strong right arm comes through.

W. A. Bennett, the West Monroe cafe operator, proudly informs us his son, Walter Bennett, has made the Wheaton College varsity baseball team as a freshman. He will perform at second base for the Crusaders who leave their home 20 miles west of Chicago on April 6 for a nine-game invasion of Florida before moving into New Orleans to play Loyola of the South on April 18.

Young Walt proved quite an all around athlete for Ouachita Parish High School and on American Legion Junior baseball teams here before going to Wheaton. He lettered in basketball at Wheaton the past winter and promises to be an athletic "find" for the Crusaders as he is the only frosh on the baseball team and one of the few to participate in basketball. A Christian college of around 1700 students, Wheaton's motto is "For Christ and His Kingdom." Young Bennett aspires for the ministry and held Baptist youth services here before leaving for Wheaton.

J. P. Friend, the Cotton States League statistician of Blytheville, Ark., offers his rendition of the Ed Head success story to newspapers throughout the Cotton States territory today. The story of the new pilot of the Twin Cities Sports has been rehashed time and again for the past 15 years, but it's always good reading, and we're glad to offer Friend's story elsewhere in this section today.

Intra-Squad Game On Tap For Final Session Of Camp

Twenty-five athletes aspiring to professional baseball careers reported to manager Ed Head of the Twin Cities Sports yesterday for the opening of a two-day tryout camp at which the Sports hope to uncover a few players to bolster their chances for a strong race in the Cotton States League.

The tryouts will be concluded at Legion Memorial Stadium here this afternoon, beginning at 1 o'clock. A feature of today's program will be an intra-squad game, beginning at 2:30 o'clock.

Manager Head last night declined to name any players in the group who might land contracts with the Sports, but he dild compliment the group as a whole as "a fine bunch of athletes who show they know what baseball is all about. There's not a boy in the bunch whose's out there to get in the way. They're all dead serious and I enjoyed every minute of my first session with them. Of course we can't possibly sign up everybody, but a few already look worthy."

A pair of pitchers already under contract to the Sports reported yesterday to assist manager Head in conducting the tryouts. They are Billy Halley and Ernest Jordan, both formerly in the Brooklyn Dodger system, Halley at Greenwood, Miss., and Jordan at Great Falls, Mont.

The roll call yesterday showed prospects from Olla, Lake Providence, Pioneer, Sterlington, Swartz, Bastrop, Mer Rouge, Wisner, Rayville, Farmerville, Marion, Monroe and West Monroe in Louisiana, and Mineral Springs, Okay, and Nashville in Arkansas seeking to impress Skipper Head with their wares.

Any players looking like they might have what Head needs to fill the gaps in his roster will be offered contracts immediately after this afternoon's drills.

Official spring training for the Sports is scheduled to start here Tuesday.

Mrs. Zaharias' chief threat, however, appeared to be Louise Suggs of Atlanta, the pre-tournament favorite, who followed her disappointing first - day 75 for 148 and third position—two strokes off the pace.

Start Qualifying Monday For Municipal's Amateur

Qualifying for the fourth annual Municipal One-Day Amateur Golf Tournament begins tomorrow at Municipal Golf Club and continues through April 24. Pro Hugh A. Britt has his event scheduled for action Sunday, April 25.

The tournament, not an invitational affair, is open to any amateurs who seek to dethrone Johnny Myers, Bastrop, the defending champion.

Play will be arranged in flights of eight to play three nine-hole matches in the course of the day's tournament action.

A special division will also be run for boys 16 years of age and under with a five-dollar entry fee required for the boys' section, Pro Britt has announced.

Upon payment of entry fees, the Municipal course will be open free to all contenders seeking to practice for the tournament.

Taking into consideration the possibility of inclement weather on the tournament date, Britt last night said the tournament committee has decide to postpone play one week to May 2 in the event of rain on the last Sunday in April. Britt said he also invites communications with him at Municipal Golf Club from any amateurs seeking more technical particulars concerning his annual tourney.

Season Openers For Texas Loop Billed Thursday

DALLAS, April 3 (AP)—The storied old Texas League launches its 59th season Thursday amid predictions that there will be a marked upturn in interest and attendance and that the pennant race will be stronger.

Tribe Blanks McNeese, 6-0, For First GSC Win

LAKE CHARLES, La., April 3 (Special)—The Northeast State College baseballers won their first Gulf States Conference game here this afternoon, blanking the McNeese State Cowboys, 6-0, on a superb five-hit performance by freshman Joe Jordan, who started and hurled seven fames, and freshman Delmar Thompson, who went the finial two.

According to the Tribe coach, "Woody" Boyles, Jordan was not pulled for any reason other than to give Thompson a little work. The Bastrop lad maintained the shutout and showed plenty of stuff to match his Chatham mate's sparkling job.

The winners played errorless ball for the first time this season, while McNeese committeed five miscues.

Harold Davis, veteran Indian infielder, led the Tribe's seven-hit attack, with two singles in three trips, and Northeast third baseman, Bobo Thompson, collected the only extra base blow of the game, a two-run double.

It was the Indian's Wes Jinks who broke the Cowboys' backs with a bases-loaded single in the sixth, good for two more runs.

Paul Martin Looks 'Em Over

Big league baseball, along with the higher minors, have been dominating the baseball news for the past few weeks, and all the baseball talk naturally starts the home folks working up a fever about what a certain Class C club will be doing to liven up hometown interest in the Cotton States League this year. When Manager Ed Head of the Twin Cities Sports opened his tryout camp here yesterday, the diamond diet served up its first course of daily fare that will be offered hungry fans hereabout well into August.

Head is scheduled to make his final observations of his tryout talent this afternoon before deciding whether any of the rookie prospects show enough stuff to travel with the Sports. Tuesday the Sports will launch spring training with just three weeks to get ready for the Cotton States opener with El Dorado.

"How are the Sports shaping up?" has been a question asked us often in recent weeks. We have been able to answer only that Skipper Head has signed so many players coming to us well recommended. We don't know a thing about these men except what we have been told. If they live up to recommendations, they should be just what we want. Personally, we'd rather wait to see what they show during spring training. After all the Twin Cities will be having a complete new personnel this year. No players with Monroe last year will be back unless something unforeseen developes in the next few weeks. Before our season opens a lot of changes could still be made as Head and his board of directors for the Twin Cities Baseball Corporation seek to find the kind of players they want.

Of all the players under contract to the Sports at this writing, we know only one. Showing the stuff he delivered the last time we saw him in action, we're satisfied he can do our Cotton States entry plenty of good. He's pitcher Billy Halley, the Union parish athlete who started a career in the Brooklyn Dodger system at Greenwood, Miss., and shut out the Sports, 2-0, on three hits in his last professional baseball appearance in 1952. Halley, who made his original jump to pro ball from the West Monroe Rebels of the old Delta League, had to quit the game two years ago to operate the logging business of a brother who was called into military service.

At 23 years of age, Billy Glenn Halley, still has a baseball future if the strong right arm comes through.

W. A. Bennett, the West Monroe cafe operator, proudly informs us his son, Walter Bennett, has made the Wheaton College varsity baseball team as a freshman. He will perform at second base for the Crusaders who leave their home 20 miles west of Chicago on April 6 for a nine-game invasion of Florida before moving into New Orleans to play Loyola of the South on April 18.

Young Walt proved quite an all around athlete for Ouachita Parish High School and on American Legion Junior baseball teams here before going to Wheaton. He lettered in basketball at Wheaton the past winter and promises to be an athletic "find" for the Crusaders as he is the only frosh on the baseball team and one of the few to participate in basketball. A Christian college of around 1700 students, Wheaton's motto is "For Christ and His Kingdom." Young Bennett aspires for the ministry and held Baptist youth services here before leaving for Wheaton.

J. P. Friend, the Cotton States League statistician of Blytheville, Ark., offers his rendition of the Ed Head success story to newspapers throughout the Cotton States territory today. The story of the new pilot of the Twin Cities Sports has been rehashed time and again for the past 15 years, but it's always good reading, and we're glad to offer Friend's story elsewhere in this section today.

Head Culls Sports' Tryout Talent Today

Intra-Squad Game On Tap For Final Session Of Camp

Twenty-five athletes aspiring to professional baseball careers reported to manager Ed Head of the Twin Cities Sports yesterday for the opening of a two-day tryout camp at which the Sports hope to uncover a few players to bolster their chances for a strong race in the Cotton States League.

The tryouts will be concluded at Legion Memorial Stadium here this afternoon, beginning at 1 o'clock. A feature of today's program will be an intra-squad game, beginning at 2:30 o'clock.

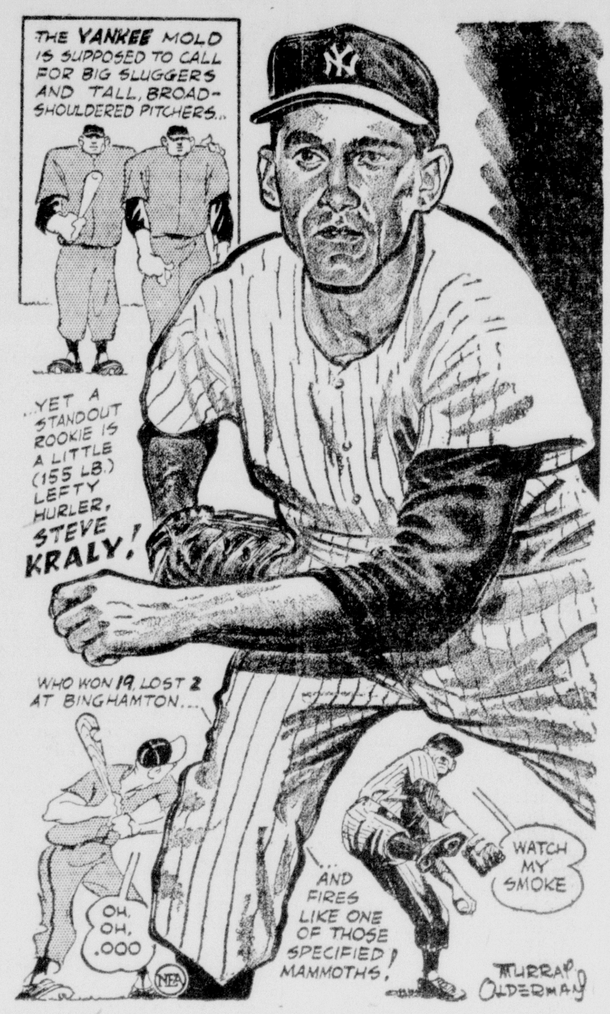
Manager Head last night declined to name any players in the group who might land contracts with the Sports, but he diid compliment the group as a whole as "a fine bunch of athletes who show they know what baseball is all about. There's not a boy in the bunch whose's out there to get in the way. They're all dead serious and I enjoyed every minute of my first session with them. Of course we can't possibly sign up everybody, but a few already look worthy."

A pair of pitchers already under contract to the Sports reported yesterday to assist manager Head in conducting the tryouts. They are Billy Halley and Ernest Jordan, both formerly in the Brooklyn Dodger system, Halley at Greenwood, Miss., and Jordan at Great Falls, Mont.

The roll call yesterday showed prospects from Olla, Lake Providence, Pioneer, Sterlington, Swartz, Bastrop, Mer Rouge, Wisner, Rayville, Farmerville, Marion, Monroe and West Monroe in Louisiana, and Mineral Springs, Okay, and Nashville in Arkansas seeking to impress Skipper Head with their wares.

Any players looking like they might have what Head needs to fill the gaps in his roster will be offered contracts immediately after this afternoon's drills.

Official spring training for the Sports is scheduled to start here Tuesday.



Start Qualifying Monday For Municipal's Amateur

Qualifying for the fourth annual Municipal One-Day Amateur Golf Tournament begins tomorrow at Municipal Golf Club and continues through April 24. Pro Hugh A. Britt has his event scheduled for action Sunday, April 25.

The tournament, not an invitational affair, is open to any amateurs who seek to dethrone Johnny Myers, Bastrop, the defending champion.

Play will be arranged in flights of eight to play three nine-hole matches in the course of the day's tournament action.

A special division will also be run for boys 16 years of age and under with a five-dollar entry fee required for the boys' section, Pro Britt has announced.

Upon payment of entry fees, the Municipal course will be open free to all contenders seeking to practice for the tournament.

Taking into consideration the possibility of inclement weather on the tournament date, Britt last night said the tournament committee has decide to postpone play one week to May 2 in the event of rain on the last Sunday in April. Britt said he also invites communications with him at Municipal Golf Club from any amateurs seeking more technical particulars concerning his annual tourney.

L. S. U. Defeats Miss. State Nine By 7 To 4 Edge

BATON ROUGE, April 3 (AP)—Relief pitcher Roger Sigler hurled five innings of hitless ball as Louisiana State downed Mississippi State 7-4 today in a Southeastern Conference baseball game.

Sigler relieved starter Bill Lee in the fifth inning and got credit for the victory. Three LSU errors allowed Mississippi State to score two unearned runs off Sigler.

Darryl Whitty got a triple and two singles in four times at bat to lead the LSU hitting attack. Bobby Mohon started on the mound for Mississippi State.

Mrs. Zaharias' chief threat, however, appeared to be Louise Suggs of Atlanta, the pre-tournament favorite, who followed her disappointing first - day 75 for 148 and third position—two strokes off the pace.

La. Tech's Vallery Ties Mark In Southern Relays

Loyola Of South, Cornell Rank 1st As Point Makers

By MERCER BAILEY

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., April 3 (AP)—Purdue track stars set two records in the seventh annual Southern Relays today, and a Louisiana Tech field man tied another.

Purdue's fine distance runner, Gene Matthews, stepped off the 2-mile run in 9:22.6—six seconds under the old mark—although not another man in the race could give him any real competition.

The blond speedster moved into an early lead and finished about 30 seconds ahead of the runnerup, Don Farley of Cornell. The old standard was set last year by Fred Eckhoff of Oklahoma A. and M. This event was introduced in the meet last year.

Purdue's team broke the mile relay record with a 3:17.4 performance, pulling ahead of Cornell on the final turn. The old mark was 3:17.6, set by Oklahoma A. and M. in 1950.

This same team—Hugh Wiley, Tom Hughes, Bob Hoey and Ben Youtsey—also captured the 880 relay.

Ray Vallery of Louisiana Tech matched the meet's broad jump record with a leap of 23 feet 11 3:4 inches. The record was set two years ago by Lewis of Yale.

No official team trophy is awarded, but Loyola of New Orleans turned in a surprisingly fine showing, tying with Cornell's meet favorites on unofficial points.

Loyola won the 440 relay and the Javelin, took second in the 880 relay, third in the distance medley relay and the broad jump, fourth in the discus and fifth in the high hurdles.

Cornell took the two-mile relay and the sprint medley, but failed to repeat last year's victories in the 880 and mile relays.

The unofficial point totals gave Cornell and Loyola 24 ½ each; Auburn 21½; Purdue 20; Louisiana State and Florida 17; Ohio State 16; Louisiana Tech 14; Alabama and Georgia Tech 13; Duke 10; Mississippi 8; Tulane and Georgia 7; Mississippi State 5; Michigan 4; Mississippi Southern 3 and Washington and Lee 1½. The points are figured on the same basis used in the Southeastern Conference meet—5, 4, 3, 2, 1.

Jim Dillion of Auburn took the discus as was expected, but he failed to break the record he set in 1952. His winning toss of 167 feet 3½ inches was considerably under the 171-4 ½ he got two years ago.

Earl Poucher of Florida won the pole vault with a leap of 13 feet 6 inches, more than one foot shy of the record and four inches under the vault he amde here last year to tie for second.

The 100-yard dash was one of the most closely run in the meet's history, but the winning time fell two-tenths of a second short of the record 9.6 Mississippi's John Barber gave an extra kick at the tape and finished a hair ahead of Bruce Lenoir of Louisiana Tech and Bob Dean of Louisiana State, second and third respectively.

Dodgers Recall Pete Wojey For 'Another Look'

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., April 3 (AP)—Brooklyn today recalled pitcher Pete Wojey from his Mobile home where he was left two days ago for assignment to a farm club.

"Manager Alston told me he wanted another look at Wojey so we brought him back. He'll get at least one more chance to pitch," said vice president Buzzy Bavasi.

It was considered significant that Alston, who previously expressed regret that he couldn't have seen Wojey again, made the formal request after watching the Braves belt Joe Black and Tom LaSorda here yesterday. Wojey, 31-year-old right hander up from Fort Worth, allowed only one earned run in 12 innings this spring.

Ed Head's Success Story Should Stimulate Sports

By J. P. FRIEND
C.S.L. Statistician

The success story, heart warming, soul searing struggle in which the hero overcomes handicaps and obstacles to come out on top, is as old as time itself and as new and fresh as your morning newspaper. The Horatio Algers and Frank Merriwells are a part of the great American heritage; as American as the hot dog or baseball.

The Cotton States League, getting ready to open its gates for the 39th season over a 53-year-old period come April 27, boasts among its managerial personnel a living example of what can be done if the incentive and the heart work together with the hands.

Baseball records show that Edward Marvin Head, new general manager who also will double as field leader for the Monroe (La.) Sports, bats and throws "right handed," and thereby hangs the key to one of the most touching stories ever to come out of the glorious South or anywhere else; a story of faith, courage, determination and personal sacrifice in time and effort of a youngster to fulfill an ambition that completely dominated his life.

Actually, the story begins to unfold in the hospital. There had been an accident. A bus transporting a Selma (La.) high school team was sideswiped by a truck. Ed Head, their star southpaw pitcher, suffered a crushed left arm which he had draped out of the bus window. Doctors debated amputation, fearful of what would happen if infection set in on the mangled arm. Edward pleaded with them not to sever it, pointing out his place on the team, emphasized that he "just had to play baseball" and couldn't do it with only one arm.

The star athlete won his argument as the doctors went about to save the arm and Edward's life. It was a glorious victory for all. Edward came through with his life but with an arm that would do no more pitching, to say the least.

Loss of the left arm didn't stop him. It served to stimulate him to activity. He had another good one left, so Edward Head kept his sights on his dream for the future and began throwing with his right arm. Days, weeks and months passed, filled with countless hours of patient throwing by the game youth. He continued to play baseball as an outfielder until he finally developed control with his right arm. Then came the test in sandlot ball. Again success. More work until more perfection was reached and he felt that he was ready.

Good news, like the bad, gets around. The story of the game youngster who converted himself from a southpaw to a righthanded pitcher by his own efforts reached the Brooklyn Dodgers. They sent a scout to investigate. The ivory hunter liked what he saw and signed Ed to a contract and assigned him to their Abbeville (La.) farm club.

The rest is a matter of record. Edward Head made good on his first golden opportunity by winning 19 games while losing only eight for the Evangeline League outfit, posting a fine 2.50 earned run average. That was in 1939, only 19 years after Edward first discovered Louisiana.

He earned a promotion and got it, to Elmira of the Eastern League (Class A), where he continued his advance to the majors with 12-7 and 2.56 ERA. Brooklyn recalled him before the National League 1940 season was out. He won one and was charged with two defeats.

Greatly improved but not quite ready for the big show, Head was sent to the Montreal affiliate in 1941 where he proved his right to a Dodger berth with an outstanding 18-8 chart.

Crowning event in Ed Head's courageous fight was reached in 1942 when the Dodgers recalled him. Appearing in 36 games as both starter and fireman, he was credited with 10 wins and only six reverses with 3.55 in earned tallies. The following season Edward toiled in 170 frames over a 47-game route, 17 of which he finished, with a 9-10 winning record. But his creditable 3.65 ERA stood out.

Uncle Sam's overseas argument not only cut short Ed's baseball career as a player; all but eliminated it. Ht was inducted into the army before the 1943 season got underway. The sands of time were running out on his pro baseball service upon his return in 1946, but he had enough to break even in six decisions. One was a magnificent no-hitter against the Braves on April 23, 1946. Shortly afterward he developed a sore arm that lasted into the next season. It cost him his big chance to appear in a world series as the Dodgers went on to capture the National League flag but bowed to Yankee superiority in seven gruelling battles.

Head remained in the Brooklyn organization, serving as manager of Three Rivers (Provincial); Asheville (Tri-State); Lancaster, two (Inter-State), and Mobile (Southern) two.

Edward Head comes back to his native Louisiana where he has joined forces with another band of men determined to keep organized baseball in Monroe, following the withdrawal of Shreveport as sponsor. Among them are Dr. W. L. Bendel, prominent physician and surgeon; F. N. Steele, automobile dealer; Walter Savage, public accountant; R. D. Farr, Jr., insurance executive, who hold offices in the Twin Cities Baseball Corporation. Assisting on the board of directors are Cary Phillips, erstwhile All-American Ole Miss cager; Kirt Touchstone; L. N. (Buddy) Blair, former Athletics star; Steve Gilbert; Guy Campbell; Cary Thompson; Saul Adler, one of the leaders in the reorganization movement.

There are 330 stockholders who helped finance the club by buying shares at $50.

Such an indomitable spirit breeds only success and the Twin Cities of Monroe and West Monroe have pledged their loyal support, all of which means a merry clicking of the turnstiles. To their charges will go the honor of writing another chapter in the success story of Edward Marvin Head. Twin Cities fandom hope it will be comparable to the others.

Bastrop's Rams Wrest Loop Lead From Byrd, 7-5

SHREVEPORT, La., April 3 (Special)—Bastrop's Rams nudged Byrd from the top spot in the north Louisiana Class AA baseball race and moved in themselves with a nine-inning 7 to 5 victory over the Jackets at Betty Virgnia Park here today. Byrd's record now reads 3-1 and Bastrop's is 2-0.

Bastrop used five back-to-back singles for a four-run fourth inning, and held a 5-1 lead going into the bottom of the seventh. But before Bastrop could wrap up the victoryy there, J. W. Brodnax, Ram pitcher, blew sky high and issued three passes. Joe Segers and "Spanky" McCoy of Byrd then slapped a pair of two-run singles to tie it up.

The clinching tallies in the ninth came off Jacket reliefer John Parnell. Outfielder Walter Hull reached on a fielder's choice and John Stormet walked to set up the scoring. Gayle Peeke, Bastrop infielder singled across Hull, and Stormet scored on a long fly by Bill Loftin.

Brodnax and Alva Greer for two-for-three for the Rams, and Wayde Scott, top "AA" batter with a .405 before the game, boosted his mark with three-for-five. Of the 21 hits by both teams, all were singles.

Tag Mat Bout Tuesday; Two-To-Win Semi-Final

Many weeks have elapsed at Gus Kallio's Arena since the ever-popular tag match has held sway, but Tuesday night the relay feature returns when Indian Chief Apache and partner Paddy Mack take on "Big Boy" Cronin and the Alaska Wolf Man in a two-falls-to-win, 90-minute time limit bout.

Instead of the usual ten-minute "warm-up" preliminaries, between opposing team members, another two-falls-to-win match will raise the curtain, pitting Al Massey against Charro Aztec. This tussle, slated to begin at 8:15, will have a one hour limit.

Last Tuesday, Chief Apache climaxed a three-week feud with Cronin, by finally turning the "Big Boy" back in the main event, using his own villainous methods.

The two have had three crowd-pleasing matches, with Cronin spending his time trying to get the Chief enraged enough to lose his head completely, which he did for two consecutive weeks, thus losing both times.

Cronin managed to get the Chief in a furor last Tuesday, but the Indian fooled him by pulling a leather cord from his own multi-colored trunks, strangling the villain, who had previously used a piece of paper to rub Apache's face, and threw him to the floor to apply one of his famous head-standing hammerlocks.

The Indian's colorful hammerlock had subdued Cronin in the second fall to tie up the match, and the final lock finished the Mississippian for the evening.

Cronin's partner, the Wolf Man, came here without advance billing, and nothing was known of him other than he had a short beard and a good build. After his match last week with Aztec, the spectators still only know that he has a short beard and a good build. His wrestling ability is yet to be determined, for he charged out of his corner, and before Aztec knew what was going on, the Alaskan had slugged him into the ropes, beat him ferociously, and attacked the referee to boot. So he was immediately disqualified.

With such a slam-bang partner, the wily Cronin should have a perfect team.

The Chief's partner, Mack, has not been defeated in the local ring. He won over Bill Barney and Rex Mobley in short order, and battled Al Massey to a 30-minute draw last week, taking the match by disqualification after the final gong.

Massey, who fights the hardest of anybody seen here in many months, takes on a man bigger than even himself Tuesday in the opener. Aztec has always been an illegal-style grappler, but didn't have a chance to use any of it last week. In fact his bout with the Wolf Man probably was his first here that he didn't pull any hair.

The Massey-Aztec bout at 8:15 may be as thrilling and popular to watch as the main.

More than 2,000 different kinds of automobiles were marketed in the United States before 1912.

The league opens its 120-game season April 27.

Three new umpires are included in the six regular and two extra officials listed by Harty.

Bienville Parish High Schools In Cage Clampdown

ARCADIA, La., April 3 (Special)—The principals of the nine schools of Beinville Parish in their regular monthly meeting last night put restrictions on the number of games of basketball to be played next session and the length of the season.

The principals feel that the season is too long and that too many games are played by the schools and that too many tournaments are entered by the teams, both boys and girls. It was voted that no school in the parish play a game next fall until after 30 teaching days have passed which will be the end of the first six weeks of school. No league games are to be played until November 1.

In addition, the principals voted that both boys and girls teams could enter only four invitational tournaments during the year not counting district and state meets. Also, during the playing season, a school may play only two games a week and, when the teams are entering tournaments, only one interscholastic game may be played.

The principals voted the restrictions after a long session of discussions. They feel that too much basketball is not only hurting the academic work of the schools of the parish, but that in some instances the very health of the boys and girls may be impaired by so much of this indoor sport. It was also pointed out that due to the long season that the public tired of the sport and that it was hard to finance the program because of the small attendance towards the close of the playing season.

All schools in the parish have basketball as their major sport except Arcadia which has football. The football season ends about Nov. 15.

His Idaho teams won 138 and lost 120 in seven years. During the last three years, the Vandals either finished second or tied for second in the northern division of the Pacific Coast Conference.

He came to Idaho from the New Mexico School of Mines in 1947. He also coached at the Texas School of Mines, in the Navy and at a number of southwest high schools.

La. Tech's Vallery Ties Mark In Southern Relays

Loyola Of South, Cornell Rank 1st As Point Makers

By MERCER BAILEY

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., April 3 (AP)—Purdue track stars set two records in the seventh annual Southern Relays today, and a Louisiana Tech field man tied another.

Purdue's fine distance runner, Gene Matthews, stepped off the 2-mile run in 9:22.6—six seconds under the old mark—although not another man in the race could give him any real competition.

The blond speedster moved into an early lead and finished about 30 seconds ahead of the runnerup, Don Farley of Cornell. The old standard was set last year by Fred Eckhoff of Oklahoma A. and M. This event was introduced in the meet last year.

Purdue's team broke the mile relay record with a 3:17.4 performance, pulling ahead of Cornell on the final turn. The old mark was 3:17.6, set by Oklahoma A. and M. in 1950.

This same team—Hugh Wiley, Tom Hughes, Bob Hoey and Ben Youtsey—also captured the 880 relay.

Ray Vallery of Louisiana Tech matched the meet's broad jump record with a leap of 23 feet 11 3:4 inches. The record was set two years ago by Lewis of Yale.

No official team trophy is awarded, but Loyola of New Orleans turned in a surprisingly fine showing, tying with Cornell's meet favorites on unofficial points.

Loyola won the 440 relay and the Javelin, took second in the 880 relay, third in the distance medley relay and the broad jump, fourth in the discus and fifth in the high hurdles.

Cornell took the two-mile relay and the sprint medley, but failed to repeat last year's victories in the 880 and mile relays.

The unofficial point totals gave Cornell and Loyola 24 ½ each; Auburn 21½; Purdue 20; Louisiana State and Florida 17; Ohio State 16; Louisiana Tech 14; Alabama and Georgia Tech 13; Duke 10; Mississippi 8; Tulane and Georgia 7; Mississippi State 5; Michigan 4; Mississippi Southern 3 and Washington and Lee 1½. The points are figured on the same basis used in the Southeastern Conference meet—5, 4, 3, 2, 1.

Jim Dillion of Auburn took the discus as was expected, but he failed to break the record he set in 1952. His winning toss of 167 feet 3½ inches was considerably under the 171-4 ½ he got two years ago.

Earl Poucher of Florida won the pole vault with a leap of 13 feet 6 inches, more than one foot shy of the record and four inches under the vault he amde here last year to tie for second.

The 100-yard dash was one of the most closely run in the meet's history, but the winning time fell two-tenths of a second short of the record 9.6 Mississippi's John Barber gave an extra kick at the tape and finished a hair ahead of Bruce Lenoir of Louisiana Tech and Bob Dean of Louisiana State, second and third respectively.

Dodgers Recall Pete Wojey For 'Another Look'

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., April 3 (AP)—Brooklyn today recalled pitcher Pete Wojey from his Mobile home where he was left two days ago for assignment to a farm club.

"Manager Alston told me he wanted another look at Wojey so we brought him back. He'll get at least one more chance to pitch," said vice president Buzzy Bavasi.

It was considered significant that Alston, who previously expressed regret that he couldn't have seen Wojey again, made the formal request after watching the Braves belt Joe Black and Tom LaSorda here yesterday. Wojey, 31-year-old right hander up from Fort Worth, allowed only one earned run in 12 innings this spring.

Ed Head's Success Story Should Stimulate Sports

By J. P. FRIEND
C.S.L. Statistician

The success story, heart warming, soul searing struggle in which the hero overcomes handicaps and obstacles to come out on top, is as old as time itself and as new and fresh as your morning newspaper. The Horatio Algers and Frank Merriwells are a part of the great American heritage; as American as the hot dog or baseball.

The Cotton States League, getting ready to open its gates for the 39th season over a 53-year-old period come April 27, boasts among its managerial personnel a living example of what can be done if the incentive and the heart work together with the hands.

Baseball records show that Edward Marvin Head, new general manager who also will double as field leader for the Monroe (La.) Sports, bats and throws "right handed," and thereby hangs the key to one of the most touching stories ever to come out of the glorious South or anywhere else; a story of faith, courage, determination and personal sacrifice in time and effort of a youngster to fulfill an ambition that completely dominated his life.

Actually, the story begins to unfold in the hospital. There had been an accident. A bus transporting a Selma (La.) high school team was sideswiped by a truck. Ed Head, their star southpaw pitcher, suffered a crushed left arm which he had draped out of the bus window. Doctors debated amputation, fearful of what would happen if infection set in on the mangled arm. Edward pleaded with them not to sever it, pointing out his place on the team, emphasized that he "just had to play baseball" and couldn't do it with only one arm.

The star athlete won his argument as the doctors went about to save the arm and Edward's life. It was a glorious victory for all. Edward came through with his life but with an arm that would do no more pitching, to say the least.

Loss of the left arm didn't stop him. It served to stimulate him to activity. He had another good one left, so Edward Head kept his sights on his dream for the future and began throwing with his right arm. Days, weeks and months passed, filled with countless hours of patient throwing by the game youth. He continued to play baseball as an outfielder until he finally developed control with his right arm. Then came the test in sandlot ball. Again success. More work until more perfection was reached and he felt that he was ready.

Good news, like the bad, gets around. The story of the game youngster who converted himself from a southpaw to a righthanded pitcher by his own efforts reached the Brooklyn Dodgers. They sent a scout to investigate. The ivory hunter liked what he saw and signed Ed to a contract and assigned him to their Abbeville (La.) farm club.

The rest is a matter of record. Edward Head made good on his first golden opportunity by winning 19 games while losing only eight for the Evangeline League outfit, posting a fine 2.50 earned run average. That was in 1939, only 19 years after Edward first discovered Louisiana.

He earned a promotion and got it, to Elmira of the Eastern League (Class A), where he continued his advance to the majors with 12-7 and 2.56 ERA. Brooklyn recalled him before the National League 1940 season was out. He won one and was charged with two defeats.

Greatly improved but not quite ready for the big show, Head was sent to the Montreal affiliate in 1941 where he proved his right to a Dodger berth with an outstanding 18-8 chart.

Crowning event in Ed Head's courageous fight was reached in 1942 when the Dodgers recalled him. Appearing in 36 games as both starter and fireman, he was credited with 10 wins and only six reverses with 3.55 in earned tallies. The following season Edward toiled in 170 frames over a 47-game route, 17 of which he finished, with a 9-10 winning record. But his creditable 3.65 ERA stood out.

Uncle Sam's overseas argument not only cut short Ed's baseball career as a player; all but eliminated it. Ht was inducted into the army before the 1943 season got underway. The sands of time were running out on his pro baseball service upon his return in 1946, but he had enough to break even in six decisions. One was a magnificent no-hitter against the Braves on April 23, 1946. Shortly afterward he developed a sore arm that lasted into the next season. It cost him his big chance to appear in a world series as the Dodgers went on to capture the National League flag but bowed to Yankee superiority in seven gruelling battles.

Head remained in the Brooklyn organization, serving as manager of Three Rivers (Provincial); Asheville (Tri-State); Lancaster, two (Inter-State), and Mobile (Southern) two.

Edward Head comes back to his native Louisiana where he has joined forces with another band of men determined to keep organized baseball in Monroe, following the withdrawal of Shreveport as sponsor. Among them are Dr. W. L. Bendel, prominent physician and surgeon; F. N. Steele, automobile dealer; Walter Savage, public accountant; R. D. Farr, Jr., insurance executive, who hold offices in the Twin Cities Baseball Corporation. Assisting on the board of directors are Cary Phillips, erstwhile All-American Ole Miss cager; Kirt Touchstone; L. N. (Buddy) Blair, former Athletics star; Steve Gilbert; Guy Campbell; Cary Thompson; Saul Adler, one of the leaders in the reorganization movement.

There are 330 stockholders who helped finance the club by buying shares at $50.

Such an indomitable spirit breeds only success and the Twin Cities of Monroe and West Monroe have pledged their loyal support, all of which means a merry clicking of the turnstiles. To their charges will go the honor of writing another chapter in the success story of Edward Marvin Head. Twin Cities fandom hope it will be comparable to the others.

Bastrop's Rams Wrest Loop Lead From Byrd, 7-5

SHREVEPORT, La., April 3 (Special)—Bastrop's Rams nudged Byrd from the top spot in the north Louisiana Class AA baseball race and moved in themselves with a nine-inning 7 to 5 victory over the Jackets at Betty Virgnia Park here today. Byrd's record now reads 3-1 and Bastrop's is 2-0.

Bastrop used five back-to-back singles for a four-run fourth inning, and held a 5-1 lead going into the bottom of the seventh. But before Bastrop could wrap up the victoryy there, J. W. Brodnax, Ram pitcher, blew sky high and issued three passes. Joe Segers and "Spanky" McCoy of Byrd then slapped a pair of two-run singles to tie it up.

The clinching tallies in the ninth came off Jacket reliefer John Parnell. Outfielder Walter Hull reached on a fielder's choice and John Stormet walked to set up the scoring. Gayle Peeke, Bastrop infielder singled across Hull, and Stormet scored on a long fly by Bill Loftin.

Brodnax and Alva Greer for two-for-three for the Rams, and Wayde Scott, top "AA" batter with a .405 before the game, boosted his mark with three-for-five. Of the 21 hits by both teams, all were singles.

Score by innings:

Bastrop	000 410 002—7 12 2
Byrd	001 000 400—5 9 1

Brodnax, Murry (8) and Bill Loftin; Cunningham, Jamison (5), Parnell (8), Ellis (9) and Winterrowd.

LAFAYETTE, La., April 3 (AP)—Southpaw Ray Taliaferro scattered six hits in pitching Southwestern Louisiana Institute to a 6-1 Gulf States Conference baseball victory over Louisiana Tech today.

Taliaferro, an all-time all-GSC player, scored the first run when third baseman Charley Mayer doubled him home in the third inning. Mayer, who had a double and a triple in three trips, accounted for three runs.

La. Tech	000 000 010—1 6 1

Andrews, Pettit (7) and Berry, Hunt (8); Taliaferro and Danos.

Tag Mat Bout Tuesday; Two-To-Win Semi-Final

Morrow Tackles Merrins In New Orleans' Finals

NEW ORLEANS, April 3 (AP) Tommy Morrow and Eddie Merrins, both of the Louisiana State University golf team, meet tomorrow for the championship of the New Orleans Country Club Invitational golf tournament.

It will be the third all-LSU finals in the 18-year history of the tourney.

Morrow, of Shreveport, La., advanced to the finals with an easy 7 and 5 over ailing 19-year-old Jackie Doss of Monroe. Doss was taking penicillin shots to fight off the flu.

Merrins of Meridian, Miss., had more trouble in eliminating Dick Collord Jr., New Orleans, 1 up. Collord was runner-up in the finals during the last two tournaments.

Softball League Meetings Begin

According to Jack Hesketh, City Recreation Director, the Civic Club League softball meeting will be held tomorrow evening at 7 p.m. at the Recreation Center. All clubs who plan to enter teams in this league are requested to have a represenative present.

The Church League meeting, for the same purpose, is slated for Tuesday night at 7 o'clock in the Center.

Wednesday night the City League will have their first meeting of the season, also to be held at the Recreation Center, at 7:30.

Mr. Hesketh advises the importance of all managers attending the respective meetings.

Little League Board To Meet Wednesday

Jack Hesketh, City Recreation Director, has called a meeting of the Little League Board of Directors for Wednesday evening.

The board will meet at the Recreation Center at 6:30 p.m.

Many weeks have elapsed at Gus Kallio's Arena since the ever-popular tag match has held sway, but Tuesday night the relay feature returns when Indian Chief Apache and partner Paddy Mack take on "Big Boy" Cronin and the Alaska Wolf Man in a two-falls-to-win, 90-minute time limit bout.

Instead of the usual ten-minute "warm-up" preliminaries, between opposing team members, another two-falls-to-win match will raise the curtain, pitting Al Massey against Charro Aztec. This tussle, slated to begin at 8:15, will have a one hour limit.

Last Tuesday, Chief Apache climaxed a three-week feud with Cronin, by finally turning the "Big Boy" back in the main event, using his own villainous methods.

The two have had three crowd-pleasing matches, with Cronin spending his time trying to get the Chief enraged enough to lose his head completely, which he did for two consecutive weeks, thus losing both times.

Cronin managed to get the Chief in a furor last Tuesday, but the Indian fooled him by pulling a leather cord from his own multi-colored trunks, strangling the villain, who had previously used a piece of paper to rub Apache's face, and threw him to the floor to apply one of his famous head-standing hammerlocks.

The Indian's colorful hammerlock had subdued Cronin in the second fall to tie up the match, and the final lock finished the Mississippian for the evening.

Cronin's partner, the Wolf Man, came here without advance billing, and nothing was known of him other than he had a short beard and a good build. After his match last week with Aztec, the spectators still only know that he has a short beard and a good build. His wrestling ability is yet to be determined, for he charged out of his corner, and before Aztec knew what was going on, the Alaskan had slugged him into the ropes, beat him ferociously, and attacked the referee to boot. So he was immediately disqualified.

With such a slam-bang partner, the wily Cronin should have a perfect team.

The Chief's partner, Mack, has not been defeated in the local ring. He won over Bill Barney and Rex Mobley in short order, and battled Al Massey to a 30-minute draw last week, taking the match by disqualification after the final gong.

Massey, who fights the hardest of anybody seen here in many months, takes on a man bigger than even himself Tuesday in the opener. Aztec has always been an illegal-style grappler, but didn't have a chance to use any of it last week. In fact his bout with the Wolf Man probably was his first here that he didn't pull any hair.

The Massey-Aztec bout at 8:15 may be as thrilling and popular to watch as the main.

Umps For Cotton States Selected By Judge Harty

GREENVILLE, Miss., April 3 (AP)—Judge Emmet Harty, president of the Cotton States League, today announced an eight man umpiring staff for the class C baseball league during the 1954 season.

The league opens its 120-game season April 27.

Three new umpires are included in the six regular and two extra officials listed by Harty.

The new men are Joseph F. Hickey of Bergenfield, N. J.; Walter E. Lipp of Fort Wayne, Ind., and Pat Vastano of Brooklyn, N. Y.

Returning umpires are Charles Behrens of Miami, Fla.; James Duncan of Brinkley, Ark., and Charles W. Smith of Sandy Springs, Ga.

John Metro of El Dorado, Ark., and Tom Hobart of Greenville are listed as extra umpires.

Harty said the umpires would report in Greenville April 26 to be paired and receive their schedules.

Lipp has umpired in semi-pro ball in Indiana and Michigan and officiated in the All-American girls league. Vastano came up from the class D Kitty League last season. Hickey officiated in the Interstate League in 1952 and has five years semi-pro experience.

Bienville Parish High Schools In Cage Clampdown

ARCADIA, La., April 3 (Special)—The principals of the nine schools of Beinville Parish in their regular monthly meeting last night put restrictions on the number of games of basketball to be played next session and the length of the season.

The principals feel that the season is too long and that too many games are played by the schools and that too many tournaments are entered by the teams, both boys and girls. It was voted that no school in the parish play a game next fall until after 30 teaching days have passed which will be the end of the first six weeks of school. No league games are to be played until November 1.

In addition, the principals voted that both boys and girls teams could enter only four invitational tournaments during the year not counting district and state meets. Also, during the playing season, a school may play only two games a week and, when the teams are entering tournaments, only one interscholastic game may be played.

The principals voted the restrictions after a long session of discussions. They feel that too much basketball is not only hurting the academic work of the schools of the parish, but that in some instances the very health of the boys and girls may be impaired by so much of this indoor sport. It was also pointed out that due to the long season that the public tired of the sport and that it was hard to finance the program because of the small attendance towards the close of the playing season.

All schools in the parish have basketball as their major sport except Arcadia which has football. The football season ends about Nov. 15.

Southerners Pick Chuck Finley As New Cage Coach

HATTISBURG, Miss., April 3 (AP)—Mississippi Southern today named Charles L. (Chuck) Finley head basketball coach. Finley resigned Monday as basketball coach at the University of Idaho.

Finley succeeds Lee Floyd, who guided the Southerners to 117 victories and 46 defeats during his five years as head coach. Floyd resigned to enter business at El Paso, Tex.

Finley, 43, played under coach Hank Iba at Marysville, Mo., State Teachers College and played several years of professional basketball following his graduation.

His Idaho teams won 138 and lost 120 in seven years. During the last three years, the Vandals either finished second or tied for second in the northern division of the Pacific Coast Conference.

He came to Idaho from the New Mexico School of Mines in 1947. He also coached at the Texas School of Mines, in the Navy and at a number of southwest high schools.

Finley is married and has an eight-year-old son. He will arrive at Mississippi Southern April 15.

One Producer In Monroe Area

One producer in the Aloha field of Grant parish was brought in during the past week, according to a field report of oil and gas wells drilled and completed in the Monroe district for the period ending April 1. The report, which also listed three wells plugged and abandoned and three new locations, was issued by the local office of the department of conservation, minerals division.

The single producer was the Bates & Cornell Co.—W. Fletcher No. 2, completed on March 28 at 3860 feet. It was gauged at 85 bbls with a gravity of 44.2 and compressed pressure of 580 pounds. The location was given as Section 9, Township 7, Range 4W.

The three wells plugged and abandoned were:

Catahoula parish (wild cat field) H. A. Harper et al—T. A. Tautom No. 1, plugged on March 25 in Section 10-8-6E.

Concordia parish (Esperance Point field) - Magnolia Pet. Co.-H. Junkin No. 11, abandoned on March 27 in Sec. 53-5-9E.

Richland parish (Delhi field)-Magnolia Pet. Co.-Lee Donnell No. 5, plugged and abandoned on March 29 in Sec. 24-17-8E.

New locations were:

West Carroll parish (Epps field)-Union producing Co. - Marston No. 2 885' from the west line and 330' from the north line, Sec. 12-19-10E.

Catahoula parish (wild cat field) —E. C. Wentworth - Come Drlg. Co.-Fritz No. 1, 1252.4'N-1175.2'E of the SW corner, Sec. 37-7-6E.

Richland parish (wild cat field)-The Atlantic Refg. Co.-Robert C. Kee No. 1, 1980'S-330'W of the NE corner, Sec. 1-17-7E.

Richland Wildcat Well Controlled

The wildcat test well two miles northeast of Rayville, which blew out during perforation operations early Friday morning, was brought under control about noon yesterday.

The well, known as Atlantic Refining Company Hemler No. 1, Sec. 31-18N-7E, blew out at 5 a.m. Friday after being perforated for production at 2468 to 2476 feet.

According to Duncan S. Cook, Monroe district manager for the state department of conservation, the blow out occurred while the first perforating gun was coming out of the hole. A second gun was going to be used for more perforation.

"The pipe was not blown out, as previously reported," Cook added.

The well was drilled less than 100 feet from an old gas well drilled in November 1927, which was abandoned due to excessive salt water.

Many persons in the vicinity of the test proclaimed a new gas field had been discovered. Others were skeptical, saying it is an off-shoot of the old Richland gas field.

The drilling operation is for subsidiaries of the Standard Oil Company.

WARNING! Ask any man how he would feel if his employer discharged him tomorrow without notice. Unquestionably he would say that it would be unfair to him and certainly would work a hardship on him—that he could have at least one or two weeks notice. Yet this is the bleak future which faces any widow whose husband has not provided her with proper amount of burial and Life Insurance. We have both.

One Producer In Monroe Area

One producer in the Aloha field of Grant parish was brought in during the past week, according to a field report of oil and gas wells drilled and completed in the Monroe district for the period ending April 1. The report, which also listed three wells plugged and abandoned and three new locations, was issued by the local office of the department of conservation, minerals division.

The single producer was the Bates & Cornell Co.—W. Fletcher No. 2, completed on March 28 at 3860 feet. It was gauged at 85 bbls with a gravity of 44.2 and compressed pressure of 580 pounds. The location was given as Section 9, Township 7, Range 4W.

The three wells plugged and abandoned were:

Catahoula parish (wild cat field) H. A. Harper et al—T. A. Tautom No. 1, plugged on March 25 in Section 10-8-6E.

Concordia parish (Esperance Point field) - Magnolia Pet. Co.-H. Junkin No. 11, abandoned on March 27 in Sec. 53-5-9E.

Richland Wildcat Well Controlled

The wildcat test well two miles northeast of Rayville, which blew out during perforation operations early Friday morning, was brought under control about noon yesterday.

The well, known as Atlantic Refining Company Hemler No. 1, Sec. 31-18N-7E, blew out at 5 a.m. Friday after being perforated for production at 2468 to 2476 feet.

According to Duncan S. Cook, Monroe district manager for the state department of conservation, the blow out occurred while the first perforating gun was coming out of the hole. A second gun was going to be used for more perforation.

"The pipe was not blown out, as previously reported," Cook added.

The well was drilled less than 100 feet from an old gas well drilled in November 1927, which was abandoned due to excessive salt water.

Many persons in the vicinity of the test proclaimed a new gas field had been discovered. Others were skeptical, saying it is an off-shoot of the old Richland gas field.

The drilling operation is for subsidiaries of the Standard Oil Company.

"I Ain't Seen It,

. . . not yet I ain't, but I hear it's terrific"! Well . . . it's every bit of terrific and then some for this (2) bedroom and paneled den home was custom built for a very meticulous gentleman . . . a gentleman who had his own ideas of design. This one abounds with unusual features, such as: Hardwood block floors in living and dining area; a modernistic fireplace with an unusual mirror above; there's glorious view from the living room picture window overlooking Jewell lake; the well-arranged kitchen has expensive glass sliding door cabinets, gas & electric outlet for stove & vent-a-hood, both bedrooms have triple sliding door closets with built-in bureau drawers and the 16'x14' den also has a closet and a gun cabinet. All of the above can be seen at 1005 MEADOWBROOK DRIVE in W. Monroe and it's on a 100'x400' lot. It's selling for the FHA appraised value of $13,000. $2800 down buys it, but looking is free.

Money To Burn?

If that's the case . . . you're in the wrong pew for here is a sensible buy with a reasonable down payment located at 308 RIVERBEND DRIVE in W. Monroe. There's many a happy feature among the 1019 sq. ft. of this one, including: (2) delightful bedrooms with roomy closets; glistening hardwood floors; 42" attic fan and floor furnace; well-proportioned 12'x 20' living room and separate dining room. The 12'x12' kitchen has vent-a-hood . . . small pantry . . . like new inlaid linoleum and it opens onto a screened utility porch with washer plumbing in enclosed storage room. Another happy thought . . . it's on a 100' frontage lot and selling for $500 less than the FHA appraised value with only $800 down. It's shown by appointment only, so call today!

Wow! It's Stacked!

It's stacked okay, for 40,000 bricks were combined with expert planning and workmanship to produce the most unusual home in Monroe! Unusual for it's solid brick construction . . . its lifetime white crushed marble roof . . . its (2) bedrooms and a den . . . its solid masonry walls . . . its unique fireplace wall in living room constructed of Roman brick . . . its wall-to-wall carpeting in living room . . . its sparkling pine-paneled dining area . . . its central heating and a host of other features that are plain to be seen on inspection. It's located on a corner lot on SANDEL DRIVE in the Broadmoor addition and only $1675 down to a qualified G. I. buys a lifetime of quality. Wanta' look?

On The Carpet Again!

It happens every once in a while . . . an owner moves to another city after listing his home for sale with Troy & Nichols, hoping for a quick sale so he can buy in his new location, and then . . . BAM! It doesn't sell as quickly as we all had hoped and then the owner begins to have his doubts about our ability to sell his house. So, by purchasing this home at 322 STEWART in W. Monroe, you not only get a wonderful home with (3) bedrooms, 1½ baths, delightful breezeway; floor furnace & attic fan; tremendous amount of closet space and it's on a corner lot less than a half block from grammar school and selling for $1500 less than the FHA appraised value with only $800 down . . . at the same time you get us off the carpet! It's vacant and would be tickled to death to show you today.

Don't Call Us...

. . . on this one unless you'd like a "gem" of a home just two blocks from Neville High School and four blocks from Georgia Tucker grammar on the northside. Don't call unless you'd like (2) spacious bedrooms . . . a roomy (13'x19') living room and a separate dining room . . . excellent taste in wallpaper throughout . . . there is a 10'x14' side screened porch . . . bath has shower . . . nice cabinet space in kitchen and there is a garage as well as it's a corner lot located at 1511 N. 7th. It's selling for $10,750 with FHA financing available.

It's A Cryin' Shame!

No sooner had the owner of this new home moved in, he was transferred. Needless to say, he's not the happiest person in the world but you'll be once you move in to enjoy such features as: 1038 sq. feet of living area . . . 30 gal. water heater . . . attic fan and Panel-Ray heat . . . natural woodwork throughout . . . aluminum screens . . . (2) spacious 12'x14' bedrooms with nice closet space . . . there's a roomy kitchen and dining area as well as carport and a finished store room. It's all on an 80'x 170' lot and located at 405 COLUMBIA in the college area. $1550 down makes the move and it's vacant. Call today for appointment to see.

Who Cares?

After all . . . who cares if this "family" home is located on a corner lot in one of Monroe's best northside locations with 11 rooms, 5 bedrooms and three baths? Who cares if the downstairs has just been completely re-decorated with all new wallpaper and new wall-to-wall carpeting in all but the kitchen downstairs? Who cares if the kitchen has loads of cabinet space, a GE dishwasher, or a separate breakfast room, or if there are 3 floor furnaces downstairs, or if this distinctive home is on a beautifully landscaped corner lot? . . . Well . . . if you care and would like to see . . . WE CARE. There are few homes like this one at 1411 PARK AVE.

"I Ain't Seen It,

. . . not yet I ain't, but I hear it's terrific"! Well . . . it's every bit of terrific and then some for this (2) bedroom and paneled den home was custom built for a very meticulous gentleman . . . a gentleman who had his own ideas of design. This one abounds with unusual features, such as: Hardwood block floors in living and dining area; a modernistic fireplace with an unusual mirror above; there's glorious view from the living room picture window overlooking Jewell lake; the well-arranged kitchen has expensive glass sliding door cabinets, gas & electric outlet for stove & vent-a-hood, both bedrooms have triple sliding door closets with built-in bureau drawers and the 16'x14' den also has a closet and a gun cabinet. All of the above can be seen at 1005 MEADOWBROOK DRIVE in W. Monroe and it's on a 100'x400' lot. It's selling for the FHA appraised value of $13,000. $2800 down buys it, but looking is free.

Money To Burn?

If that's the case . . . you're in the wrong pew for here is a sensible buy with a reasonable down payment located at 308 RIVERBEND DRIVE in W. Monroe. There's many a happy feature among the 1019 sq. ft. of this one, including: (2) delightful bedrooms with roomy closets; glistening hardwood floors; 42" attic fan and floor furnace; well-proportioned 12'x 20' living room and separate dining room. The 12'x12' kitchen has vent-a-hood . . . small pantry . . . like new inlaid linoleum and it opens onto a screened utility porch with washer plumbing in enclosed storage room. Another happy thought . . . it's on a 100' frontage lot and selling for $500 less than the FHA appraised value with only $800 down. It's shown by appointment only, so call today!

Wow! It's Stacked!

It's stacked okay, for 40,000 bricks were combined with expert planning and workmanship to produce the most unusual home in Monroe! Unusual for it's solid brick construction . . . its lifetime white crushed marble roof . . . its (2) bedrooms and a den . . . its solid masonry walls . . . its unique fireplace wall in living room constructed of Roman brick . . . its wall-to-wall carpeting in living room . . . its sparkling pine-paneled dining area . . . its central heating and a host of other features that are plain to be seen on inspection. It's located on a corner lot on SANDEL DRIVE in the Broadmoor addition and only $1675 down to a qualified G. I. buys a lifetime of quality. Wants' look?

On The Carpet Again!

It happens every once in a while . . . an owner moves to another city after listing his home for sale with Troy & Nichols, hoping for a quick sale so he can buy in his new location, and then . . . BAM! It doesn't sell as quickly as we all had hoped and then the owner begins to have his doubts about our ability to sell his house. So, by purchasing this home at 322 STEWART in W. Monroe, you not only get a wonderful home with (3) bedrooms, 1½ baths; delightful breezeway; floor furnace & attic fan; tremendous amount of closet space and it's on a corner lot less than a half block from grammar school and selling for $1500 less than the FHA appraised value with only $800 down . . . at the same time you get us off the carpet! It's vacant and would be tickled to death to show you today.

Don't Call Us...

. . . on this one unless you'd like a "gem" of a home just two blocks from Neville High School and four blocks from Georgia Tucker grammar on the northside. Don't call unless you'd like (2) spacious bedrooms . . . a roomy (13'x19') living room and a separate dining room . . . excellent taste in wallpaper throughout . . . there is a 10'x14' side screened porch . . . bath has shower . . . nice cabinet space in kitchen and there is a garage as well as it's a corner lot located at 1511 N. 7th . . . It's selling for $10,750 with FHA financing available.

It's A Cryin' Shame!

No sooner had the owner of this new home moved in, he was transferred. Needless to say, he's not the happiest person in the world but you'll be once you move in to enjoy such features as: 1038 sq. feet of living area . . . 30 gal. water heater . . . attic fan and Panel-Ray heat . . . natural woodwork throughout . . . aluminum screens . . . (2) spacious 12'x14' bedrooms with nice closet space . . . there's a roomy kitchen and dining area as well as carport and a finished store room. It's all on an 80'x 170' lot and located at 405 COLUMBIA in the college area. $1550 down makes the move and it's vacant. Call today for appointment to see.

Who Cares?

After all . . . who cares if this "family" home is located on a corner lot in one of Monroe's best northside locations with 11 rooms, 5 bedrooms and three baths? Who cares if the downstairs has just been completely re-decorated with all new wallpaper and new wall-to-wall carpeting in all but the kitchen downstairs? Who cares if the kitchen has loads of cabinet space, a GE dishwasher, or a separate breakfast room, or if there are 3 floor furnaces downstairs, or if this distinctive home is on a beautifully landscaped corner lot? . . . Well . . . if you care and would like to see . . . WE CARE. There are few homes like this one at 1411 PARK AVE.

The first organizational meeting of the Ouachita Parish Safety Council is scheduled to be held at 7 p.m. Monday on the third floor of the parish courthouse. Jack Davis, publicity chairman, said here Saturday.

According to Davis, representatives from each of the civic clubs in this area — who are interested in safety problems — have been invited to attend the meeting, and any other person who is interested may attend.

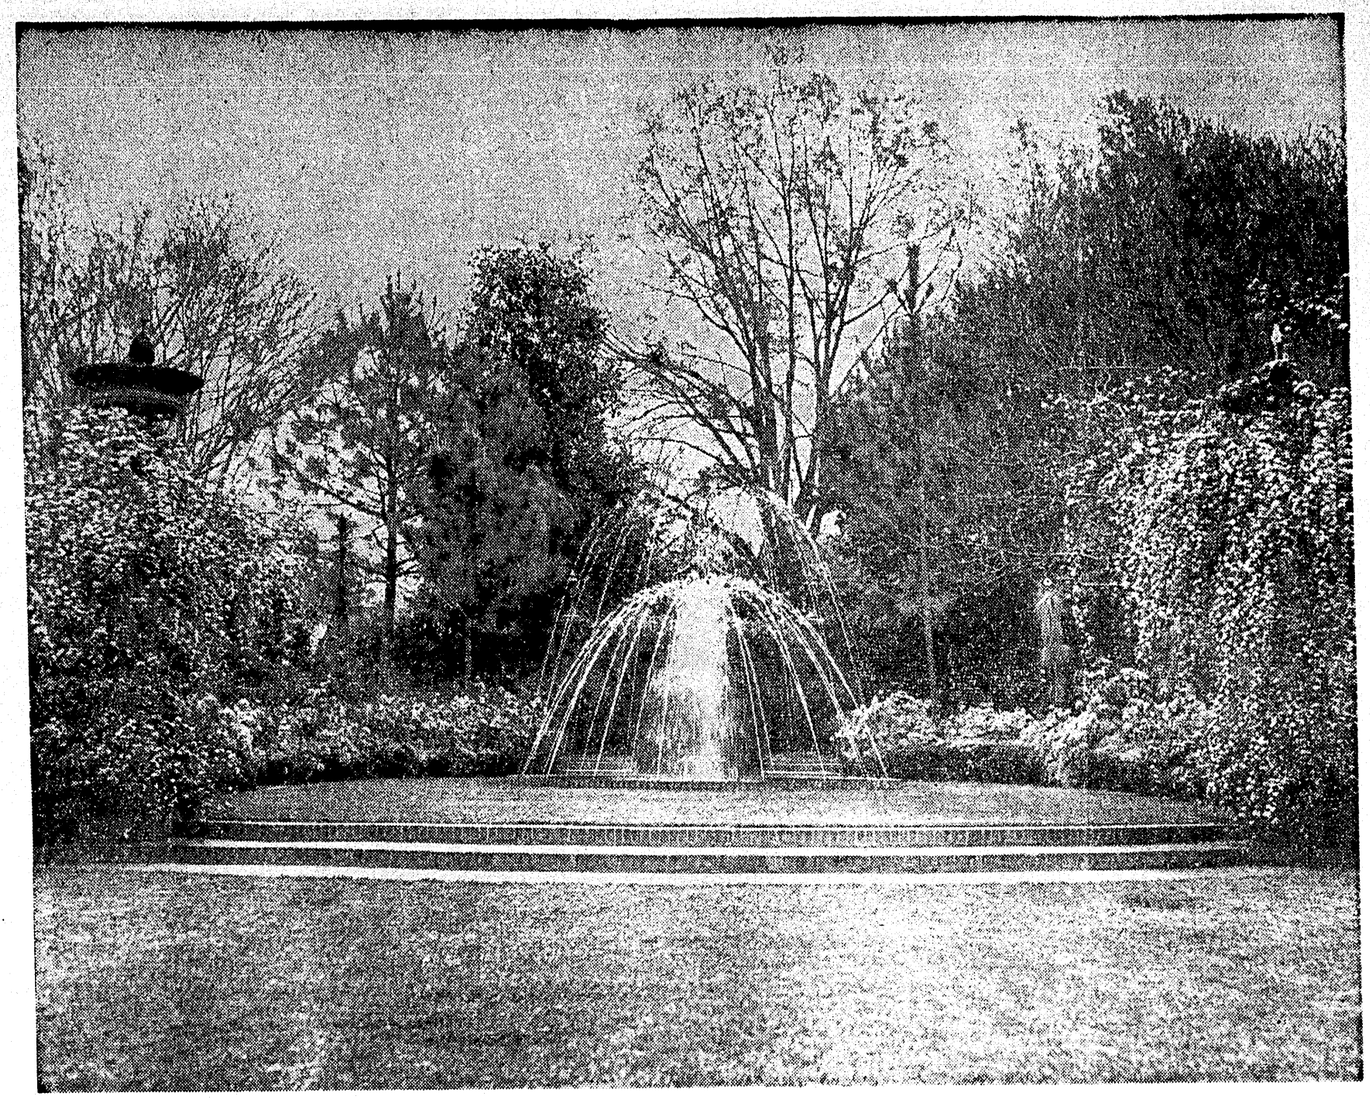
Azalea Time

Monroe Morning World

Sunday, April 4, 1954



RIGHT—Springtime is azalea time—Beauty is everywhere—Monroe gardens are riotous with color —One of the most beautiful, is at the home of Miss Emy-Lou Biedenharn on Riverside. This view of the formal Water Garden shows the fountains with their background of pines and banks of Fisher's pink azaleas. The vista is made more beautiful with yellow Banksia roses covering the two side fountains.

BELOW—Another lovely garden in Monroe is the Clyde R. Brown's on North Fifth Street. A favorite spot is along the garden walk where pink pearl azaleas are in bloom underneath a pink dogwood tree. Bluebells of Scotland and yellow calendulas also bloom close by. The garden bench, by the wall, matches the color in the tree and azaleas.

CENTER RIGHT—A beautiful azalea spot is in the patio of the S. Jack Rogers' on Island Drive. Snow and coral belle azaleas bloom in profusion under the live oak tree that shades the patio. Hundreds of pink and white azaleas are at the height of their beauty elsewhere in the garden.

COLD WATER SOAP

A new soap designed to be used in cold water is ideal for washing wools. May also be used on dacron, nylon, silk, flannel, suede. Wool socks, baby shirts and cashmere sweaters will not shrink or require reblocking. Many garments which heretofore have been dry cleaned can now be washed. All you do is dissolve the product in cold water, soak woolens for 2 or 3 minutes and squeeze by hand until all dirt has been removed. Rinse in cold water. White woolens will not become yellowish.

Rhinestone pins and buckles sparkle like new after a 15 minute soaking in gasoline and a rubbing with a flannel cloth.

Final Concert Of Twin City Symphony Will Close Successful Second Season

The final concert of the season by the Twin City Symphony Orchestra will be heard Thursday evening, April 29. This performance is of particular significance to Monroe music lovers in that it represents the efforts of a large number of public spirited persons who have contributed much time and energy in founding the orchestra in Monroe. Numbering approximately 45 musicians, the Twin City Orchestra represents the power of a common interest in music. The majority of the members live in the Monroe-West Monroe area however, many come from various parts of northeast Louisiana. Many occupations and professions are represented and include teachers, businessmen, housewives, a chemist and college students.

The symphony orchestra development in Monroe is closely allied with a renaissance in the arts which may be observed throughout the United States. Since World War II, hundreds of civic orchestras have sprung into existence as the result of a tremendous growth in musical interest on the part of people. This is evidenced by the fact that approximately 40 per cent of all records sold are of a classical nature. In addition, the box office receipts for concerts in 1953 was greater than those for many major sports attractions. The growth of orchestral music is allied with a significant increase in activity in all the other arears of art such as drama and painting. We may observe these developments in our own city.

Plans are already underway for the continuation of the orchestra in 1954-55. Arrangements for the securing of members are to be announced in the near future.

The program to be heard in the final performance of the Twin City Symphony will include as the major work the Symphony No. 104 (London) by Joseph Haydn. Other compositions selected for their audience will be heard.

Final Concert Of Twin City Symphony Will Close Successful Second Season

The final concert of the season by the Twin City Symphony Orchestra will be heard Thursday evening, April 29. This performance is of particular significance to Monroe music lovers in that it represents the efforts of a large number of public spirited persons who have contributed much time and energy in founding the orchestra in Monroe. Numbering approximately 45 musicians, the Twin City Orchestra represents the power of a common interest in music. The majority of the members live in the Monroe-West Monroe area however, many come from various parts of northeast Louisiana. Many occupations and professions are represented and include teachers, businessmen, housewives, a chemist and college students.

The symphony orchestra development in Monroe is closely allied with a renaissance in the arts which may be observed throughout the United States. Since World War II, hundreds of civic orchestras have sprung into existence as the result of a tremendous growth in musical interest on the part of people. This is evidenced by the fact that approximately 40 per cent of all records sold are of a classical nature. In addition, the box office receipts for concerts in 1953 was greater than those for many major sports attractions. The growth of orchestral music is allied with a significant increase in activity in all the other arears of art such as drama and painting. We may observe these developments in our own city.

Plans are already underway for the continuation of the orchestra in 1954-55. Arrangements for the securing of members are to be announced in the near future.

The program to be heard in the final performance of the Twin City Symphony will include as the major work the Symphony No. 104 (London) by Joseph Haydn. Other compositions selected for their audience will be heard.

Summer Blooms Are Test For Gardener

The Outdoors

Just isn't it wonderful to sit in the outdoors again! It's one of our southern luxuries. We have been able to enjoy the outdoor living room a few days each month this year even in January and February. Our efforts to make our grounds useful and beautiful are paying us big dividends in family living. Let's continue this good work.

Irises

Select irises for transplanting while they are blooming. By making your selection of plants in this way you can tell what color you are getting.

Mr. Hipp, the owner of the iris farm at Calhoun, invites you to see the many irises in bloom today. If the weather continues warm most varieties will be in bloom. Mr. Hipp requests that you do not come in the forenoon or Sunday school and church hours. He has added many new varieties to his plantings this year and enjoys showing them.

If the irises in your garden have become crowded, they should be divided after the blooming season is over. Divide early to allow them to get established in their new location and make flowers for next spring. Be sure to work 1 cup of 8-8-8 or 4-12-4 in each 10 square foot of soil where plants are to be set.

Chrysanthemums

Haven't we enjoyed the colorful azaleas. We can have a colorful yard in the fall by growing chrysanthemums. Get a place ready for your mums now. It is wise to select a place where you did not grow them last year. Select early bloomers so the frost will not get them.

You can root some cuttings or plants some stolons. Stolons are the small plants that form around the old crowns. You will have better plants from cuttings. Root the cuttings in flats of sand, peat moss or vermiculite or a mixture of any two of these. Choose cuttings from only your healthiest, older plants. Make them about 3 inches long. Place flats in a warm place but you should not put them in direct sunlight while they are rooting. Chrysanthemums will root in 3 or 4 weeks. So have your plot ready to set them in the open as soon as they are rooted.

Hot Weather Bloomers

The test of a gardener is to keep blooming plants in the hot summer. Some dependable summer annuals are: Globe amaranth, four-o-clocks, celosia, balsam, scarlet sage (salvia) vinca, zinnias, marigolds, cleome, and euphorbia. Drummond phlox are good perennials.

Pruning

As the spring flowering shrubs finish blooming, pruning should be is to remove some of the oldest branches each year to control the size of the plant and to get new growth for flowering. Among the plants that should be pruned are: flowering almond, philadelphus (mock orange); forsythia, flowering peach, flowering quince, spireas, winter honeysuckle and azaleas.

Simple Sewing Workshop

Eight women took part in a simple sewing workshop this past week conducted by the home demonstration agent March 29-30. Each of these women are preparing themselves to participate in a tailoring workshop next year. Those participating were: Mrs. W. O. Johnson, Woodlawn; Mrs. P. L. Hendricks, McClendon; Mrs. Billy M. Smith, McClendon; Mrs. Thomas F. Burnett, Woodlawn; Mrs. M. L. Spangler, McClendon; Mrs. Allen Mize, McClendon; Mrs. D. E. McGraw, McClendon; and Mrs. L. A. Whitlock, Lenwil Club.

Another simple sewing workshop will be held at Bosco the last week in April if a sufficient enrollment is made (8 members). Women interested should contact Mrs. P. M. Jeter, president of Bosco Home Demonstration Club at once.

Forty - two women attended the first hobby day. Thanks to Mrs. J. B. Filhoil, Sr., of Logtown; Mrs. T. G. Johnson, Swartz; Mrs. A. Morris; Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Hortman and Mrs. Audrey Dawson who made this day such a success.

Our second hobby day will be April 27. If you would like to learn a new hobby, call and tell me what you want. Some of the things already planned for this day are: decorating cakes, making corsages, arranging flowers, and sewing tips. Swedish weaving and tufting bed spreads will be repeated.

See you next Sunday.

Bono Nostrorum Holds Meeting In Mangham

The Bono Nostrorum Club met in the home of Mrs. Mable Nash for its March meeting, with Mrs. C. J. Windham, Miss Ethel Watson, and Mrs. Nettie Watson as co-hostesses.

After calling the meeting to order, the president, Mrs. H. L. Murray, asked Miss Kate Talbert to lead the group in prayer. Mrs. Murray introduced Miss Virgie Evans, program leader and chairman of international affairs. Briefly she sketched some of the highlights of the "new look" in the international situation, saying that our chief interests are a desire for peace, and economic well-being.

World living is much more complicated than living in just ones own country. The many problems with varied and unsuited ideas makes settlement of differences almost impossible.

The evening's subject was "United Nations," and the speaker, Mrs. T. G. McKay, fully covered this vital subject. She had the UN flag, and a chart showing how the different branches worked together.

After a short business session, home-made ice-cream and cake in the colors of the club—green and gold—were served to Misses Kate Talbert, Virgie Evans, Ethel Watson, Mesdames T. G. McKay, Maude Parham, E. D. Baker, Nettie Watson, H. G. Tillman, B. N. Hixon, C. W. Jones, H. L. Murray, E. T. Lee, Mable Nash, W. C. McKay, Mary Laird, C. J. Windham.

If a spring shower catches your suede shoes unprepared, put shoe trees in them and allow them to dry thoroughly before attempting to restore their beauty. When they are ready, brush them carefully and then steam them. Then, while they are damp, brush them with a bristle brush to restore the nap.

Next time you prepare vanilla pudding surprise your family and swirl in a little thick chocolate sauce when you are spooning it into individual serving dishes.

Eddie B. Pohl Marries In Paris, France

The recent wedding in Paris, France, of Miss Joy C. Little to Mr. Eddie B. Pohl, Monroe, is announced today by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Pierre F. Little, of Miami Beach, Florida.

Candelight gave a rich glow to the neo-Gothic arches of the American Church in Paris, Quai d'Orsay, on the occasion of the marriage, Monday, January 25.

The bride was given in marriage by her father who, with Mrs. Little, had flown from Miami Beach for the wedding.

The radiant and lovely bride wore a ballerina-length gown of white Chinese tribute silk with an orchid design. Inspired by a flower, the skirt was cut in lengths of material which overlapped like the petals of a flower and the decollete, embroidered in seed pearls, was cut in scallops. Her hat, of Catherine d'Aragon style, was pearl trimmed and covered with a three-tier veil of illusion. Her bouquet was of white orchids.

The bridesmaid, Miss Jeannette Parker of Jacksonville, Fla., wore a gold ballerina-length dress of Chinese tribute silk, with black accessories.

The candles, which softly illuminated the church, were lighted by Mrs. John Grimes and Mrs. Felix Bolo. The reception which immediately followed the service, was held in the home of Miss Jessie Harnit.

The bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde L. Pohl, Monroe, was attended by his best man, Mr. John O. Grimes, of Birmingham, Ala.

Music included works of Bach, Beethoven, Mendelssohn, Vierne, and Wagner, and, as the service was performed by the Reverend Dr. Clayton E. Williams, the organist softly played Pendleton's "Variation on a Theme by Puccini."

Mrs. Pohl is a graduate of the Florida State College for Women where she was a member of the "F" Club and was active in music and sports.

Since entering the Foreign Service in 1948, she has been attached to the Department of State, Washington, and later assigned to the American Embassies in Seoul, Tokyo, and Paris. At the outbreak of the Korean conflict, she was evacuated from Seoul. In the one suitcase which was permitted each evacuee was included the material which was later to become her wedding gown.

Mr. Pohl was graduated from Louisiana Tech where he was a member of Tau Kappa Epsilon Fraternity and also elected to "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges."

After entering the Foreign Service early in 1949, his work has carried him to every major city in the world, including Buenos Aires, Johannesburg, London, and Moscow. He has been stationed in Washington and assigned to the American Embassies in Cairo, Paris, Manila, and recently re-assigned to the Embassy in Paris.

After a brief honeymoon, Mr. and Mrs. Pohl are making their home in Paris.

A comfortable and smart cover-up for sunback dresses is the capelet. And it can be made very easily even by the inexperienced sewer. So why not start now to extend your summer wardrobe with a few of these in different fabrics and colors.

MRS. WILLIAM R. KITCHENS

Late Afternoon Ceremony Unites Couple In Columbia

In a late afternoon ceremony on Friday, March 19, Miss Jo Anne James became the bride of Lt. William R. Kitchens in the Methodist Church of Columbia. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde James, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ocie A. Kitchens of Nacogdoches, Texas. The impressive double-ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Sam Holladay, pastor of the Methodist Church.

Vows were exchanged before an altar decorated with greenery interspersed with beautiful satin bows. Circling the altar rail were fan-shaped arrangements of palmetto tied with large white satin ribbon. In the center of the chancel was placed a large arch completely covered with greenery which formed the background for an artistic arrangement of beautiful calla lilies. On either side were seven-branched candelabra holding slender white tapers. Family pews were marked with satin bows.

Prior to the ceremony, Mrs. Earl Harris rendered a program of prenuptial music and accompanied Miss Marjorie Johnston who sang "Because" and "Sweetest Story Ever Told." The traditional wedding processional and recessional were used.

Mr. Donald Farrow and Mr. Marvin Hunt, Jr. of Haynesville, La. acted as ushers and, just prior to the ceremony, lighted the candles in the chancel.

At the first strains of the wedding march, the bridegroom and his best man, Mr. Jimmie Tarver, of Columbia, took their places at the altar to await the bride and her attendant.

Serving as maid of honor was Miss Elsie Underhill of Alexandria. She was becomingly attired in an early spring model of pale pink faille with white accessories. Her bouquet was a quaint nosegay of pink roses edged with blue maline.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride's dress, fashioned along princess lines was of Wedgewood blue imperial faille. The bodice was of gold striped nylon with an Eton jacket of faille. Miss James chose an early spring white straw hat which accented her auburn beauty. A gold throated white orchid encircled with white stephanotis tied with white satin and mounted on a white Bible formed her bouquet. For sentiment, the Bible belonging to her paternal grandmother, the late Mrs. John James, was used.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the parlors of the church. The bridal couple, their parents and the maid of honor received the guests. Mrs. James was becomingly attired in a light grey costume suit of an early spring model with petal pink accessories. Her corsage was pink split carnations. Mrs. Kitchens chose a grey suit designed on classic lines with contrasting accessories and a corsage of pale pink split carnations.

The serving table, covered with a white Madeira linen cloth, was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake which was decorated with calla lilies and topped with a miniature bride and groom standing in front of a cluster of wedding bells. On either end of the table was placed branched silver candelabra holding green tapers. Streamers of green satin ribbon extending across the table further carried out the green and white theme. On each side of this table were small round tables covered with white cloths gracefully caught with lovely green satin bows. Serving punch from bowls placed on these tables were Miss Pat Wells and Miss Jenny Reynolds. Large baskets of spring flowers were placed at vantage points throughout the reception suite.

Assisting with the courtesies of the evening were Miss Elizabeth McDaniel, presiding at the bride's book; Mrs. Clayton James, Jr., serving the wedding cake; and Miss Tommie Tarver and Miss Marilyn Greer, acting as tea girls.

Following a short wedding trip to Memphis and other points in Tennessee, Mrs. Kitchens will resume her studies at Louisiana Tech in Ruston. Lt. Kitchens will leave early in April for Camp Kilmer in New Jersey from which he will leave for his new assignment with the 12th Air Force in the European area. Mrs. Kitchens will be privileged to join him later in the year.

Among the out-of-town guests were: Mrs. J. B. Benton, Mr. and Mrs. Graydon Kitchens, and Mrs. Joe M. Greer of Minden; Mrs. E. L. Dougherty, Champaign, Ill.; Mr. and Mrs. Sam M. Abel and Dyanne and Sammy of Dallas, Tex.; Miss Olivia Scott and Mrs. Joe Calhoun of St. Joseph; Mrs. Stewart Gardner and Mrs. Mark Sill of Bristol, Indiana; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cook, Shreveport; Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Seegers and Emily, Monroe; Mrs. Harvey Patton and Harvey, Jr., Newellton; Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Davis, Monroe; Mr. and Mrs. Gary Kidd, Natchez, Miss.; Mrs. E. T. Underhill, Alexandria; Mrs. W. F. Rombo, Alexandria; Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Dickerson, Monroe; Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Sikes, Winnfield; Jimmie Norwood, Louisiana College; Mrs. Elsey Cunningham, Mrs. Clayton James, Jr., Misses Jacqueline Davis, Marilyn Greer, Elsie Underhill, Marjorie Johnston, Jenny Reynolds, Elizabeth McDaniel, Messrs. Donald Farrow, Jimmie Tarver, Marvin Hunt, Louisiana Tech, Ruston; and Miss Tommie Tarver of Northeastern State College, Monroe.

Rehearsal Supper

On Thursday evening, following the rehearsal for the wedding, the Kitchens-James wedding party was entertained with a supper at Capp's Inn in Columbia Heights. Colorful spring bouquets were placed on the table and throughout the dining room, adding much to the festive atmosphere of the occasion. Mrs. Kitchens pinned a lovely white camelia bridal corsage on Miss James and beautiful red camelias on the other lady guests.

Miss James and Lt. Kitchens took advantage of this occasion to present gifts to their attendants. Gold-bowled coffee spoons with the wedding date engraved on them were given by the bride-elect to her attendants, while handsome cuff links of the newest king size make were presented by Lt. Kitchens to his best man and the ushers.

Novel place cards of wedding slippers and bow ties marked the places for the guests, who were: Miss Jo Anne James, Lt. William R. Kitchens, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde James, Miss Elsie Underhill, Miss Marjorie Johnston, Rev. and Mrs. Sam Holladay, Mrs. Earl Harris, Miss Bert Hearn, Mr. Jimmie Traver, Mr. Marvin Hunt, Mr. Donald Farrow and the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Ocie A. Kitchens.

Your long-handled wax applier which you use for waxing floors can also be put to good use when performing a number of household chores. The waxer which because its plastic head and slender handle, is extremely light, is also excellent for dusting walls, ceilings, the dark corners in closets and venetian blinds. If you do not have one of these waxers in your household equipment you will be wise to invest in one.

MRS. JAMES L. PERKINS was before her recent wedding Miss Dorothy Barr, daughter of Mrs. R. L. Barr of Shreveport. Mr. Perkins is the son of Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Perkins of West Monroe. He reported for duty with the air force in California on Friday, and will be joined by Mrs. Perkins in June.

B&PW Club Has Program Meeting

The Business and Professional Women were entertained at the Y. W. C. A. on Tuesday last, the Education and Vocation Committee being hostesses. The chairman of the committee was Mrs. Lucille Mathis, the co-chairman, Mrs. Frances Perersen, and the other committee members were Mrs. Carol Renaud, Mrs. Bella S. Davidson, Mrs. Estelle Graham, Miss Edith Gunby, and Mrs. Effie Allen. A chorus consisting of Joyce Barton, Billie Moore, Sue Hollingshead, Lillian Ezell; Annie Dee Powell, Virginia Marphis, Evelyn Stamper rendered two selections. Miss Carolyn Trapp accompanied. This was an attractive group of the Y.W.C.A. girls. Clever arrangements of "Ricochet Romance" and "My Happiness" were thoroughly enjoyed by the club members.

Mrs. Mathis then introduced Mr. Jack Howard, and in turn Mr. Howard introduced his chinchilla valued at one thousand dollars. His talk on the breeding, marketing, and scope of this interesting new industry was most informative. We were impressed by the exorbitant coat of coats made from this type fur, the amount running above $25,000. Mr. Howard invited the members to visit the place of business on Louisville Avenue.

Following Mr. Howard's talk the guests were invited into the dining room, where an artistic St. Patrick Day theme had been arranged by Miss Maibel Hood. Lime frappe and delicious cake were served.

Rehearsal Supper

On Thursday evening, following the rehearsal for the wedding, the Kitchens-James wedding party was entertained with a supper at Capp's Inn in Columbia Heights. Colorful spring bouquets were placed on the table and throughout the dining room, adding much to the festive atmosphere of the occasion. Mrs. Kitchens pinned a lovely white camelia bridal corsage on Miss James and beautiful red camelias on the other lady guests.

Miss James and Lt. Kitchens took advantage of this occasion to present gifts to their attendants. Gold-bowled coffee spoons with the wedding date engraved on them were given by the bride-elect to her attendants, while handsome cuff links of the newest king size make were presented by Lt. Kitchens to his best man and the ushers.

Novel place cards of wedding slippers and bow ties marked the places for the guests, who were: Miss Jo Anne James, Lt. William R. Kitchens, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde James, Miss Elsie Underhill, Miss Marjorie Johnston, Rev. and Mrs. Sam Holladay, Mrs. Earl Harris, Miss Bert Hearn, Mr. Jimmie Traver, Mr. Marvin Hunt, Mr. Donald Farrow and the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Ocie A. Your long-handled wax applier which you use for waxing floors can also be put to good use when performing a number of household chores. The waxer which because its plastic head and slender handle, is extremely light, is also excellent for dusting walls, ceilings, the dark corners in closets and venetian blinds. If you do not have one of these waxers in your household equipment you will be wise to invest in one.

B&PW Club Has Program Meeting

The Business and Professional Women were entertained at the Y. W. C. A. on Tuesday last, the Education and Vocation Committee being hostesses. The chairman of the committee was Mrs. Lucille Mathis, the co-chairman, Mrs. Frances Perersen, and the other committee members were Mrs. Carol Renaud, Mrs. Bella S. Davidson, Mrs. Estelle Graham, Miss Edith Gunby, and Mrs. Effie Allen. A chorus consisting of Joyce Barton, Billie Moore, Sue Hollingshead, Lillian Ezell; Annie Dee Powell, Virginia Marphis, Evelyn Stamper rendered two selections. Miss Carolyn Trapp accompanied. This was an attractive group of the Y.W.C.A. girls. Clever arrangements of "Ricochet Romance" and "My Happiness" were thoroughly enjoyed by the club members.

Mrs. Mathis then introduced Mr. Jack Howard, and in turn Mr. Howard introduced his chinchilla valued at one thousand dollars. His talk on the breeding, marketing, and scope of this interesting new industry was most informative. We were impressed by the exorbitant coat of coats made from this type fur, the amount running above $25,000. Mr. Howard invited the members to visit the place of business on Louisville Avenue.

Following Mr. Howard's talk the guests were invited into the dining room, where an artistic St. Patrick Day theme had been arranged by Miss Maibel Hood. Lime frappe and delicious cake were served.

Members attending were: Elizabeth Stenberg, Hazel Wakefield, Maibel Hood, Lucille Mathis, Frances Petersen, Lucill Haddox, Mamie Ober, Ruth Cooley, Laura Slator, Edna Vaughan, Alice Baur, Addie Lou Juneman, Faye Heard, Mary O'Kelly, Bessie Skinner, Gladys Miles, Agnes Krogmire, Mary Gene Lea, Louise Massey, Pauling Welch, Ouida Oxford, Flora M. Study Staging Of Flower Shows

The March meeting of the Waterproof Garden Club was held at the High School Gym and was particularly interesting and instructive. Mrs. Marion Guthrie and Mrs. Tate Hargrove of the Newellton Garden Club were guests for the day and assisted in the planning and instructions for staging a flower show.

The morning was spent fashioning arrangements for study by the members at the regular meeting at 2 o'clock. At noon the guests from Newellton were honored at luncheon in the home of Mrs. Clyde Guthrie, the president of the club. Other guests were Mrs. K. O. Doty and Miss Rose Guice.

At the afternoon meeting, Mrs. Guthrie gave an interesting talk on staging a flower show—schedule, necessary committees, entrants, etc. Following this Mrs. Hargrove discussed different types of arrangements stressing that attention must be given to color, line and design.

The members spent the remainder of the afternoon working on arrangements under the supervision of Mrs. Hargrove and Mrs. Guthrie.

At the close of the meeting a salad course was served by the hostesses, Mrs. W. G. Halbert, Mrs. H. E. Marron, Miss Louise Martien, Miss Miriam Watson and Miss Rose Guice.

It is announced that Mrs. Marvin Higginbotham was winner of the Garden-of-the-Month plaque.

Reports were heard from the arrangements shown by Mrs. Guthrie, Mrs. Miller and Mrs. Crosby at the Monroe Flower Show.

New Knits Wash Easily

Featherweight knitted clothes in white and pastels are expected to play a prominent role in many a fashionable wardrobe this spring and summer.

Up - to - the - minute and luxurious looking as they are, these new knitted fashions are considerately priced. And to complete the happy picture, they are washable whether made of a miracle fabric, cotton or wool or a combination.

So you'll be perfectly safe if you indulge your taste for a white knitted topper or a pale pink sheath.

Smaller garments, such as the man - tailored shirts, bare - shouldered pebble knit blouses, textured-swim suits and jeweled T-shirts, need only a minimum of care. Suds, rinse and toss over the shower rod.

If they're made of wool, however, they probably will need a little blocking to help them hold their shape.

Outline the woolen garment with pins on a towel and, after blotting out the excess moisture with one towel, lay your blouse or shirt on the pinned towel. Gently press it to conform with the outline and it will dry back into shape.

The more bulky knit fashions require a bit more care. These should be washed in a deep basin or bathtub. To avoid stretching, cup your bulky knits in your hands as you wash them; don't pull the fabric out of the water.

It's also important to blot out as much excess moisture as possible. For this, use one or two large bath towels, then dry the garment flat.

Any corned beef leftover? Put it through the food chopper with a dill pickle and add mayonnaise to moisten. Makes a delicious spread for sandwiches or crackers. If used for crackers, garnish with a blob of mayonnaise and capers.

Little Luxury Helps Morale

Occasional self - indulgence is a help to character building. The woman who habitually deprives herself of all but essentials is bound to wind up with a pretty low morale eventually.

So, she'd be doing herself and her family a favor if occasionally she's splurge on an investment in her own satisfaction.

Beauty salons thrive on this fact. It's wonderful for the morale of a woman to spend a few hours being thoroughly pampered.

The older woman especially should see to it that she takes her share of proper self-indulgence.

Right now would be a good time to act. Whatever form your action takes, it's likely to be just the spark you need to meet the challenge of spring.

Of course, we're not recommending that anyone put a big dent in her household budget for necessities in order to treat herself to a fashion or beauty luxury.

You'll be looking ahead if you label packages clearly before storing them in the attic or basement locker.

Shaw-Mathewes Vows Pledged In Ruston

Miss Elouise Lynn Mathewes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Mathewes of Ruston, became the bride of Drew Shaw, son of Mr. and Mrs. Keenie Shaw of Ruston in an impressive candlelight ceremony in the First Baptist Church of Ruston. The Rev. G. Avery Lee read the double ring vows.

The church altar was decorated with a background of greenery and baskets of white iris and bridal wreath spirla. A myriad of white cathedral tapers in wrought-iron candelabra illuminated the setting.

Frank Merritt served as organist and accompanied Miss Virginia Lott as she sang "Through the Years" and the "Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was wearing a wedding gown of white chantilly lace over taffeta with a bouffant waltz-length skirt and strapless bodice with a matching lace jacket which featured tight fitted sleeves extending to points over the wrist. Her finger-tip veil of illusion fell gracefully from a Dutch bonnet of matching lace. She carried a white Bible topped by a white purple-throated orchid and white satin streamers tied with lover's knots.

Miss Glenda Mathewes, the bride's sister, was maid of honor. She was attired in a pink taffeta model fashioned with a draped bodice and a full ballerina skirt. She also wore a matching stole-type jacket and carried a colonial bouquet of pink carnations tied with rainbow ribbons and maline.

Bridesmaids were Miss Betty Shaw, sister of the bridegroom, Miss Joyce Mathewes, a cousin of the bride, Miss Sue Baker and Miss Martha Jo Ormand. Their dresses were identical to the maid of honor's in pastel colors. They wore matching headdresses and carried colonial bouquets.

Candlelighters were Dianne Williamson and Rayneele Carnahan, cousins of the bride. They were gowned in pink taffeta three-quarter length dresses with bouffant skirts and headdresses of pink carnations and matching wrist corsages.

Charles Worley served as best man. Groomsmen were Marvin Hart of Haynesville, Jimmy Tarver of Columbia, Jimmy Love of Ruston and Domingas Marsha of Brazil.

The bride's mother chose for the occasion a navy sheer model with navy and white accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

The bridegroom's mother was becomingly attired in a navy lace gown with navy and white accessories complimented by a corsage of pink carnations.

A reception followed in the church parlor.

The bride's table was overlaid with a white Italian linen cloth and centered with the bridesmaids' bouquets and pink tapers in low holders. A two-tiered wedding cake embossed in white and topped by a miniature bride and groom also adorned the table.

Mrs. Charles Worley served the wedding cake. Presiding at the punch service was Miss Jo Ann Frasier who was assisted by Miss Marjorie Louise Liner.

Miss Gloria Jean and Ann Mathewes, cousins of the bride, kept the bride's register.

For traveling, the bride changed to a blue linen suit trimmed in white piping and rhinestones with a pink hat and gloves. She also wore her orchid from her bridal bouquet.

Mrs. Shaw is a graduate of Ruston High School and is in her junior year at Louisiana Tech where she is majoring in physical education. Mr. Shaw finished at Gibsland High School and is a senior at Louisiana Tech where he is majoring in music. He is also a member of Theta Xi.

Get Variety In Floor Coverings

Every room in the house and budgets of all sizes are getting full consideration from the makers of hard - surfaced, resilient floor coverings.

This means that designs are beautifully colored and shaded, and that there's plenty of variety in everything from vinyl and inlaid linoleum to asphalt tiles and felt-base printed rugs. Texture is all-important to the new patterns.

Having scrubbed a good many miles of linoleum, I am quick to appreciate the dirt-concealing advantages of textured effects.

Master linoleum patterns make capital of textured effects on a smooth surface by clever shadings of one color. Because colors go through from top to bottom, long wearing qualities can be expected.

A spatter - dash pattern sparks the eye appeal of one inlaid linoleum. Millions of tiny, bright-colored specks glisten like sequins on a background which might be brilliant or neutral, depending on your needs.

Equally handsome is a yard goods linoleum pattern that simulates the hand - laid look of individual, nine - inch tiles. Three color values in the pattern, in such shades as gray, brick, tan or charcoal with red, account for the textured look.

Modestly priced but no less textured in appearance is a new brick pattern in a felt - base covering printed with vinyl inks. It is vinyl plated for longer wear. You can get this one in true, pink - brick tones.

Sharp and clear are brilliant, Scottish plaid patterns that look three dimensional but shine up fast with a damp mop.

An outstanding new asphalt tile takes its design from the irregular shape of flagstone and should look as handsome in a foyer as it does in a living room.

I was also impressed by some of the new, low - cost, printed rugs. One that simulates a random weave rug would serve very nicely in a bedroom or kitchen. Others incorporate clear colors that would brighten a gloomy apartment at a minimum of cost.

Incidentally, one designer told me that these rugs are becoming more popular with young couples on the move. The initial cost is so low that a family that moves around a lot can us them and then leave them behind if transporting furnishings is a problem.

Notable, to , is the increasing use of brown, beige and copper shades that appear in all lines and prices. You'll see quite a bit of turquoise, clear blue and aqua, and spentiful dashes of red in new patterns.

Let your garlic press do double-duty: use it to extract juice from an onion. Just cut the onion into small pieces and put them through the press.

Homemade tomato soup is less likely to curdle if you heat the white sauce and the spiced tomatoes separately, then quickly stir the tomatoes into the milk and serve at once.

Little Luxury Helps Morale

Occasional self - indulgence is a help to character building. The woman who habitually deprives herself of all but essentials is bound to wind up with a pretty low morale eventually.

So, she'd be doing herself and her family a favor if occasionally she's splurge on an investment in her own satisfaction.

Beauty salons thrive on this fact. It's wonderful for the morale of a woman to spend a few hours being thoroughly pampered.

The older woman especially should see to it that she takes her share of proper self-indulgence.

Right now would be a good time to act. Whatever form your action takes, it's likely to be just the spark you need to meet the challenge of spring.

Of course, we're not recommending that anyone put a big dent in her household budget for necessities in order to treat herself to a fashion or beauty luxury.

You'll be looking ahead if you label packages clearly before storing them in the attic or basement locker.

Shaw-Mathewes Vows Pledged In Ruston

Miss Elouise Lynn Mathewes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Mathewes of Ruston, became the bride of Drew Shaw, son of Mr. and Mrs. Keenie Shaw of Ruston in an impressive candlelight ceremony in the First Baptist Church of Ruston. The Rev. G. Avery Lee read the double ring vows.

The church altar was decorated with a background of greenery and baskets of white iris and bridal wreath spiria. A myriad of white cathedral tapers in wrought-iron candelabra illuminated the setting.

Frank Merritt served as organist and accompanied Miss Virginia Lott as she sang "Through the Years" and the "Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was wearing a wedding gown of white chantilly lace over taffeta with a bouffant waltz-length skirt and strapless bodice with a matching lace jacket which featured tight fitted sleeves extending to points over the wrist. Her finger-tip veil of illusion fell gracefully from a Dutch bonnet of matching lace. She carried a white Bible topped by a white purple-throated orchid and white satin streamers tied with lover's knots.

Miss Glenda Mathewes, the bride's sister, was maid of honor. She was attired in a pink taffeta model fashioned with a draped bodice and a full ballerina skirt. She also wore a matching stole-type jacket and carried a colonial bouquet of pink carnations tied with rainbow ribbons and maline.

Bridesmaids were Miss Betty Shaw, sister of the bridegroom, Miss Joyce Mathewes, a cousin of the bride, Miss Sue Baker and Miss Martha Jo Ormand. Their dresses were identical to the maid of honor's in pastel colors. They wore matching headdresses and carried colonial bouquets.

Candlelighters were Dianne Williamson and Rayneele Carnahan, cousins of the bride. They were gowned in pink taffeta three-quarter length dresses with bouffant skirts and headdresses of pink carnations and matching wrist corsages.

Charles Worley served as best man. Groomsmen were Marvin Hart of Haynesville, Jimmy Tarver of Columbia, Jimmy Love of Ruston and Domingas Marsha of Brazil.

The bride's mother chose for the occasion a navy sheer model with navy and white accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

The bridegroom's mother was becomingly attired in a navy lace gown with navy and white accessories complimented by a corsage of pink carnations.

A reception followed in the church parlor.

The bride's table was overlaid with a white Italian linen cloth and centered with the bridesmaids' bouquets and pink tapers in low holders. A two-tiered wedding cake embossed in white and topped by a miniature bride and groom also adorned the table.

Mrs. Charles Worley served the wedding cake. Presiding at the punch service was Miss Jo Ann Frasier who was assisted by Miss Marjorie Louise Liner.

Miss Gloria Jean and Ann Mathewes, cousins of the bride, kept the bride's register.

For traveling, the bride changed to a blue linen suit trimmed in white piping and rhinestones with a pink hat and gloves. She also wore her orchid from her bridal bouquet.

Mrs. Shaw is a graduate of Ruston High School and is in her junior year at Louisiana Tech where she is majoring in physical education. Mr. Shaw finished at Gibsland High School and is a senior at Louisiana Tech where he is majoring in music. He is also a member of Theta Xi.

MR. AND MRS. DREW SHAW

They will make their home at 101 West Georgia Street, Ruston.

Out-of-town guests were: Mrs. Leon Taylor, Mrs. D. Herman Walker, Mrs. W. G. Gardner, Rev. and Mrs. Will Campbell and Bobby Kilpatrick, all of Taylor; Mrs. Frank Moore of Gibsland; Mrs. Gene Speights of Shreveport; Mr. and Mrs. Marvin DeFreese of Monroe.

Rehearsal Supper

The bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John L. Mathewes, were hosts at a rehearsal supper at the First Baptist Church following the rehearsal.

The table was overlaid with a white damask cloth and centered with an arrangement of purple iris and flowering peach with English ivy.

Miss Mathewes was wearing a trousseau model of pink faille with a sequin collar and navy accessories.

Enjoying the occasion with the hosts were: Miss Mathewes and Drew Shaw, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Worley, Mr. and Mrs. Kennie Shaw, Miss Betty Shaw, Mr. Marvin Hunt, Miss Joyce Mathewes, Mr. Jimmy Tarver, Miss Martha Jo Ormand, Mr. Jimmy Love, Miss Sue Baker, Mr. Domingos Marsha, Miss Virginia Lott, Mr. Frank Merritt, Miss Dianne Williamson, Miss Raynelle Carnahan, Mrs. Nell Carnahan, Mrs. G. V. Williamson, Mrs. S. D. Lott.

Get Variety In Floor Coverings

Every room in the house and budgets of all sizes are getting full consideration from the makers of hard - surfaced, resilient floor coverings.

This means that designs are beautifully colored and shaded, and that there's plenty of variety in everything from vinyl and inlaid linoleum to asphalt tiles and felt-base printed rugs. Texture is all-important to the new patterns.

Having scrubbed a good many miles of linoleum, I am quick to appreciate the dirt-concealing advantages of textured effects.

Master linoleum patterns make capital of textured effects on a smooth surface by clever shadings of one color. Because colors go through from top to bottom, long wearing qualities can be expected.

A spatter - dash pattern sparks the eye appeal of one inlaid linoleum. Millions of tiny, bright-colored specks glisten like sequins on a background which might be brilliant or neutral, depending on your needs.

Latin American Theme Used At Altrusa Club Dinner

In a Latin - American setting that featured flower be - decked tables and tiny Latin - American dolls for each guest, the Altrusa Club met at the Rendezvous on Thursday evening for their regular monthly dinner meeting to hear Dr. F. O. Adams, professor of Spanish, and a panel of four students from Louisiana Polytechnic Institute discuss the legendary beauty of some of the Latin - American countries.

The beauty of red and white flowering dogwood, nature's first sign of reawakening here in Monroe, was brought indoors for the enjoyment of guests present. The branches were used in many different arrangements from stark, dramatic Japanese patterns to romantic nosegays on the tables in the entrance where guests were greeted by Dr. Katherine Foster.

The speakers table featured a huge centerpiece made of Japanese straw boots filled with nine magnificent purple orchids surrounded by tall burning green tapers in silver holders. There were garlands of purple, white and yellow orchids down the full length of the U-shaped table interspersed with greenery and softly glowing green candles. The lovely table arrangements were by Dr. Katherine Foster and the orchids were from her garden.

Further carrying out the "Latin-American theme" were the place cards of tiny dolls dressed as Latin Americans, small sombreros on the tables and large serapes draped about the U-shaped table.

Following the four course dinner especially prepared for the occasion, Dr. Foster introduced the moderator and speakers for the evening.

The moderator for the occasion, Dr. F. O. Adams, a graduate of William and Mary College, University of Mexico and University of Illinois, has been associated with La. Tech since 1937 as professor of Spanish and advisor for foreign students. He has traveled extensively in Mexico and foreign countries and was well versed on the Latin - American theme. His hobby is flower raising and he and Mrs. Adams are the proud possessor of some of the most beautiful plants and flowers in Ruston.

The four panel of students appearing on the program were: Domingo Macha of Rio Claro, Brazil, a junior in petroleum engineering; Jose Garcia Baylleres of La Habana, Cuba, a junior in chemistry; Delfin Gomez of Paria Guain, Venezuela, a senior student in civil engineering; and Marwan Ibrahim Mazhar of Jordan in far east, a freshman in civil engineering.

The students spoke easily and naturally of their native lands, bringing in such things as the art, the education, the people themselves; their customs and their past times.

Jose Baylleres told of the beauty of the beaches of Cuba. He also discussed at length the endless banana, cocanut and sugar plantations of Cuba. Ninety per cent of the population of Cuba is Catholic, he stated. He also said the University of Havana was the oldest in the country, founded in the 1700.

Delfin Gomez of Venezuela discussed some of the resources of his homeland, as well as education, social programs and political parties. He stated everyone votes at the age of 18. Like every country in the world, Venezuela, has native specialties which are well worth adding to one's repertory, he stated.

Domingo Macha discussed the people, education, schools and political aspects of his country. He said only Portuguese language is spoken in Brazil, there is no Spanish spoken there. The education in Brazil is like most Spanish countries — called European system of education. Brazil has some of the oldest universities in the country. He also stated Brazil has a democratic form of government, with president elected every four years. Most of the people in Brazil are Catholics.

Marwan Mazhar dwelt at length on the social life, the educational system and religion of the people of Jordan in the middle east. The majority of the people in Jordan and the middle east practice the Moslem faith and are Mohammeds. He stated the social life is very much restricted. There are no co-educational schools and no colleges in Jordan. A large percentage of the two and one half million population in Jordan is Jewish refugees the speaker stated. Jordan is part of Arab world and a member of the Arab league.

Following the address by the four speakers, an open forum was conducted and each student told of his coming to the United States, his schooling here and how much they liked being here.

Among those present to hear these outstanding speakers were: Miss Helen Sype Miss Hilda Ann Hair, Mrs. Christine McDade, Mrs. Gordie Phillips, Mrs. Gladys Smith, Mrs. J. Willett, Miss Mary Benoit, Miss Bernice McCoy, Miss Lillie Glenn, Mrs. Ada Gruber, Miss Ann Mickel, Mrs. Blanch Gates, Mrs. Toni Humphries, Miss Yvonne Brett, Miss Mary Lee Frost, Mrs. Erlene Adams, Mrs. Sara Chisholm, Mrs. Leta Golson, Mrs. Faye Heard, Mrs. Dixie Ware, Mrs. Thelma Bond, Mrs. Addie Lou Juneman, Mrs. Helen Wasson, Miss Agatha Burkett, Miss Emma Lee Short, Mrs. Abbie Leckie, Dr. Katherine Foster and the guests.

NEWLY ELECTED OFFICERS of Delta Kappa Pi are Pat Davis, president, Truley Chapman, vice-president, Kay Cantrell, secretary, Glenda Williams, historian. Not shown, Jeanne Williams, treasurer.

OTHER OFFICERS WHO WILL SERVE until September are Paula Cook, Parliamentarian, Jennie Lou Ervin, Pledge Advisor, Ann Ray, Sergeant-At-Arms, Lydia Varino, Reporter and Mary Ann Ferguson, Pledge Advisor.

Mulled cider is delicious to serve with a snack on a cool night. Heat the cider with brown sugar to taste and a dash of cinnamon, cloves and allspice. If you use a stick of cinnamon and whole cloves and allspice, strain the cider before serving. If you use ground spices, straining is not necessary.

Ammonia and water are all you need to make an eyeglass cleaner. Just pour equal amounts into a bottle.

LFWC Holds 55th Annual Convention

The 55th annual convention of Louisiana Federation of Women's Clubs, held in Shreveport March 25, 26, and 27, 1954, saw the installation of a new slate of officers, headed by Mrs. Carl Stewart, of Shreveport, as president. Other officers to serve with Mrs. Stewart, are: Miss Ethel Watson, of Mangham, 1st vice president; Mrs. Mae R. Oppenheimer, of New Orleans, 2nd vice president; Mrs. Gilbert R. Stiller, of Lafayette, state junior director; Mrs. D. D. Toups, of Raceland, treasurer; Mrs. J. W. Worthington, of Baton Rouge, recording secretary; Mrs. J. Earl Downs, of Shreveport, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. Herman Taylor, Natchitoches, auditor. These officers were installed on Saturday morning, by Mrs. Theodore S. Chapman, 1st vice president of General Federation of Women's Clubs.

The keynote address of Mrs. B. V. Todd, Lake Arthur, the out-going state president, titled "Who Am I" was presented to the convention on Friday morning, and the reports of the district presidents were given on Friday afternoon. Also, on the Friday afternoon session, Mrs. E. Lee Ozbirn, recording secretary of General Federation, spoke on "The Organizational Position of the Federation," and conducted a conference titled "Federation in Action." Taking part in this conference were clubwomen from throughout the state of Louisiana.

Of particular interest was the panel presented on Friday morning by Louisiana state government officials, as they discussed "The State of Louisiana, America's Best Buy."

Mrs. Chapman Talks

The featured speaker on the Friday evening session, Mrs. Theodore S. Chapman, of Jerseyville, Ill., who is 1st vice president and president - elect of General Federation of Women's Clubs, had as her subject "The United Nations as a Clubwoman Sees It." Mrs. Chapman related her experiences while serving as an U. N. observer in Paris, France, and spoke of the attempts of General Federation to secure the return of the 28,000 Greek children who were taken away from their homes into the Soviet dominated section of Europe several years ago.

The highlights in entertainment were a style show, featuring new spring creations, on Friday noon, when clubwomen of fourth district modeled; the state president's banquet on Friday evening; and a reception Friday night, honoring Mrs. Chapman and Mrs. Ozbirn. The musical program was presented by Noel Tipton who gave several piano selections; Billy S. Hilbun, soloist, who was accompanied by Miss Margaret Youngblood; Mrs. Martha Moore Clancy and her daughter Miss Martha Jane Clancy, who assisted with the beautiful memorial service led by Mrs. Samuel Levy; and "The Hour of Charm" program on Friday evening, when the string quartet, pupils of Feliz Ponziani, gave the first and second movement, Quartet No. 16, Mozart. This quartet was composed of Anthony Maio, Robert Price, Thomas Coleman, and Charlotte Mooreman. Also on this program, Mr. A. C. Voran, gave several vocal selections. Mrs. Dan E. McCravy, accompanied by Mrs. Charles E. Vestal, led all of the assembly singing, and sang the state songs of Illinois and Oklahoma on Friday evening when Mrs. Chapman and Mrs. Ozbirn were introduced.

Mrs. McCravy also sang "Lovely Louisiana," the beautiful poem by Mrs. Emma Wilson Emery, poet laureate of Louisiana, which was set to music by Mrs. Rose Silverburg. Mrs. Emery dedicated this poem to Louisiana Federation of Women's Clubs.

Approximately 200 clubwomen from all sections of Louisiana were present for this convention.

On the business agenda, among other items, was the passing of a resolution titled "Hog Law for Pinelands of Louisiana"; the reiteration of a previous resolution calling for an adequate building and adequate funds for the Louisiana State Library; the recommendation from Louisiana Federation that Mrs. Samuel Levy of Natchitoches be reappointed as welfare department chairman of General Federation; the plans for the "Onto - Denver" campaign supporting Mrs. B. V. Todd as Louisiana's candidate for treasurer of General Federation in the June election of officers in Denver, Colo.; and the nomination and election of the 2nd vice president and state junior director of Louisiana Federation.

The invitation for the 56th annual convention to be held in Monroe in the spring of 1955 was given by Mrs. J. H. Pankey, of Ferriday, La., the president of fifth district of Louisiana Federation of Women's Clubs.

Modern Dance Group Performs In Natchitoches

The Modern Dance Group of Texas State College for Women will appear in the Fine Arts Auditorium in Natchitoches at 8:15 p.m., Tuesday, April 6, under the joint sponsorship of the Northwestern State College Concert Association and the Health and Physical Education department.

Fourteen lovely and versatile girls comprise this dance organization, which has been acclaimed by critics throughout the country as the most outstanding college organization of its kind.

The TSCW Modern Dance Group, which is now on its annual spring tour, also has presented its program in Denton and Dallas this spring. Its annual concert and drama series concert at TSCW will be April 30. It has apeared on programs in Oklahoma, Arkansas, Alabama, Illinois, Kansas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Missouri, New Mexico, Tennessee and Texas.

The girls will present four original numbers, "Suite of Dances for the Theatre," gay, active and piquant; "TV Suite," consisting of five dances; "Sun and Sage; the Saga of a Texas Cowboy," dance-drama based on western ballads; and a unnamed suite with a big city setting.

The Suite of Dances includes solo and etnsemble performances. The numbers are "Celebration," gay, active and piquant; "Belle of the Ball," depicting a young girl anticipating her first formal dance; "Chopsticks," presented by eleven dancers as part of a piano keyboard; "Pizzicato Polka," by eight members of the group; and then "Spanish Fantasy," a choreographic treatment of traditional Spanish movement, ranging from the classical to the gypsy style.

All of the dance compositions are original — themes and choreography are developed for the group numbers through contributions of all members under guidance of the directors, and that for solo and duo numbers by the individuals who dance them.

Founder of the group is Dr. Anne Schley Duggan, director of the TSCW department of health, physical education and recreation. Dr. Duggan, now visiting dance festivals in Europe, is an international authority on dance education and has written many books on the subject.

Acting director this spring is Miss Regina Mitchell, TSCW instructor from Gainesville, Tex., assisted by Miss Carolyn Primm, graduate student from 1823 43rd St., Meridian, Miss. Both are dance soloists.

Miss Mary Campbell, formerly with the Ted Shawn School of the Dance, is accompanist-composer. She has been at TSCW for nine years, except for leaves to tour with leading professional dance companies.

The touring group of dancers is composed of the following:

Miss Primm; Billie Ruth Mote, Midland, Tex., president of the club; Jane Perry of Dallas, Tex.; Myrtle Louise Rollins, Corpus Christi, Tex.; Frances Gonzales, Laredo, Tex.; Joann Mauras, Bay City, Tex.; Otilia Garcia, Weslaco, Tex.; and Sarah Hardy and Rosa Rameriz, El Paso, Tex.

Also Ann Birkhead, Parkville, Mo.; Janet Fisher, St. Louis, Mo.; Nan arrington, Carthage, Mo.; Jane Wilson, Ames, Iowa; and Virginia Sue Cottey, Oklahoma City, Okla.

Joyce Faux, Memphis, Tenn., is narrator and singer for the western dance.

The dance group appears under the auspices of the Concert Association and the department of Health and Physical Education. Members of the Concert Association and Northwestern State College students will be admitted upon proper identification. The program will be open to other adults at $1.00 and to children at 50 cents each. The box office opens at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, April 6.

Don't Fight Resentment Of Hand-Me-Downs

Hand-me-downs are almost always popular with mom and rarely ever popular with the small fry.

In a large family such as ours, with cousins, nieces and nephews who span the ages from diapers to long pants, a periodic exchange of outgrown but not out-worn togs is sensible economy.

Close friends also join in the second - hand shift. But the yelp of protest occasionally heard from younger members of the tribe must be respected. Better than ignoring the opposition, a smart mother will put some thought into making hand me-downs more acceptable and the exchange less haphazard.

No article of clothing should be considered hand-me-down material unless it's clean and in good repair. Know the sizes of clothing you have ready to pass along.

Equally important, let your family and friends know the sizes of togs your kids wear. Don't ship an outgrown snowsuit, for example, to a little nephew unless you know the size will be right by next fall.

You'll save yourself time and postage if you compare notes on what's needed before you send a package.

Obvious? You bet. But I just drove to the post office through a snowstorm to pick up a package of sunsuits that will be far too small when the summer rolls around.

When a little child has outgrown an especially beloved dress, I think it's kinder to hand it down to a child living out of town, if you can. I learned the hard way how difficult it was to explain to four-year-old Mary why her favorite beautiful blue dress should be given to a smaller friend when she could no longer squeeze into it.

As a child grows older and more critical of the offerings, sweeten them up a bit. A dollar or two spent on new accessories can turn a protest into acceptance. Bright new brass buttons, for example, can perk up an old navy coat.

Or add a new white collar to put an old coat into the Easter parade with no apologies. Linings that are mended or faded should be abolished in favor of a new, bright - colored, striped or printed lining.

Trim Teens Earn Praise

In a recent article, columnist Ruth Millett applauded teenager's trend away from sloppiness "in dress, speech, hair styles, manners and opinions."

We agree that the demise of the Sloppy Joe era is something to celebrate. And, of course, you teenagers deserve congratulations for turning your backs on the foolish fads of your predecessors.

Now that you are on the right track, we would like to put in a plea for careful attention to grooming when the weather is not with you.

True, it can be time consuming to assemble a coordinated ensemble when clouds burst suddenly. You probably feel you're lucky to have time to switch coats and grab a scarf and umbrella before dashing for the school bus.

But if you prepare in advance for such situations (and at this time of year they're inevitable), you'll have no problem.

This is when the advantage of purchasing a neutral color raincoat is evident. Should you be already dressed when the bad weather warning comes, you won't have to worry about your dress and coat clashing.

Latin American Theme Used At Altrusa Club Dinner

In a Latin - American setting that featured flower be - decked tables and tiny Latin - American dolls for each guest, the Altrusa Club met at the Rendezvous on Thursday evening for their regular monthly dinner meeting to hear Dr. F. O. Adams, professor of Spanish, and a panel of four students from Louisiana Polytechnic Institute discuss the legendary beauty of some of the Latin - American countries.

The beauty of red and white flowering dogwood, nature's first sign of reawakening here in Monroe, was brought indoors for the enjoyment of guests present. The branches were used in many different arrangements from stark, dramatic Japanese patterns to romantic nosegays on the tables in the entrance where guests were greeted by Dr. Katherine Foster.

The speakers table featured a huge centerpiece made of Japanese straw boots filled with nine magnificent purple orchids surrounded by tall burning green tapers in silver holders. There were garlands of purple, white and yellow orchids down the full length of the U-shaped table interspersed with greenery and softly glowing green candles. The lovely table arrangements were by Dr. Katherine Foster and the orchids were from her garden.

Further carrying out the "Latin-American theme" were the place cards of tiny dolls dressed as Latin Americans, small sombreros on the tables and large serapes draped about the U-shaped table.

Following the four course dinner especially prepared for the occasion, Dr. Foster introduced the moderator and speakers for the evening.

The moderator for the occasion, Dr. F. O. Adams, a graduate of William and Mary College, University of Mexico and University of Illinois, has been associated with La. Tech since 1937 as professor of Spanish and advisor for foreign students. He has traveled extensively in Mexico and foreign countries and was well versed on the Latin - American theme. His hobby is flower raising and he and Mrs. Adams are the proud possessor of some of the most beautiful plants and flowers in Ruston.

The four panel of students appearing on the program were: Domingo Macha of Rio Claro, Brazil, a junior in petroleum engineering; Jose Garcia Baylleres of La Habana, Cuba, a junior in chemistry; Delfin Gomez of Paria Guain, Venezuela, a senior student in civil engineering; and Marwan Ibrahim Mazhar of Jordan in far east, a freshman in civil engineering.

The students spoke easily and naturally of their native lands, bringing in such things as the art, the education, the people themselves; their customs and their past times.

Jose Baylleres told of the beauty of the beaches of Cuba. He also discussed at length the endless banana, cocanut and sugar plantations of Cuba. Ninety per cent of the population of Cuba is Catholic, he stated. He also said the University of Havana was the oldest in the country, founded in the 1700.

Delfin Gomez of Venezuela discussed some of the resources of his homeland, as well as education, social programs and political parties. He stated everyone votes at the age of 18. Like every country in the world, Venezuela, has native specialties which are well worth adding to one's repertory, he stated.

Domingo Macha discussed the people, education, schools and political aspects of his country. He said only Portuguese language is spoken in Brazil, there is no Spanish spoken there. The education in Brazil is like most Spanish countries — called European system of education. Brazil has some of the oldest universities in the country. He also stated Brazil has a democratic form of government, with president elected every four years. Most of the people in Brazil are Catholics.

Marwan Mazhar dwelt at length on the social life, the educational system and religion of the people of Jordan in the middle east. The majority of the people in Jordan and the middle east practice the Moslem faith and are Mohammeds. He stated the social life is very much restricted. There are no co-educational schools and no colleges in Jordan. A large percentage of the two and one half million population in Jordan is Jewish refugees the speaker stated. Jordan is part of Arab world and a member of the Arab league.

Following the address by the four speakers, an open forum was conducted and each student told of his coming to the United States, his schooling here and how much they liked being here.

Among those present to hear these outstanding speakers were: Miss Helen Sype Miss Hilda Ann Hair, Mrs. Christine McDade, Mrs. Gordie Phillips, Mrs. Gladys Smith, Mrs. J. Willett, Miss Mary Benoit, Miss Bernice McCoy, Miss Lillie Glenn, Mrs. Ada Gruber, Miss Ann Mickel, Mrs. Blanch Gates, Mrs. Toni Humphries, Miss Yvonne Brett, Miss Mary Lee Frost, Mrs. Erlene Adams, Mrs. Sara Chisholm, Mrs. Leta Golson, Mrs. Faye Heard, Mrs. Dixie Ware, Mrs. Thelma Bond, Mrs. Addie Lou Juneman, Mrs. Helen Wasson, Miss Agatha Burkett, Miss Emma Lee Short, Mrs. Abbie Leckie, Dr. Katherine Foster and the guests.

OTHER OFFICERS WHO WILL SERVE until September are Paula Cook, Parliamentarian, Jennie Lou Ervin, Pledge Advisor, Ann Ray, Sergeant-At-Arms, Lydia Varino, Reporter and Mary Ann Ferguson, Pledge Advisor.

Mulled cider is delicious to serve with a snack on a cool night. Heat the cider with brown sugar to taste and a dash of cinnamon, cloves and allspice. If you use a stick of cinnamon and whole cloves and allspice, strain the cider before serving. If you use ground spices, straining is not necessary.

Ammonia and water are all you need to make an eyeglass cleaner. Just pour equal amounts into a bottle.

LFWC Holds 55th Annual Convention

The 55th annual convention of Louisiana Federation of Women's Clubs, held in Shreveport March 25, 26, and 27, 1954, saw the installation of a new slate of officers, headed by Mrs. Carl Stewart, of Shreveport, as president. Other officers to serve with Mrs. Stewart, are: Miss Ethel Watson, of Mangham, 1st vice president; Mrs. Mae R. Oppenheimer, of New Orleans, 2nd vice president; Mrs. Gilbert R. Stiller, of Lafayette, state junior director; Mrs. D. D. Toups, of Raceland, treasurer; Mrs. J. W. Worthington, of Baton Rouge, recording secretary; Mrs. J. Earl Downs, of Shreveport, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. Herman Taylor, Natchitoches, auditor. These officers were installed on Saturday morning, by Mrs. Theodore S. Chapman, 1st vice president of General Federation of Women's Clubs.

The keynote address of Mrs. B. V. Todd, Lake Arthur, the out-going state president, titled "Who Am I" was presented to the convention on Friday morning, and the reports of the district presidents were given on Friday afternoon. Also, on the Friday afternoon session, Mrs. E. Lee Ozbirn, recording secretary of General Federation, spoke on "The Organizational Position of the Federation," and conducted a conference titled "Federation in Action." Taking part in this conference were clubwomen from throughout the state of Louisiana.

Of particular interest was the panel presented on Friday morning by Louisiana state government officials, as they discussed "The State of Louisiana, America's Best Buy."

Mrs. Chapman Talks

The featured speaker on the Friday evening session, Mrs. Theodore S. Chapman, of Jerseyville, Ill., who is 1st vice president and president - elect of General Federation of Women's Clubs, had as her subject "The United Nations as a Clubwoman Sees It." Mrs. Chapman related her experiences while serving as an U. N. observer in Paris, France, and spoke of the attempts of General Federation to secure the return of the 28,000 Greek children who were taken away from their homes into the Soviet dominated section of Europe several years ago.

The highlights in entertainment were a style show, featuring new spring creations, on Friday noon, when clubwomen of fourth district modeled; the state president's banquet on Friday evening; and a reception Friday night, honoring Mrs. Chapman and Mrs. Ozbirn. The musical program was presented by Noel Tipton who gave several piano selections; Billy S. Hilbun, soloist, who was accompanied by Miss Margaret Youngblood; Mrs. Martha Moore Clancy and her daughter Miss Martha Jane Clancy, who assisted with the beautiful memorial service led by Mrs. Samuel Levy; and "The Hour of Charm" program on Friday evening, when the string quartet, pupils of Feliz Ponziani, gave the first and second movement, Quartet No. 16, Mozart. This quartet was composed of Anthony Maio, Robert Price, Thomas Coleman, and Charlotte Mooreman. Also on this program, Mr. A. C. Voran, gave several vocal selections. Mrs. Dan E. McCravy, accompanied by Mrs. Charles E. Vestal, led all of the assembly singing, and sang the state songs of Illinois and Oklahoma on Friday evening when Mrs. Chapman and Mrs. Ozbirn were introduced.

Mrs. McCravy also sang "Lovely Louisiana," the beautiful poem by Mrs. Emma Wilson Emery, poet laureate of Louisiana, which was set to music by Mrs. Rose Silverburg. Mrs. Emery dedicated this poem to Louisiana Federation of Women's Clubs.

Approximately 200 clubwomen from all sections of Louisiana were present for this convention.

On the business agenda, among other items, was the passing of a resolution titled "Hog Law for Pinelands of Louisiana"; the reiteration of a previous resolution calling for an adequate building and adequate funds for the Louisiana State Library; the recommendation from Louisiana Federation that Mrs. Samuel Levy of Natchitoches be reappointed as welfare department chairman of General Federation; the plans for the "On-to - Denver" campaign supporting Mrs. B. V. Todd as Louisiana's candidate for treasurer of General Federation in the June election of officers in Denver, Colo.; and the nomination and election of the 2nd vice president and state junior director of Louisiana Federation.

The invitation for the 56th annual convention to be held in Monroe in the spring of 1955 was given by Mrs. J. H. Pankey, of Ferriday, La., the president of fifth district of Louisiana Federation of Women's Clubs.

Modern Dance Group Performs In Natchitoches

The Modern Dance Group of Texas State College for Women will appear in the Fine Arts Auditorium in Natchitoches at 8:15 p.m., Tuesday, April 6, under the joint sponsorship of the Northwestern State College Concert Association and the Health and Physical Education department.

Fourteen lovely and versatile girls comprise this dance organization, which has been acclaimed by critics throughout the country as the most outstanding college organization of its kind.

The TSCW Modern Dance Group, which is now on its annual spring tour, also has presented its program in Denton and Dallas this spring. Its annual concert and dram a series concert at TSCW will be April 30. It has apeared on programs in Oklahoma, Arkansas, Alabama, Illinois, Kansas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Missouri, New Mexico, Tennessee and Texas.

The girls will present four original numbers, "Suite of Dances for the Theatre," gay, active and piquant; "TV Suite," consisting of five dances; "Sun and Sage; the Saga of a Texas Cowboy," dance-drama based on western ballads; and a unnamed suite with a big city setting.

The Suite of Dances includes solo and etnsemble performances. The numbers are "Celebration," gay, active and piquant; "Belle of the Ball," depicting a young girl anticipating her first formal dance; "Chopsticks," presented by eleven dancers as part of a piano keyboard; "Pizzicato Polka," by eight members of the group; and then "Spanish Fantasy," a choreographic treatment of traditional Spanish movement, ranging from the classical to the gypsy style.

All of the dance compositions are original — themes and choreography are developed for the group numbers through contributions of all members under guidance of the directors, and that for solo and duo numbers by the individuals who dance them.

Founder of the group is Dr. Anne Schley Duggan, director of the TSCW department of health, physical education and recreation. Dr. Duggan, now visiting dance festivals in Europe, is an international authority on dance education and has written many books on the subject.

Acting director this spring is Miss Regina Mitchell, TSCW instructor from Gaineville, Tex., assisted by Miss Carolyn Primm, graduate student from 1823 43rd St., Meridian, Miss. Both are dance soloists.

Miss Mary Campbell, formerly with the Ted Shawn School of the Dance, is accompanist-composer. She has been at TSCW for nine years, except for leaves to tour with leading professional dance companies.

The touring group of dancers is composed of the following:

Miss Primm; Billie Ruth Mote, Midland, Tex., president of the club; Jane Perry of Dallas, Tex.; Myrtle Louise Rollins, Corpus Christi, Tex.; Frances Gonzales, Laredo, Tex.; Joann Mauras, Bay City, Tex.; Otilia Garcia, Weslaco, Tex.; and Sarah Hardy and Rosa Rameriz, El Paso, Tex.

Also Ann Birkhead, Parkville, Mo.; Janet Fisher, St. Louis, Mo.; Nan arrington, Carthage, Mo.; Jane Wilson, Ames, Iowa; and Virginia Sue Cottey, Oklahoma City, Okla.

Joyce Faux, Memphis, Tenn., is narrator and singer for the western dance.

The dance group appears under the auspices of the Concert Association and the department of Health and Physical Education. Members of the Concert Association and Northwestern State College students will be admitted upon proper identification. The program will be open to other adults at $1.00 and to children at 50 cents each. The box office opens at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, April 6.

Don't Fight Resentment Of Hand-Me-Downs

Hand-me-downs are almost always popular with mom and rarely ever popular with the small fry.

In a large family such as ours, with cousins, nieces and nephews who span the ages from diapers to long pants, a periodic exchange of outgrown but not out-worn togs is sensible economy.

Close friends also join in the second - hand shift. But the yelp of protest occasionally heard from younger members of the tribe must be respected. Better than ignoring the opposition, a smart mother will put some thought into making hand me-downs more acceptable and the exchange less haphazard.

No article of clothing should be considered hand-me-down material unless it's clean and in good repair. Know the sizes of clothing you have ready to pass along.

Equally important, let your family and friends know the sizes of togs your kids wear. Don't ship an outgrown snowsuit, for example, to a little nephew unless you know the size will be right by next fall.

You'll save yourself time and postage if you compare notes on what's needed before you send a package.

Obvious? You bet. But I just drove to the post office through a snowstorm to pick up a package of sunsuits that will be far too small when the summer rolls around.

When a little child has outgrown an especially beloved dress, I think it's kinder to hand it down to a child living out of town, if you can. I learned the hard way how difficult it was to explain to four-year-old Mary why her favorite beautiful blue dress should be given to a smaller friend when she could no longer squeeze into it.

As a child grows older and more critical of the offerings, sweeten them up a bit. A dollar or two spent on new accessories can turn a protest into acceptance. Bright new brass buttons, for example, can perk up an old navy coat.

Or add a new white collar to put an old coat into the Easter parade with no apologies. Linings that are mended or faded should be abolished in favor of a new, bright - colored, striped or printed lining.

Trim Teens Earn Praise

In a recent article, columnist Ruth Millett applauded teenager's trend away from sloppiness "in dress, speech, hair styles, manners and opinions."

We agree that the demise of the Sloppy Joe era is something to celebrate. And, of course, you teenagers deserve congratulations for turning your backs on the foolish fads of your predecessors.

Now that you are on the right track, we would like to put in a plea for careful attention to grooming when the weather is not with you.

Girl Scout News

Things are going into high gear in Scouting these days, what with plans for all kinds of camping and the camp rally and the trip to Wawbansee. At the camp rally Friday night the Wawbansee folders made their appearance. It sounds as if there is a lot of interest being shown in the first established camp the local council has undertaken to operate.

Until May 1, only registered Scouts from our own council may enroll for camp. After that, any girl whether a Scout or not, may enroll. Though the camp will not be held until August, it is wise for parents to investigate and to sign up their daughters as soon as possible. Full information is given on the camp folder, which will be mailed to any person requesting one from the Girl Scout office.

To let the girls and their parents see what the camp is like, the camp committee has made arrangements for a trip to Wawbansee, the Shreveport Girl Scout Camp, on April 24, the Saturday after Easter. Any girl may go by turning in to the Scout office a permission blank signed by her parents and by paying a nominal sum for bus fare. Permission blanks containing necessary information were given out at the camp rally and are available from the office and from troop leaders.

It surely sounds like fun. Are you making plans to go?

Camping at Pine Wood goes on, with Troop 37 being the last to use the camp. It was the first overnight for these first-year intermediates, and they made the most of it. Janet Andrews and Lorraine Ragland were in charge of the troop for the overnight, with Mrs. Charles Wilds, Mrs. Sam Cook, Mrs. Edna Shaughnessy and Mrs. E. P. Macknik furnishing transportation.

The girls enjoyed the grape-vine swing, the hike to the river and the echo, cooking out of doors, and sleeping side by side on the porch. The following girls participated: Joan Battaglia, Virginia Conte, Gail Dyer, Delores Fontana, Elissa Lozano, Martha Lucas, Diane Macknik, Rose Mary Masters, Sarah Shaughnessy, Mary Louise Thomas, Connie Trout, Maria Varino, Rosalie Varino, Veronica Wilds and Cecie Wood.

Several weeks ago we mentioned the new Brownie troops in the college neighborhood and gave the names of leaders and girls of Troop 1. We have information now on Troops 16 and 54. Here are the names: Troop 16 has Mrs. G. F. Breard and Mrs. Stanley Jones as leaders, Mrs. John Sherrouse, Jr., Mrs. H. W. Morton, Mrs. T. E. Galbraith as committee members, and the following girls, Nancy Rae Barton, Anne Breard, Faye Cannon, Dianne Entrican, Rebecca Gresham, Margaret Jones, Martha Jones, Martha Meeks, Evelyn Lucile Morton, Deas Parrish, Susan Sherrouse, Sally Wing, Avon Walcott and Bunny Galbraith.

The leaders of Troop 54 are Mrs. W. B. Stancil and Mrs. Cora Grower, and Mrs. Marjore Lewis and Mrs. Elsie D. Dupont as troop committee members, and the following girls: Gloria Jean Abraham, Gail Elizabeth Dupont, Robbie Gail Hicks, Linda Faye Johnston, Cynthia Rae Lewes, Brenda Moseley, Gloria Stancil, Glenda Grower and Gloria Minor.

Skin And Hair Need Special Care

Each year, more and more people are discovering that the sea's ever - changing tempo, its salt air, balmy breezes and the special appeal of the sky over it are just what they need to shed their weariness.

The sea has a unique capacity both to soothe and to stimulate. And that's the prefect prescription for most vacationers.

Wonderful as they are for the spirit, however, the sun, salt air and winds on the ocean do play havoc with a girl's hair and skin.

You may feel like a Viking maid when standing in the prow of a ship but, unless yuo take care, you'll feel like Cinderella at 12:05 on the dance floor.

To learn how you can have your ocean fun and beauty, too, we consulted the head beautician of the liner America.

The first rule is to lubricate your face, neck and arms at least once a day with a lanolin - rich cream to counteract the drying effect of the wind and water.

Particular care should be given to the elbows and heels, which are always inclined to be rough and dry.

If you never before found it necessary to use a dry-skin cream, read the directions carefully. Use gentle upward strokes only in applying it.

Before you set out for a game of deck tennis or lazing by the pool, this expert advises using the lubricating cream in addition to suntan oil.

Apply the cream first and remove the excess with facial tissues. Be sure all of the cream is off the surface before putting on your suntan preparation.

To counteract the damage the elements will do to your hair, be faithful to your hair brush and use lanolin - based hair preparations daily.

The America's beauty expert recommends brushing both morning and night. She also suggests that you rub lotion into your scalp once a day. In addition, she says, applying a conditioning cream directly to the hair will help preserve its pretty sheen.

The elements will doom your hair to dishevelment unless you are prepared to take action against them.

Here's how to give yourself a quick set: Pin your hair up dry in medium - sized or large curls. Wring out a towel in steaming hot water and wrap it turban-fashion around your head. Remove it after five minutes and slip on a net. Your curls should be ready to comb out in about 15 minutes.

Then apply one of the many spray nets now available. Instead of applying it directly to your hair, spray the solution onto your brush. This method insures even distribution.

After you have combed your hair into place, spray the liquid net directly to the hairline.

As an extra precaution, pack several hair bands and scarves. There's an endless array of these in the department stores now. You should find some that will both control and flatter your coiffure.

According to this beautician, whether you're off for Europe or merely beach - bound, this beauty regimen should help you.

Groom Clothes For Storage

By now, the women of the nation are pondering the perrenial problem of storing winter clothes. It's rather an irksome chore that we hope to get over with as fast as possible.

Here is an instance where haste really can make waste, and where it hurts the most — in your budget.

Before consigning your clothes to the storage chest, you should go through them carefully to weed out any garments that lost favor with you this winter.

Decide either to give them to a charitable organization or to renovate them for next fall.

If you decide on the latter, make those changes right away so the clothes will be ready to wear when you want them. If you put off the task until fall, the chances are you'll never get around to it.

Your clothes shoull be thoroughly cleaned before they are stored. If they need dry cleaning, don't think you can afford to wait until fall to send them. Doing that is inviting moth invasion. Furthermore, the longer soil and stains remain in clothing, the less likely they are to come out in cleaning.

Girl Scout News

Things are going into high gear in Scouting these days, what with plans for all kinds of camping and the camp rally and the trip to Wawbansee. At the camp rally Friday night the Wawbansee folders made their appearance. It sounds as if there is a lot of interest being shown in the first established camp the local council has undertaken to operate.

Until May 1, only registered Scouts from our own council may enroll for camp. After that, any girl whether a Scout or not, may enroll. Though the camp will not be held until August, it is wise for parents to investigate and to sign up their daughters as soon as possible. Full information is given on the camp folder, which will be mailed to any person requesting one from the Girl Scout office.

To let the girls and their parents see what the camp is like, the camp committee has made arrangements for a trip to Wawbansee, the Shreveport Girl Scout Camp, on April 24, the Saturday after Easter. Any girl may go by turning in to the Scout office a permission blank signed by her parents and by paying a nominal sum for bus fare. Permission blanks containing necessary information were given out at the camp rally and are available from the office and from troop leaders.

It surely sounds like fun. Are you making plans to go?

Camping at Pine Wood goes on, with Troop 37 being the last to use the camp. It was the first overnight for these first-year intermediates, and they made the most of it. Janet Andrews and Lorraine Ragland were in charge of the troop for the overnight, with Mrs. Charles Wilds, Mrs. Sam Cook, Mrs. Edna Shaughnessy and Mrs. E. P. Macknik furnishing transportation.

The girls enjoyed the grape-vine swing, the hike to the river and the echo, cooking out of doors, and sleeping side by side on the porch. The following girls participated: Joan Battaglia, Virginia Conte, Gail Dyer, Delores Fontana, Elissa Lozano, Martha Lucas, Diane Macknik, Rose Mary Masters, Sarah Shaughnessy, Mary Louise Thomas, Connie Trout, Maria Varino, Rosalie Varino, Veronica Wilds and Cecie Wood.

Several weeks ago we mentioned the new Brownie troops in the college neighborhood and gave the names of leaders and girls of Troop 1. We have information now on Troops 16 and 54. Here are the names: Troop 16 has Mrs. G. F. Breard and Mrs. Stanley Jones as leaders, Mrs. John Sherrouse, Jr., Mrs. H. W. Morton, Mrs. T. E. Galbraith as committee members, and the following girls, Nancy Rae Barton, Anne Breard, Faye Cannon, Dianne Entrican, Rebecca Gresham, Margaret Jones, Martha Jones, Martha Meeks, Evelyn Lucile Morton, Deas Parrish, Susan Sherrouse, Sally Wing, Avon Walcott and Bunny Galbraith.

The leaders of Troop 54 are Mrs. W. B. Stancil and Mrs. Cora Grower, and Mrs. Marjore Lewis and Mrs. Elsie D. Dupont as troop committee members, and the following girls: Gloria Jean Abraham, Gail Elizabeth Dupont, Robbie Gail Hicks, Linda Faye Johnston, Cynthia Rae Lewes, Brenda Moseley, Gloria Stancil, Glenda Grower and Gloria Minor.

Skin And Hair Need Special Care

Each year, more and more people are discovering that the sea's ever - changing tempo, its salt air, balmy breezes and the special appeal of the sky over it are just what they need to shed their weariness.

The sea has a unique capacity both to soothe and to stimulate. And that's the prefect prescription for most vacationers.

Wonderful as they are for the spirit, however, the sun, salt air and winds on the ocean do play havoc with a girl's hair and skin.

You may feel like a Viking maid when standing in the prow of a ship but, unless yuo take care, you'll feel like Cinderella at 12:05 on the dance floor.

To learn how you can have your ocean fun and beauty, too, we consulted the head beautician of the liner America.

The first rule is to lubricate your face, neck and arms at least once a day with a lanolin - rich cream to counteract the drying effect of the wind and water.

Particular care should be given to the elbows and heels, which are always inclined to be rough and dry.

If you never before found it necessary to use a dry-skin cream, read the directions carefully. Use gentle upward strokes only in applying it.

Before you set out for a game of deck tennis or lazing by the pool, this expert advises using the lubricating cream in addition to suntan oil.

Apply the cream first and remove the excess with facial tissues. Be sure all of the cream is off the surface before putting on your suntan preparation.

To counteract the damage the elements will do to your hair, be faithful to your hair brush and use lanolin - based hair preparations daily.

The America's beauty expert recommends brushing both morning and night. She also suggests that you rub lotion into your scalp once a day. In addition, she says, applying a conditioning cream directly to the hair will help preserve its pretty sheen.

The elements will doom your hair to dishevelment unless you are prepared to take action against them.

The action, our advisor says, should include frequent settings, spray nets and practical adornments.

Here's how to give yourself a quick set: Pin your hair up dry in medium - sized or large curls. Wring out a towel in steaming hot water and wrap it turban-fashion around your head. Remove it after five minutes and slip on a net. Your curls should be ready to comb out in about 15 minutes.

Then apply one of the many spray nets now available. Instead of applying it directly to your hair, spray the solution onto your brush. This method insures even distribution.

After you have combed your hair into place, spray the liquid net directly to the hairline.

As an extra precaution, pack several hair bands and scarves. There's an endless array of these in the department stores now. You should find some that will both control and flatter your coiffure.

According to this beautician, whether you're off for Europe or merely beach - bound, this beauty regimen should help you.

Groom Clothes For Storage

By now, the women of the nation are pondering the perrenial problem of storing winter clothes. It's rather an irksome chore that we hope to get over with as fast as possible.

Here is an instance where haste really can make waste, and where it hurts the most — in your budget.

Before consigning your clothes to the storage chest, you should go through them carefully to weed out any garments that lost favor with you this winter.

Decide either to give them to a charitable organization or to renovate them for next fall.

If you decide on the latter, make those changes right away so the clothes will be ready to wear when you want them. If you put off the task until fall, the chances are you'll never get around to it.

Your clothes should be thoroughly cleaned before they are stored. If they need dry cleaning, don't think you can afford to wait until fall to send them. Doing that is inviting moth invasion. Furthermore, the longer soil and stains remain in clothing, the less likely they are to come out in cleaning.

My Answer

By Billy Graham

QUESTION: Do you not think you are presumptuous, to talk with so much assurance about spiritual matters when there are others who are as qualified and yet are not as assured? D.R.O.

ANSWER: If at any time I undertake to preach the gospel on the basis of my own wisdom I shall surely be rightly called presumptuous. At all times I try to preach the Gospel message as presented in the Bible. I have no authority other than the authority of God's Word and I find that where the Scriptures are preached that the Holy Spirit honors the Word, not my word but God's Word. The experience of the centuries shows that God always honors His Word. He gave us the Bible as a revelation of His truth and He wants us to hear what He says to us in that Book. It is presumptuous to preach man's wisdom. It is wise to preach God's truth from His word.

Today's YOUR GUIDING STAR Messages:

0. Cor. 6:2. Now is the acceptable time.
1. Ps. 147:3. Healeth the broken in heart, and bindeth up their wounds.
2. Is. 32:18. Abide in a peaceful habitation, in secure dwellings, and in quiet resting places.
3. I Chron. 22:13. You will prosper if you are careful.
4. I Tim. 4:15. Practice duties, devote yourself to them.

Dr. Floyd Chaffin Will Be Featured Speaker

Dr. Floyd B. Chaffin, executive secretary of Louisiana Baptists, will be the featured speaker at the Monday meeting of the district three Baptist preachers conference. The meeting will convene in the Peniel Baptist Church, West Monroe, at 10:00 a. m. Dr. R. J. West is pastor of the host church. Dr. Chaffin is the leader of activities of the cooperative efforts of over one thousand Baptist churches in Louisiana.

A large number of preachers from the twin city area are expected to be present to hear him according to Rev. O. P. Bazer, secretary of the group.

Dr. Tommy Welch of Sterlington will also appear on program. He will bring an exposition of the scriptures. Dr. A. T. Mitchell is the president of the group and will preside at the sessions.

Rev. H. L. Sampson, president of the district three convention, has announced also that there will be a meeting of the district program committee at 9:00 a. m. prior to the preachers meeting.

Evangelist From California To Lead Revival

Evangelist Carl Bassett of Los Angeles, Calif., will begin a two-week revival series at the Central Baptist Church of Monroe beginning today and closing on Easter Sunday, April 18. Evangelist Bassett is known from coast to coast and has conducted revival meetings in many of the churches in the state. He is well known as the three-in-one evangelist, trombonist and chalk artist. He leads his own singing, and has the songs projected on a screen. In each service he draws a beautiful colored chalk picture and it is given to the one who brings the greatest number of people to the services. During his sermon he uses beautiful colored slides to emphasize the great gospel truths.

His messages are what he says a sermon ought to be: "Not a shot of cocaine but a spiritual torpedo." He holds his audience spell-bound during the half-hour he preaches. He uses choice words and preaches straight from the shoulder and aims fearlessly at sin — sin in the lives of Christian people as well as the unsaved. His messages grip the mind and soul, and a decision must be made when he comes to his conclusion.

Pentecostals In Revival; Noted Leader Secured

The Pentecostal Church is holding an old fashioned revival at their church, 1600 South Second street, Monroe. A fine talented leader is in charge and is Mrs. Mildred Bibble, formerly of Monroe.

She is both a marvelous speaker and skilled musician.

The public is cordially invited. Night services at 7:30 o'clock and a great crowd is anticipated.

Rev. Ratelle Is To Speak Here At Grace Church

The Rev. Robert E. Ratelle, rector of the Church of the Redeemer, Ruston, will preach at Grace Church on Tuesday night at 7:30. He is to be the final guest preacher to be presented at Grace Church in a series of special evangelical services during Lent.

The Rev. Ratelle is a native of New Orleans. He is a graduate of Tulane University and of the School of Theology of the University of the South, Sewanee, Tenn. Prior to going to Ruston he served as curate at Saint James' Episcopal Church, Alexandria. He is also chaplain of Episcopal students, Louisiana Polytechnic College, Ruston. In January he was elected dean of the northern convocation of the diocese of Louisiana.

The Rev. John M. Allin, rector of Grace Episcopal Church, extends a cordial welcome to friends of Grace Church to attend this service.

Maybe it still isn't too late to save for next summer's vacation, if you want to get away with it.

Bible Words to Live by

JAMES 4:17—"To him that knoweth to do good, and doeth it not, to him it is sin."

• • •

James, the author of this epistle, is said to have been a very practical man, and this epistle is filled with many practical injunctions. In this chapter, he calls our attention to the brevity of life and the uncertainty as to the time of death, then it is when he makes this striking statement, "To him that knoweth to do good, and doeth it not, to him it is sin."

This statement places the responsibility squarely on the Christian of whom James was speaking. To him that is aware that he ought to do good and fails, it places a penalty on him. He is hampering the spread of the good news to others and is therefore guilty of the sin of omission.

We are told that Jesus "went about doing good, and healing all that were oppressed of the devil; for God was with him", ACTS 10:38. The positive side of this statement is rendering help to those who need help. Jesus healed the sick, raised the dead, opened the eyes of the blind, the ears of the deaf, and brought joy to those that needed help. It is our privilege to know "to do good" and do it. "Be ye doers of the word and not hearers only, deluding yourselves."

My Answer

By Billy Graham

QUESTION: Do you not think you are presumptuous, to talk with so much assurance about spiritual matters when there are others who are as qualified and yet are not as assured? D.R.O.

ANSWER: If at any time I undertake to preach the gospel on the basis of my own wisdom I shall surely be rightly called presumptuous. At all times I try to preach the Gospel message as presented in the Bible. I have no authority other than the authority of God's Word and I find that where the Scriptures are preached that the Holy Spirit honors the Word, not my word but God's Word. The experience of the centuries shows that God always honors His Word. He gave us the Bible as a revelation of His truth and He wants us to hear what He says to us in that Book. It is presumptuous to preach man's wisdom. It is wise to preach God's truth from His word.

Dr. Floyd Chaffin Will Be Featured Speaker

Dr. Floyd B. Chaffin, executive secretary of Louisiana Baptists, will be the featured speaker at the Monday meeting of the district three Baptist preachers conference. The meeting will convene in the Peniel Baptist Church, West Monroe, at 10:00 a. m. Dr. R. J. West is pastor of the host church. Dr. Chaffin is the leader of activities of the cooperative efforts of over one thousand Baptist churches in Louisiana.

A large number of preachers from the twin city area are expected to be present to hear him according to Rev. O. P. Bazer, secretary of the group.

Dr. Tommy Welch of Sterlington will also appear on program. He will bring an exposition of the scriptures. Dr. A. T. Mitchell is the president of the group and will preside at the sessions.

Rev. H. L. Sampson, president of the district three convention, has announced also that there will be a meeting of the district program committee at 9:00 a. m. prior to the preachers meeting.

Evangelist From California To Lead Revival

Evangelist Carl Bassett of Los Angeles, Calif., will begin a two-week revival series at the Central Baptist Church of Monroe beginning today and closing on Easter Sunday, April 18. Evangelist Bassett is known from coast to coast and has conducted revival meetings in many of the churches in the state. He is well known as the three-in-one evangelist, trombonist and chalk artist. He leads his own singing, and has the songs projected on a screen. In each service he draws a beautiful colored chalk picture and it is given to the one who brings the greatest number of people to the services. During his sermon he uses beautiful colored slides to emphasize the great gospel truths.

His messages are what he says a sermon ought to be: "Not a shot of cocaine but a spiritual torpedo." He holds his audience spell-bound during the half-hour he preaches. He uses choice words and preaches straight from the shoulder and aims fearlessly at sin — sin in the lives of Christian people as well as the unsaved. His messages grip the mind and soul, and a decision must be made when he comes to his conclusion.

Pentecostals In Revival; Noted Leader Secured

The Pentecostal Church is holding an old fashioned revival at their church, 1600 South Second street, Monroe. A fine talented leader is in charge and is Mrs. Mildred Bibble, formerly of Monroe.

She is both a marvelous speaker and skilled musician.

The public is cordially invited. Night services at 7:30 o'clock and a great crowd is anticipated.

Rev. Ratelle Is To Speak Here At Grace Church

The Rev. Robert E. Ratelle, rector of the Church of the Redeemer, Ruston, will preach at Grace Church on Tuesday night at 7:30. He is to be the final guest preacher to be presented at Grace Church in a series of special evangelical services during Lent.

The Rev. Ratelle is a native of New Orleans. He is a graduate of Tulane University and of the School of Theology of the University of the South, Sewanee, Tenn. Prior to going to Ruston he served as curate at Saint James' Episcopal Church, Alexandria. He is also chaplain of Episcopal students, Louisiana Polytechnic College, Ruston. In January he was elected dean of the northern convocation of the diocese of Louisiana.

The Rev. John M. Allin, rector of Grace Episcopal Church, extends a cordial welcome to friends of Grace Church to attend this service.

Maybe it still isn't too late to save for next summer's vacation, if you want to get away with it.

Bible Words to Live by

JAMES 4:17—"To him that knoweth to do good, and doeth it not, to him it is sin."

* * *

James, the author of this epistle, is said to have been a very practical man, and this epistle is filled with many practical injunctions. In this chapter, he calls our attention to the brevity of life and the uncertainty as to the time of death, then it is when he makes this striking statement, "To him that knoweth to do good, and doeth it not, to him it is sin."

This statement places the responsibility squarely on the Christian of whom James was speaking. To him that is aware that he ought to do good and fails, it places a penalty on him. He is hampering the spread of the good news to others and is therefore guilty of the sin of omission.

We are told that Jesus "went about doing good, and healing all that were oppressed of the devil; for God was with him", ACTS 10:38. The positive side of this statement is rendering help to those who need help. Jesus healed the sick, raised the dead, opened the eyes of the blind, the ears of the deaf, and brought joy to those that needed help. It is our privilege to know "to do good" and do it. "Be ye doers of the word and not hearers only, deluding yourselves."

THE HOME SHIFT—

With Mildred Swift

Bellingrath Visit Is Story Of Beauty

Whatever kind of weather you like, you've had it this week. All except snow for the little ones and Arkansas even had that. Regardless of the weather, Monroe yards continue to be outstanding.

Garden Ramblins

A number of people have called asking the name of the white tree blooming now. It's fringe tree sometime called Granddaddy gray beard. They're native, growing in the woods in West Monroe.

After this cool spell you can put out your hibiscus and your caladium bulbs.

Don't worry if the leaves on your established American hollys are turning yellow and falling off. This is typical of the tree; as the new leaves put out. Yellow leaves on your azaleas is a different story. When the new leaves put out, spray with iron sulphate, one or two teaspoons to a gallon of water. Yellow leaves can be caused from a shortage of iron or magnesium; starvation because they haven't been fertilized for several years; poor drainage; or the plant is too deep in the ground. Azaleas must have their roots close to the surface. In case there is a shortage of magnesium, you could dissolve a pound of epson salts in five gallons of water and put a quart around each plant, out at the edge of the spread of the branches. Neither this nor iron sulphate will take the place of the fertilizing you should have done as the plant shed their blooms.

For Lenten Meals

Families looking for foods to supply the protein need for the meatless days can look to fish and eggs to supply your usual major role in meals. Eggs are reasonable in price and plentiful. Besides fresh fish, you have frozen and canned to consider. Cheese is at a new low in price to combine with the eggs for casserole dishes. Other plentiful foods for the month are: Grapefruit, potatoes, cabbage, onions, celery, broilers, peanuts, raisins, oranges, greens, carrots, butter and other dairy products.

My Visit To Bellingrath

Many of you have visited the Bellingrath gardens in Mobile a number of times, but for the benefit of you who have never been—here goes. The drive from Jackson was almost a dogwood lane. This we enjoyed almost as much as the gardens. Bridal wreath and wisteria were used almost as often as azaleas; wisteria in large trees and pruned as a shrub or tree. Bridal wreath was banked behind the azaleas and the white brought out the color in the blooms.

Needless to say their azaleas bloom more profusely than ours, because of the humidity there. This side of Hattisburg there were several motor courts where azaleas and dogwoods were naturalized on slopes in pine thickets. Pines were growing in the woods and the gardens as well as mammouth old oaks. Their knarled branches indicated they were hundreds of years old.

I didn't realize the Mahonia Holly would thrive in such dense shade as they were growing at Bellingrath. The garden is a typical study in plants that grow without much sun. It was interesting to note that our common asperdistra and lirope were used in large clumps and masses. All kinds of trees, just about any you could name cast heavy shadows. Of course, the azaleas love this shade and grow to immense proportions. On several slopes the dwarf varieties completely covered the ground. Other ground corners used were all varieties of ivy and monkey grass. The latter was used extensively in yards in Mobile under the large trees. Everything was mulched with oak leaves and pine straw. Not a heavy mulch because through years of decaying leaves, the grass and weed problem has been whipped.

I noticed an interesting way the gardeners used vines. An iron pipe was driven in the ground and a piece of fence wire wrapped around it. The vine grew on the wire to the top then cascade in all directions. A pretty way to grow wisteria, red honeysuckle and climbing roses. We don't use enough of the latter in our beds. They're so much less trouble than the bush roses.

The mountain laurel was just as beautiful as the azaleas and camellias. Mrs. Conger has a number of these in her garden in Arcadia. Mr. Roach says they'll grow well here and he can probably get some plants next year.

The boulevards and parks in the city of Mobile were very beautiful and well kept. Not just one here and one there but every street. They used azaleas which of course would not be practical for us, but we have plants equally as beautiful. If we'll help Mr. Joe Ellis keep up his good work, in a few more years our city streets, parks and boulevards will be equally as outstanding. That is—if each of us will vow not to be a litter bug and disfigure what has been done.

SOUTHERN GARDENER—

By William Lanier Hunt

April Chores For The Hot Pull Ahead

There are certain routine jobs to be done in a garden in April if we are to have a good summer and fall display of flowers. The garden needs fertilizing if this has not been done. The fall flowers like asters and chrysanthemums need attention. Winter weeds have to be dug out or pulled out by the roots, and a good mulch has to be put over the soil to hold down summer weeds and to preserve the moisture of the soil. Then we need to take stock of what plants we have to do the work of keeping the garden full of flowers all through the drouths and heat from now till October. There are, of course, all sorts of flossy plants which will give you a short time show and then stop blooming. These will soon let you down, and the wise gardener sees to it in April that the long blooming plants that can take our summer climate are plentiful for the long hot pull.

Gardeners often ask how much of a complete fertilizer to apply to their flower beds. The answer is: about four pounds of 5-10-5, 6-8-6, 6-10-4, 4-12-4, 5-5-5 per hundred square feet. That is, use four pounds (a pint of most fertilizers) to each section that is ten feet long and ten feet wide. If you have the sprinkler or hose ready before you start to fertilize, then you can scatter the fertilizer over your flower beds and sprinkle the beds at once. Fertilizer must not be left on the plants any length of time at all, so be sure that you do not scatter it over more area than you can sprinkle well enough to completely wash it off the leaves within ten minutes. If the sun is shining, fertilizer will burn foliage all the quicker. You can actually feel it burn your hand, so you can see what it will do to tender foliage. How often should you fertilize the garden? That depends upon a lot of things. If the soil is not rich to begin with, that is, if you are trying to grow plants on badly prepared soil with little humus in it, then you should feed your plants with a light sprinkling of fertilizer once a month but not necessarily with the amount indicated above. Again, if you have let weeds come in and rob your garden of plant food, it will need to be replaced. A big crop of weeds pulled off the beds means that a lot of food has gone into them. Put them on the compost pile, and get it back when the humus from their dead bodies comes back to the flower beds. Sandy soils need fertilizing more often than clay soils because fertilizer has a tendency to go down with the rains to a point below where plants can get it. Again, if you are growing great big plants or a great many perennials close together, they will need to be fed, on clay soils, about three times from spring till fall in most gardens to do their best for you "But," you may say, " . . . I haven't put any fertilizer on my bed in two or three years, and it does all right." You must be growing plants on good garden soil, but they will soon need food.

This is the time to dig up those old clumps of chrysanthemums, Salvia farinacea, all kinds of fall asters and anemones and separate them. The chrysamthemums can be just dug with ball of soil and then dropped on the ground from a standing position till all the soil falls off. Divide them up and save only the sturdiest looking single shoots and small clumps for replanting. Before you set these few back, however, be sure to dig some humus and some bone meal into the soil and thoroughly recondition it. This is your big chance to improve the soil in your flower bed. If you will work in humus and bone meal each time you dig and reset plants, your beds will be kept in the best possible condition. A lot of gardeners prefer to leave their perennials in the same bed without taking all of them up in any one year, and they do it this way. Treat the salvias the same way you did the chrysanthemums. They will not flower much in spent soil. Anemones do not multiply as rapidly as fall asters and chrysanthemums, but they will benefit by division when they are old and crowded. If they are not flowering much and still have not multiplied, you should dig them enrich their soil and re-set them at once. The bone meal we recommend is to supply phosphorous very slowly in the soil and save us from having to apply it frequently.

Daylilies, Salvia farniacea, rudbeckia in the new and very fine varieties which have come out in the past ten years, lythrum in the new varieties we have discussed in past columns, stokesia, gaillardias, Salvia azurea, S. pitcheri, S. longifolia subsessilis, santolina for low grey masses in the full sun, artemisia Silver King, all the kinds of crinums you can lay your hands on, montbretias, tigridias, Sedum spectabile, and for white spikes in the shade in the Fall Cimicifuga Armleuchter. These are some of the tough long blooming things we have discussed before. We repeat them at the special request of some of our readers who say they lose some of the columns they clip to keep in their garden notebooks from week to week.

Exhibit Rules To Follow

By CARRIE PERRY MCKENZIE

(Guest Writer)

Your columnist and secretary of the garden center, Mary Margaret Jardine, left this week with Mr. Jardine for a visit with his parents in Munich, Ill. Mr. and Mrs. Jardine, Sr. are celebrating their sixty-first wedding anniversary.

Mary Margaret took her blue ribbon tulip Fantasy which contributed much to the occasion by being in full and glorious bloom. Mrs. Jardine's sister sent this bulb from Holland.

Many clubs are holding shows in April and May. Here are a few tips to arrangement exhibitors. First read your schedule, then reread it. If there are any questions about what materials can be used or how the definition of the class is to be 'interpreted don't guess, call the arrangement chairman and find out. Next, decide which class of arrangement appeals to you most. The judges, too, will have studied the schedule and will assume that the exhibitor had done the same.

When judging the exhibit they will expect to find out: 1. The exhibitor had complied with the rules of the schedule in every detail. 2. The arrangement is in good proportion to the allotted space. 3. It has good design. 4. It has good color harmony. 5. The plant material is in good condition. 6. The arrangement has distinction and originality.

With this clearly in mind decide on the container, accessory, fabric and plant material you will use all of which must be harmonious in color and texture. In a flower show use plant material you are familiar with. Always use a container that will hold plenty of water. To be sure, stage a full-dress rehearsal a day or two before the show.

Books that give you good advice on exhibiting in flower shows are: "Flower Arrangement" by F. F. Rockwell and Ester C. Grayson; "Arrangements Judged" by Marie Stevens Wood. For horticulture exhibitors, I refer you to "Garden Center Notes" of March 23, 1954.

The show this past week at the Garden Center was staged by the Mer Rouge Garden Club. Mrs. W. T. Blackwell and Mrs. Joe Davenport won first place in arrangement for a beautiful asymmetrical triangle of iris in a low bowl. Mrs. Leslie Clark won second place with a distinctive original arrangement of buck-eye and red-brown fungus using pixies as an accessory.

Third place went to Mrs. E. T. Davidson with an arrangement of yellow tulips in a brass Chinese bowl using a Chinese figurine as an accessory.

A scarlet Fantasy Narcissus exhibited by Mrs. Joe Davenport took first place in horticulture, an anemone exhibited by Mrs. E. T. Davidson took second place.

An important date to remember —the fifth district Garden Clubs' officers and program planning forum at the Garden Center in Monroe at 10 a m. Saturday, April 10th, 1954, followed by a luncheon at the Bayou DeSiard Country Club. All interested members are invited. Call or write the Garden Center for reservations.

Bellingrath Visit Is Story Of Beauty

Whatever kind of weather you like, you've had it this week. All except snow for the little ones and Arkansas even had that. Regardless of the weather, Monroe yards continue to be outstanding.

Garden Ramblins

A number of people have called asking the name of the white tree blooming now. It's fringe tree sometime called Granddaddy gray beard. They're native, growing in the woods in West Monroe.

After this cool spell you can put out your hibiscus and your caladium bulbs.

Don't worry if the leaves on your established American hollys are turning yellow and falling off. This is typical of the tree; as the new leaves put out. Yellow leaves on your azaleas is a different story. When the new leaves put out, spray with iron sulphate, one or two teaspoons to a gallon of water. Yellow leaves can be caused from a shortage of iron or magnesium; starvation because they haven't been fertilized for several years; poor drainage; or the plant is too deep in the ground. Azaleas must have their roots close to the surface. In case there is a shortage of magnesium, you could dissolve a pound of epson salts in five gallons of water and put a quart around each plant, out at the edge of the spread of the branches. Neither this nor iron sulphate will take the place of the fertilizing you should have done as the plant shed their blooms.

For Lenten Meals

Families looking for foods to supply the protein need for the meatless days can look to fish and eggs to supply your usual major role in meals. Eggs are reasonable in price and plentiful. Besides fresh fish, you have frozen and canned to consider. Cheese is at a new low in price to combine with the eggs for casserole dishes. Other plentifuls foods for the month are: Grapefruit, potatoes, cabbage, onions, celery, broilers, peanuts, raisins, oranges, greens, carrots, butter and other dairy products.

LET'S EXPLORE YOUR MIND

By ALBERT EDWARD WIGGAM, D. Sc.
Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

Answer to Question No. 1

1. No. I've debunked this before, but new evidence from the Tufts Medical College gives further indication that the pituitary gland, at the base of the brain, has much to do with how fat or lean you are. The calories you eat affect your weight, but the pituitary gland apparently has something to say about how much of your intake goes into fat.

Answer to Question No. 2

2. Yes. Bird experts say that some species of birds won't even reproduce unless they are in a social group. More incubator chicks die than those with a mother that teaches them to play and search for food together. Most birds eat in groups rather than alone.

Answer to Question No. 3

3. No, they merely reveal a person as heroic. A hero or heroine has been defined as a person who happened to be on the spot at the right time and made good. Such an occasion merely furnishes opportunity for a hero to show himself.

Why Grow Old?

Swimming Fine Exercise; Practice Strokes At Home

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

It will soon be swimming time again! This sport is a great figure molder. Take it to your heart and silhouette this summer. It is also an outdoor exercise which should be taken down through life with you because it can be indulged in at any age and, therefore, is such a fine family sport.

Since age does not inhibit its sensible use, it can be enjoyed by the family as a whole; children, teen-agers, mother and father, grandmother and great-grandmother. Swimming is often allowed when more strenuous exercise is prohibited because of some physical defect.

If you have left swimming off for years because of figure faults or lack of skill, get rid of the figure faults and take some swimming lessons so you can enjoy this wonderfully cooling, lovely and relaxing sport with your family this summer.

Finest Exercise

The breast stroke is one of the finest spinal exercises you could take, it is also a bust developer, and is effectively corrective to round shoulders and a flabby instead leg line and protruding abdomen. The overarm stroke is an even more effective bust developer.

Why not practice a few parts of these strokes on dry land while you wait for summer to come? First let us take the overarm stroke. Stand tall with your feet comfortably separated. Reach forward with the right arm as the left moves back. Pull down and back vigorously with the right arm as the left reaches forward. Now pull down and back hard with the left arm as the right reaches forward. Continue.

You can also execute the arm movement for the breast stroke in your own bedroom. Stand erect. Raise your arms forward to shoulder height, palms facing. Turn your palms toward the back of the room as you move them backward as far as comfortable, shoulder height. Bend your elbows and bring the palms together in front of your bust. Straighten your elbows and push the arms forward to the starting position. Continue.

If you would like to have my leaflet No. 22, "Learn to Swim!" send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper. You can teach yourself or your children to swim.

Tomorrow: "Children Now Married? Move Into New Interests."

She attended school regularly and made a very high rating in all subjects. On February 16, 1954 she was graduated and ready to enter a new field.

Miss Thornton has now reached another rung on her ladder of success. Upon graduation from B M I she accepted a position as secretary to the Minister of Education and Music for the First Baptist Church of Monroe.

LET'S EXPLORE YOUR MIND

By ALBERT EDWARD WIGGAM, D. Sc.
Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

Answer to Question No. 1

1. No. I've debunked this before, but new evidence from the Tufts Medical College gives further indication that the pituitary gland, at the base of the brain, has much to do with how fat or lean you are. The calories you eat affect your weight, but the pituitary gland apparently has something to say about how much of your intake goes into fat.

Answer to Question No. 2

2. Yes. Bird experts say that some species of birds won't even reproduce unless they are in a social group. More incubator chicks die than those with a mother that teaches them to play and search for food together. Most birds eat in groups rather than alone.

Answer to Question No. 3

3. No, they merely reveal a person as heroic. A hero or heroine has been defined as a person who happened to be on the spot at the right time and made good. Such an occasion merely furnishes opportunity for a hero to show himself.

Swimming Fine Exercise; Practice Strokes At Home

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

It will soon be swimming time again! This sport is a great figure molder. Take it to your heart and silhouette this summer. It is also an outdoor exercise which should be taken down through life with you because it can be indulged in at any age and, therefore, is such a fine family sport.

Since age does not inhibit its sensible use, it can be enjoyed by the family as a whole; children, teen-agers, mother and father, grandmother and great-grandmother. Swimming is often allowed when more strenuous exercise is prohibited because of some physical defect.

If you have left swimming off for years because of figure faults or lack of skill, get rid of the figure faults and take some swimming lessons so you can enjoy this wonderfully cooling, lovely and relaxing sport with your family this summer.

Finest Exercise

The breast stroke is one of the finest spinal exercises you could take, it is also a bust developer, and is effectively corrective to round shoulders and a flabby inner leg line and protruding abdomen. The overarm stroke is an even more effective bust developer.

Why not practice a few parts of these strokes on dry land while you wait for summer to come? First let us take the overarm stroke. Stand tall with your feet comfortably separated. Reach forward with the right arm as the left moves back. Pull down and back vigorously with the right arm as the left reaches forward. Now pull down and back hard with the left arm as the right reaches forward. Continue.

You can also execute the arm movement for the breast stroke in your own bedroom. Stand erect. Raise your arms forward to shoulder height, palms facing. Turn your palms toward the back of the room as you move them backward as far as comfortable, shoulder height. Bend your elbows and bring the palms together in front of your bust. Straighten your elbows and push the arms forward to the starting position. Continue.

If you would like to have my leaflet No. 22, "Learn to Swim!" send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper. You can teach yourself or your children to swim.

Tomorrow: "Children Now Married? Move into New Interests."

My Love Of Lions

By DANA ANDREWS

HOLLYWOOD, April 3 — A man never guesses the kind of stuff from which he is made until he has sat motionless while a robust lion on the loose makes a sniffing inspection of his person after the manner of a dog with an unfamiliar bone.

I can't speak for others, but under such circumstances, frankly, I felt like warmed-over ham hash. And not just because the animal ambled off into the African bush and left me untouched.

It was in Kruger National Park, the immense game preserve of the Transvaal, and I was bumping along a barely defined dirt road in a jeep with Manny Laxton, a white hunter, on the way to that day's location site for "Duel in the Jungle," Technicolor adventure film which Jeanne Crain, David Farrar and I did for Warner Bros.

The lion was sunning himself, sprawled in the middle of the—shall I say—"lion-path"?, and the bush was too high on either side to go around him. And since Kruger Park's fine is pretty steep for running over lions, Manny jerked the jeep to a stop.

"Perfectly safe," he announced in a whisper. "Wild animals don't bother people in automobiles. They don't associate humans with the smell of gasoline. Just sit still."

I sat still. I was powerless to do anything else. The lion got up, loped to the jeep, put his head inside and sniffed Manny's leg, padded around to my side and sniffed me thoroughly.

I worried that the smell of a human at such close range might predominate over the odor of gasoline. Apparently not. The beast—I can call him a handsome beast now, from this same distance of time and miles—then ambled off.

Manny threw the jeep into gear with as much aplomb as if he had merely halted for a traffic light on 42nd Street and Broadway.

As for me, when we arrived at the location site I asked George Marshall, our director, if he could arrange to shoot all my scenes that day with me sitting down. My legs were wobbly.

"How times change!" George quipped. "Once Christians were thrown to the lions. Now a lion has thrown one back."

In all, we travelled about 20,000 miles by plane on our safari for our picture. Our major location sites were in and near Johannesburg, Pretoria, and Kruger National Park in South Africa, and Victoria Falls in Northern Rhodesia. One gets to know people pretty well on a junket like this, and believe me, we had a great company. Jeanne Crain and David Farrar, are a pair of people I will always want for friends.

The going was sometimes rugged, and at all times exciting, and there were few days that resembled the popular picture of "a day in the life of a movie star." There was the one, for instance . . .

George Marshall was elated when the company moved to Northern Rhodesia and an ideal location site along the Zambesi where the river was just "jumping" with crocodiles. For one scene, I was to be swimming along (except for the crocodiles) for a few feet of film, then to be joined by Jeanne and David.

While the camera and light reflectors were being set up, I offered Jeanne a cruise in a cute little boat fashioned by natives, from a tree trunk. And apparently the natives have a knack of balancing these craft, because we had no more than pushed off from the bank, when ours did the neatest barrel-roll I have ever seen and left us floating in the water—with the crocodiles. Dry land was a wonderful sensation.

A local authority, and expert marksman, assured us that there was nothing to be alarmed about—crocodiles were timid creatures—as he loaded his rifle to stand guard while we filmed the scene.

Afterward George vowed that everything else would be easy. I guess he meant by comparison, but that's all in how you look at it. We played another scene with a 13-foot python dangling over our heads. But of course, there was nothing to worry about. A couple of men stood guard with rifles just in case . . .

There was the elephant stampede. We were supposed to be caught in it. But here again—expert shots stood by with elephant guns. But, I'll never forget the feeling when that lion—the real thing—gave me a once-over sniffing. It was a lucky day for me when gasoline was developed.

Your Problems

By ANN LANDERS

To "Shocked" and Ann Landers: You two creeps give me a pain! What's such a sin about sleeping in underwear? And why insinuate that "longies" sleepers don't bathe? Both my husbands (my first one passed away) and father have always slept in their undies. The route, however, is a bath, clean undies and then bed. Why should I try to change a man's routine . . . or you two, either? I'll bet "Shocked's" husband was shocked when he saw her for the first time without her make-up and props, too. She ought to be glad he is an undie sleeper as it saves ironing pajamas. If that is his worst "sin," she has a lot for which to be thankful! — Mrs. G. W.

Dear Mrs. Landers: That letter about the young husband sleeping in his undies, was a "WOW!" Is that all he does that doesn't suit his young bride? Wake up, "Shocked," I've been happily married for 27 years and believe me I wouldn't let a suit of underwear mar my marriage! — Mrs. M. J. R.

Dear Ann Landers: Since when is sleeping in "drawers" (underwear to you civilians) a "dirty" habit? I have been in the navy for six years and never once wore pajamas. Since I started this "dirty" habit, I am not troubled with pajama legs creeping up on me at night and making me uncomfortable. The heck with you, I'll stick to my "drawers" at night and be comfortable. If "shocked" has forgotten in a short six months that part of her marriage vows said, "for better or for worse," she had better read them again . . . or sleep on the couch. — A Comfortable Sailor.

Note from Ann Landers to Kinsey: Your next book, sir, should be one based on "Sleeping Habits and Apparel of the Human Race."

Louisiana Will Have Quota Of 5 Air Force Cadets

WASHINGTON (Special) —The air force notified Louisiana congressmen Friday that the state will have a quota of five cadets for the first air force academy class, slated to begin in July, 1955.

Louisiana's two senators and eight house members may nominate up to ten candidates each for appointment to the "West Point of the air." After holding competitive examinations, the air force will choose the lucky five who actually will enter the academy from the state.

President Eisenhower has signed a bill authorizing creation of the academy. The academy will be located temporarily at an existing air force base, with the first class scheduled for entry in July, 1955.

Operations will switch to the permanent academy, site of which will be chosen by a special site selection board, two years later.

The first class will include only 300 cadets, thereby making necessary the special appointment method outlined in the air force letter. Once the academy is in full swing, the same appointment system will be used as for West Point and Annapolis.

The air force has not yet announced where the temporary academy will be located.

Small hats with shallow crowns are most important for spring. And designers have succeeded in creating styles becoming to everybody. The girl who has thought her face too large to wear a small hat will be happily surprised if she is willing to look about.

HOW TO STOP MOTH DAMAGE

But after 1 year, fabrics protected with naphthalene (old fashioned moth balls or crystals) showed 70% damage from moths.

SO EASY TO USE!
A FLICK OF THE FINGER DOES IT!
No messy spray guns or awkward containers. Finger-tip push button on the aerosol container makes it easy to mothproof suits, coats, dresses, blankets, and woolens in a matter of minutes.

THE PRICE IS NICE!

AFTER SLAYING A LION IN THE WILDERNESS, SAMSON COMES TO TIMNATH...WHERE ENEMY PHILISTINES ARE WAITING TO LOOK UPON THE ISRAELITE WHO DARES TO MARRY ONE OF THEIR FAIREST....

AS MIGHTY SAMSON ENTERS THE GATE OF HIS FUTURE FATHER-IN-LAW, THERE IS A SHOUT OF RIBALD LAUGHTER....

"IS THIS THE BRIDEGROOM COME BEGGING FOR THE BRIDE," SAYS ONE, WHO IS NOTED FOR HIS WIT, "...OR A TATTERED BEGGAR LOOKING FOR A CRUST OF BREAD?"

ALWAYS A LOVER OF JOKES, SAMSON JOINS IN THE LAUGH... "BE IT A BRIDE OR BREAD--I AM TOLD THAT WHEN MY HAND STRETCHES FORTH, IT ALWAYS RECEIVES SOMETHING..!"

THEN WITH LIGHTNING-LIKE SUDDENNESS, THE "BEGGING" HAND BECOMES A POWERFUL PERSUADER...

...AND SAMSON STRIDES OFF TO THE INNER COURT HAVING HAD HIS JOKE--AND WITH PROFIT...FOR HIS TATTERS ARE NOW COVERED BY RICH RAIMENT!

"BY THE RIGHT EYE OF DAGON", SAYS ONE, LOOKING AFTER HIM, "I CARE FOR NO MORE JESTING!"

AS SAMSON WATCHES, THE WEDDING ARRANGEMENTS ARE COMPLETED AND THE PASSING OF A SHOE SEALS THE CONTRACT. BY CUSTOM, HE MUST NOW WAIT FOR THIRTY DAYS BEFORE THE MARRIAGE FEAST CAN BEGIN.

RETURNING TO TIMNATH AFTER THIRTY DAYS, CURIOSITY LEADS SAMSON TO THE PLACE OF HIS ENCOUNTER WITH THE LION....

...AND HE FINDS THAT BEES HAVE MADE A NEST IN THE CARCASS--AND THE HONEY IS GOOD!

HE SHARES THE FIND WITH HIS PARENTS...BUT WILL NOT TELL FROM WHENCE THE HONEY WAS TAKEN...

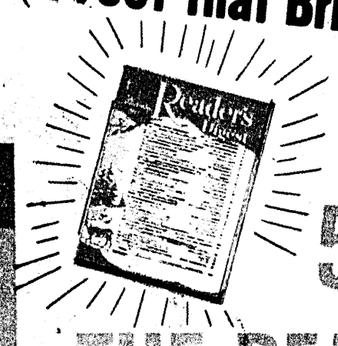
Reader's Digest Reports:

ONLY NEW COLGATE DENTAL CREAM with Miracle Anti-Enzyme Ingredient GARDOL* HAS THE CLINICAL PROOF!

(Proof that Brings New Hope to Millions for LIFETIME PROTECTION AGAINST TOOTH DECAY)



5 QUICK FACTS FROM THE READER'S DIGEST ARTICLE

"What About Anti-Enzyme Toothpastes?" December, 1953

1. Reader's Digest says—The most effective anti-enzyme toothpaste ingredient tested was developed in the Colgate laboratories,

(It's Colgate's miracle ingredient Gardol (Sodium N-Lauroyl Sarcosinate)—found in no other leading toothpaste!)

2. Reader's Digest says—One of the foremost dental authorities in the world proved that this ingredient binds itself effectively to the teeth—holds acid formation below the decay level in 95 per cent of cases tested.

(Unlike ordinary toothpaste ingredients, effective only for minutes, this protection won't rinse off—won't wear off—all day or all night!)

3. Reader's Digest says—Even 12 hours after brushing, this new Colgate anti-enzyme discovery continues to guard against the enzymes that cause tooth decay.

(Thus, just daily morning and night brushings guard against decay-causing enzymes every minute of the day and night!)

4. Reader's Digest says—In clinical tests, supervised by leading dental authorities—for a full year—people who used ordinary toothpastes averaged almost two and a half times more new cavities than those who used New Colgate Dental Cream with Gardol (Sodium N-Lauroyl Sarcosinate). In fact, of the group using New Colgate's, 4 out of 5 developed no new cavities at all!

(A group of distinguished dentists examined this evidence and agreed—New Colgate Dental Cream with Gardol gives the surest protection against tooth decay ever offered by any toothpaste!)

5. Reader's Digest says—New Colgate Dental Cream is the only toothpaste with clinical proof of its effectiveness in actually reducing the formation of new cavities.

By LEE FALK and WILSON McCOY

ON GULLIQUE ISLE.

THE CASINO IS THIS WAY, SIR.

THANK YOU. I'LL STROLL FIRST.

THESE CUT-THROATS ARE POLITE TO TOURISTS.

A SMUGGLERS' HAVEN. NO GOVERNMENT HERE EXCEPT THAT OLD PIRATE GANG.

I'D BETTER FOLLOW HIM.

~WE DON'T WANT SOME THUG TO TAKE HIS ROLL BEFORE HE GETS TO OUR CASINO~~

OH, HELLO~I'VE NEVER SEEN SO MUCH FIGHTING. ARE THE MEN HERE ALL SO TOUCHY?

WELL, MAYBE THE BOYS' NERVES ARE ON EDGE. HAS TO DO WITH THAT DOUBLE RAINBOW. A SILLY YARN~~

BAR

Your nose tells you what your eyes can't see

Next time you take your wash out of the machine, we'd like you to do us (and yourself) a favor. It will take only a second. First, look at it; then smell it. You can tell how clean your laundry looks by using your eyes. But your nose tells you how clean it really is.

Your nose "sees" below the surface, deep down inside the cloth fibers themselves. And that's where SURF comes into its own. SURF doffs its cap to no product when it comes to getting white things white and hard-to-wash play or work clothes clean-looking. But it doesn't stop at the surface. SURF gets things clean clear through, so clean that they smell like sunshine.

We'll match SURF against any product in the world and we'll let you be the judge. If you don't think that today's SURF does a better job, we at Lever Brothers want to be the first to know about it. We'll refund every cent you paid (including the postage) in return for the information.

When you wash them with Surf they smell like SUNSHINE

AIRMAIL. Laundries are so slow in some European places that a few impatient people have their shirts flown to New York City, washed, and flown back. Takes just three days, so I'm told.

The rain clouds stay
Far, far away
And give no slightest sign;
Yet only lurk
To spring to work
When wash is on the line.

FOLLOW YOUR NOSE. Did you know that smell is the keenest of all your senses? You can detect one drop of camphor in 400,000 drops of water. When we tell you to smell your laundry to see if it's really clean, we really mean it. Try it and see why so many women insist on today's Surf.

STEVE CANYON

by MILTON CANIFF

STEVE AND HERSELF MULDOON, TIED TOGETHER AND THROWN FROM THE AIRPLANE BY THE DRUG-CRAZED PILOT, HANG FROM THE EMPTY CRAFT BY A TOW CABLE THE WOMAN WAS ABLE TO HOOK ONTO... THE SHIP CRUISES ON AUTO-PILOT AFTER THE ADDICT FALLS FROM THE PLANE...

A STEAMER'S CREW SEES THE DANGLING FIGURES AND CONTACTS THE NEAREST U.S. NAVY PATROL PLANE...

NO RADIO SIGNAL FROM THE AIRCRAFT, SIR!

HAWKEYE, THE AIRPLANE MUST BE A DERELICT RUNNING ON AUTO-PILOT! NO WAY OF KNOWING HOW MUCH FUEL IT HAS LEFT...

WE CAN'T GO IN CLOSE ENOUGH TO PULL THOSE PEOPLE TOWARD US—EVEN WITH A GRAPPLING HOOK...

ANY ORDERS, HAWKEYE? THIS IS BLUE ONE SEVEN... OVER

BLUE ONE SEVEN, IF THE DERELICT'S FUEL HOLDS OUT ON THAT HEADING WE SHOULD HAVE IT ON OUR RADAR SOON. STAY WITH IT! OVER...

HERB, HOW FAST CAN YOUR CREW PULL THAT WINCH UNIT OUT OF THE HELICOPTER?

GOOD! MORRIE, RUN UP THE 47! WE'LL DO A MODIFICATION IN FLIGHT!

ROGER, SKIPPER!

SKIPPER! GOT THE DERELICT AND BLUE ONE SEVEN—VISUAL AT TEN O'CLOCK!

ROGER! TELL ONE SEVEN WE'RE GOING ABOVE THE DERELICT!.. BREAK OUT THE BASKET!

SYNCHRONIZING SPEEDS WITH THE INDASIA AIRCRAFT, THE RESCUE PLANE HOVERS JUST ABOVE—AS A METAL BASKET IS RUN OUT AND DOWN TO WHERE STEVE AND HERSELF MULDOON HANG HELPLESS
